Favored Treatment To Estes Denied

Agriculture Dept. Blames Ike's Regime

But Official Says He Questioned Texan's Operations In 1960

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department denied Monday that it had given favored treatment to Billie Sol Estes, a Texas farmer-financier now under fraud indictment, and claimed his grain-storage operations first had flourished under the Eisenhower administration.

But one department official said that as early as 1960 he had questioned Estes' financial responsibility and wondered about a hands-off policy in regard to the Texan's bond to cover his storage of government-owned grain.

These were highlights of early testimony as the first public congressional hearings began into the fantastic operations of the now bankrupt former millionaire.

The House government operations subcommittee was told that it was in May 1960 that a Dallas official of the Agriculture Department had questioned Estes' financial empire and asked his superiors whether a hands-off policy on bond requirements should be continued.

Asked About Higher Bond

In a letter to his Washington superiors, the Dallas official, C. H. Mosely, cited a Dun & Bradstreet report on Estes' operations that showed them as exceedingly complex and involving large-scale indebtedness by Estes.

Mosely wrote: "Do you think we should continue our 'hands-off' policy or require additional bonding?"

Rep. Ross Bass, D-Tenn., asked Mosely if he were trying in the letter "to tell officials in Washington that there was a rotten apple in the barrel?"

Mosely replied, "The only thing wrong that I saw was that there should be a higher bond because of his rapid growth and the size of his operation."

Actually, Estes' bond requirement for storing government owned surplus grain in his warehouses was increased later that year to more than $500,000.

Chairman L. H. Fountain, D-N.C., read a reply to Mosely from his Washington higher-up, Roland Ballou, which cited several department reports on Estes and said consideration would be given to raise the bond. It was dated June 1960.

Conflict In Testimony

This conflicted with Ballou's own testimony that he first had heard the name of Billie Sol Estes in September 1961 and then heard nothing beyond rumors in the trade until March 28, 1962, the day before Estes was arrested by FBI agents on fraud charges.

Ballou conceded he had mentioned the Estes' name in the letter in reply to Mosely in 1960, but he insisted it was just a form letter and "the name meant absolutely nothing to me."

Asked if someone had told him to keep hands off Estes, Mosely said he had chosen the words himself and put them in quotation marks only because it was not the usual language for a formal department communication.

Ballou, the first witness, denied ever having met Estes and added: "The government has not lost and will not lose any money on the Estes grain-storage operation."

Ballou insisted that Estes was deep into the grain-storage business before the Kennedy administration took over the Department Agriculture in 1961. He said that of $7,648,474 thus far paid for storage of grain in Estes' properties, "all except $328,000 is chargeable to the previous administration."

Detonation At 400-Mile Height Set

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government announced Monday that in about four days the United States will begin a series of high altitude nuclear tests over Johnston Island in the Pacific.

The series is expected to include the highest nuclear explosion yet set off by man, at an altitude of 400 to 600 miles.

A joint announcement by the Defense Department and Atomic Energy Commission said the initial blast will be equal to less than one million tons of TNT and will be at an altitude of "tens of kilmeters." A kilometer is 62 hundredths of a mile.

At least two tests will follow at altitudes of "hundreds of kilometers." One of the two will be equal to more than a million tons of TNT.

The lengthy announcement gave assurances that no permanent damage will be done to the Van Allen radiation belt around the earth.

It detailed brilliant effects which may be seen with the naked eye from Hawaii, 800 miles away, and mentioned auroral effects that may be seen 2,000 miles away in the Samoan Islands.

No visual impairment will result to persons viewing these effects with the naked eye from outside the testing area, the agency said, but they warned:

"Observation of the detonations through binoculars, telescopes, or other light-concentrating optical instruments could result in eye damage at points outside of the established testing area."

The Johnston Island experiments will be the second phase of the new U.S. atmospheric test program started April 25. To date 14 nuclear devices have been exploded in the Christmas Island test area of the Pacific, most of them dropped from planes.

Monday's announcement said the Johnston Island explosions will be similar to a high-altitude test code-named "Teak" which created a brilliant fireball 18 miles in diameter at an altitude of 50 miles in the summer of 1958.

Thai Border Clash Could Spread War

Situation Created By Laos Red Drive Called Precarious

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—Diplomats expressed fear Monday that a pro-Communist drive again threatening Houei Sai in northwest Laos may prompt Thailand to demand direct intervention in the Laotian civil war.

On the political front, the absence of Premier Prince Boun Oum and Gen. Phoumi Nosavan, his strong-minded defense minister, on an aid-seeking mission to the Philippines, annoyed the United States at this critical moment in the little kingdom's military and political affairs.

They left at a time when neutralist Prince Souvanna Phouma had returned to Laos to make a new attempt at persuading them to join in a coalition regime he would head to take Laos out of the cold war.

Precarious Situation

Houei Sai is a border town opposite the northern tip of Thailand, 110 miles northwest of the royal capital of Luang Prabang. Government forces abandoned Houei Sai on May 11 but reoccupied it later when a rebel push from Nam Tha toward the border fell short.

Now it is the apparent target of a new rebel offensive in a situation that one diplomatic source called more complicated and very precarious.

A 5,000-man U.S. task force and token units from Britain and New Zealand have been based in Thailand to help guard that pro-Western nation against Communist infiltration from Laos. Australia plans to send in a fighter squadron in a day or two.

U. S. Advises Retreat

Any border clash that involved Thai frontier troops conceivably could draw in these forces of the allies, who are members, like Thailand, of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization.

U.S. military sources said troops, believed to include some from Communist North Viet Nam, mounted the drive on Houei Sai. A defensive outpost about 10 miles from the town was overrun Sunday.

American advisers based at the outpost retreated with the garrison. U.S. sources said none was killed, injured or missing. A defense Ministry communique said four government soldiers were wounded.

Senate Passes Public Works Bill, 44 To 32

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Democratic Leaders, stung by GOP criticism of President Kennedy's financing policies, pushed through the Senate Monday a compromise $1.5 billion public works program designed to combat unemployment. The vote was 44 to 32.

The Senate approved the authorization bill after rejecting two major Republican efforts to substitute more limited loan-and-grant programs.

The day-long debate was enlivened by a partisan exchange when Sen. Prescott Bush, R-Conn. charged that the President's original request for financing a massive $2.6 billion works spending program amounted to a form of "embezzlement."

Sen. Robert S. Kerr, D-Okla., floor manager for the bill, accused Bush of engaging in the "lowest level of partisan politics I've seen displayed on the Senate floor." He said Bush's remarks were unfair, incorrect and "an insult."

The final version of the bill authorized $750 million for projects next year in areas of high unemployment, and an additional $750 million "standby" authority for projects in the succeeding fiscal year starting July 1, 1963 to counter any economic downturn.

The compromise represented a tactical retreat from the original $2.6 billion bill cleared by the committee which would have given the President standby authority to spend $2 billion on projects as an anti-recession weapon.

Democrats hailed the bill as a frontal assault on the unemployment problem.

More than 1,000 economically distressed areas in all 50 states would be eligible for matching federal aid for construction of roads, libraries, sewers and other works projects if Congress later appropriates the necessary money.

Many Republicans assailed the bill as big spending that would give the President power to favor certain areas for federal hand outs. Sen. George Aiken, R-Vt., nothing the sharp stock market break, said passage of the bill would convince the American people that "there really is a depression ahead of us."

Loss Worst Since Great Crash Of '29

Exchange Ticker Tape Is Record 69 Minutes Late

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market Monday suffered its sharpest loss since Oct. 28, 1929.

Blue chips and "growth stocks were battered unmercifully as investors unloaded stocks from coast to coast.

An estimated total of $19.5 billion dollars was shorn from the quoted value of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange, based on the fall in the Associated Press average.

The Dow Jones industrial average smashed through a hoped-for support level at around 600, falling 34.95 to 576.93—the steepest loss in the Dow since the Oct. 28, 1929, date when the average lost 38.3 on volume of 9,212,800 shares.

Mondays volume was even heavier—9.35 million shares, the largest since July 21, 1933, when 9,572,000 shares were traded.

The ticker tape was an hour and nine minutes late at the close, the longest lag in the 32-year history of the high-speed ticker. During the 29 crash the ticker ran at a slower pace and was late for hours.

The havoc was terrific among the blue chips the highest rated issues.

AT & T Drops $11

American Telephone fell $11 to $100.62, Du Pont $12.50 to $202.50, International Business Machines $37.50 to $361.

Selling snowballed amid calls for margin—even though a 70 per cent down payment is the legal requirement now. Back in 29 it was much lower.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks toppled 13.40 to 211.20, with industrials down 17.50, rails down 5.80, and utilities down 9.50, all to new lows for the year. For the AP average, too, it was the worst loss since Oct. 28, 1929.

Margin calls hit AT&T harder than others because of a special technicality allowing those with "rights to purchase the stock to carry their actual stock purchases on margin of only 25 per cent.

AT&T was the most heavily-traded issue, rolling up 282,800 shares. Standard Oil (New Jerdown $5 a share at $46 on 148,200 shares. Third was General Telephone & Electronics, off $1.75 a share at $19.25 on 108,800 shares.

Business News Good

The sharp drop in the AP average left it at its lowest point since Nov. 4, 1960, when it also stood at 211.20. The Dow Jones industrials were at their lowest level since Oct. 26, 1960.

Monday's drop, culminating a series of slides over the last week and more, came amid reports of continuing good business news.

One reason for the huge shakeout came from President Kennedy's top economic adviser, Dr. Walter W. Heller. He said the year's decline reflected a realization that inflation is "no longer a way of life in this economy."

Heller said the outlook for healthy economic expansion "flatly contradicts the disturbing developments in the stock market of today."

The purchase of stocks as a hedge against inflation has been the most convincing argument for many investors, and it has prevailed generally since the big bull market began in 1949, reaching its crest last December when the Dow industrials reached a peak of 734.91.

Suicide Blast Hinted By Jet Crash Probers

CENTERVILLE, Iowa (AP) —A briefcase found among the debris scattered by a disintegrating jetliner assumed additional importance Monday after Civil Aeronautics Board officials indicated that if a bomb had caused the plane to crash, the explosive device was set off by a person aboard.

George Van Epps, head of the CAB's investigating team, said the briefcase might be of significance.

"It would have been possible to carry an explosive aboard the plane in it," Van Epps said in reply to a question.

The brown leather briefcase, found about 10 miles northeast of the Missouri farm where the Continental Airlines plane crashed Tuesday night killing 45 persons, was marked with the initials T.C.D.

Chicago's American said the initials of the briefcase are the same as those of a passenger who had bought a $225,000 insurance policy in Kansas City before going by Chicago to meet a woman who also died in the crash.

Although federal investigators declined comment on speculation that a bomb may have been detonated by persons involved in a suicide pact, they were overheard several times discussing among themselves rumors linking the explosion to a man and woman who boarded the plane in Chicago.

W. Mark Felt, head of an FBI team on the scene, declined to answer questions about the briefcase, of which his men have taken possession.

Three Missing In YWCA Blast

WICHITA FALLS, Tex. (AP—An explosion Monday rocked two floors of the Wichita Falls YWCA, injuring at least one person. Three others were missing.

The boilers for the swimming pool exploded shortly before noon, wrecking portions of the first and second floors and sending debris tumbling into the swimming pool.

Albert Davis, an employe, received head, shoulder and back injuries. He was freed by rescuers from under the debris. He said two other men were with him.

Unaccounted for was Miss Terri Korrith, telephone company employe who was believed to have been in her room.

Carpenter Flies To Home Town

DENVER (UPI) — Astronaut Scott Carpenter arrived on President Kennedy's personal plane here Monday for 2½ days of acclaim from his fellow Coloradoans and what may be the greatest Memorial Day parade in the state's history.

The 37-year-old spaceman and his family were met here by Gov. Stephen L. R. McNichols after a trip from Cape Canaveral that took about four hours, or about an hour less than it took Carpenter to travel 82,000 miles in his three orbits around the earth last Thursday.

The lean Navy lieutenant commander and his party were to go directly to Boulder Monday night, where his hometown will honor him with a 90-minute ceremony Tuesday at Folsom Field on the University of Colorado campus. A luncheon in his honor also was planned Tuesday.

Manned Lunar Trip May Come Year Earlier

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —While experts assessed astronaut Malcolm Scott Carpenter's orbital flight, it was learned Monday the two-man Gemini spaceship possibly might be modified to place an American team on the moon a year or so sooner than the present 1967 target date.

At the same time, Project Mercury officials awaited complete evaluation of Carpenter's space ride to determine whether the next U.S. manned flight will be 3, 5, 7, or 18 orbits. A seven-orbit flight in August or September is favored if the present Mercury capsule fuel supply can be increased sufficiently.

Looking beyond earth orbit flights, long-range planners believe there is a chance of redesigning Gemini to achieve manned lunar landing earlier than is possible with the three-man Apollo vehicle now assigned the task.

They feel rockets which already have been test-fired might be used to rendezvous Gemini with a fueled rocket in space. The hook-on propulsion unit would boost it to the moon. Apollo and the rockets intended to put it on the moon are far behnd Gemini in development.

Gemini's assigned mission is to keep two-man crews in orbit for periods up to a week, starting in 1963 or late 1964, and later to test the rendezvous technique by joining the manned spacecraft with other orbiting vehicles.

"We believe that with extensive modifications Gemini might get us to the moon," an informed official said. "Nothing is definite now. But engineering studies are being conducted."

As planned now, Gemini will weigh only three tons. This would have to be increased considerably—but nowhere near Apollo's 75-ton figure—to accomplish a moon trip. A new fuel, most likely storable hypergolic fuels requiring no ignition system, would be used instead of hydrogen peroxide.

"K" Concedes U.S. In Space

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Khrushchev conceded Monday that the United States won a share in space with the Soviet Union through the orbital flight of Lt. Cmdr. Malcolm Scott Carpenter.

"Now we are not alone in the cosmos," he said. "Now the Americans (like the Russians, have put two men in space."

Khrushchev told a crowd at the entrance to an Italian trade fair which opened Monday that Carpenter had displayed great courage and fortitude when everything seemed to be going wrong.

The Soviet leader's appearance at the fair coincided with an announcement by the Soviet news agency Tass that the Russians have shot another unmanned satellite into orbit. This was Cosmos 5, fifth in a series started March 16. It was reported circling the earth in 102.75 minutes at altitudes ranging from 126 to 994 miles.

Khrushchev was in a gay mood and happily accepted a Fiat 2300 given to him by the Italians.

Leaving after two hours at the exhibition, he climbed into the Fiat's front seat and told the chauffer: "To the Kremlin."

Life Rafts Found By Plane Hunters

DOVER, Del. (UPI) — Two empty life rafts were found Monday in the area where an Air Force C133 Cargomaster transport disappeared Sunday with six men aboard.

The rafts were recovered from the Atlantic Ocean 45 miles off the Delaware Coast by the German vessel Sankt Marien. They had been spotted by a Coast Guard plane, one of 64 aircraft and 6 Coast Guard and Navy vessels scanning the Atlantic from the Delaware to the Azores in search of the transport.

The Coast Guard asked the Sankt Marien to make the life raft recoveries and sent the cutter Cherokee and a 95-foot patrol boat to the scene. It was not determined immediately whether the life rafts definitely were from the missing plane, but it was assumed they were.

Kennedy, 45 Today, Also Several Million Richer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy celebrates his 45th birthday Tuesday. As the saying goes, he's a year older and a year wiser — and, in his case, he's also several million dollars wealthier.

The youngest president ever elected to the office plans to take refuge from the White House, symbolic center of the toughest job in the world, and observe the occasion in the tranquility of his nearby rural hideaway with Mrs. Kennedy and the family.

They're getting together for a quiet party Tuesday evening at Glen Ora, the Kennedys' rented place near Middleburg, Va.

The President is scheduled to put in a full day's work at the White House before taking a helicopter to the Virginia hunt country estate.

Gathered there to sing "Happy Birthday," in addition to Mrs. Kennedy, will be Caroline and John Jr., of course, along with Atty. Gen. and Mrs. Robert F. Kennedy, Mr. and Mrs. Sargent Shriver and Mrs. Stephen Smith. Mrs. Shriver, whose husband heads the Peace Corps, is the President's oldest sister, Eunice. Mrs. Smith is his youngest sister, Jean.

Just how much turning 45 means financially to the President is uncertain. He is due to acquire a substantial chunk of the trust fund set up by his father, Joseph P. Kennedy.

The elder Kennedy, now convalescing in New York from a stroke, established identical funds for each of his children. They obtain the principal in stages, of which the 45th birthday is one.

Ruling On Eichmann Appeal Slated Today

JERUSALEM, Tuesday (UPI)—Former Nazi S.S. officer Adolf Eichmann learns from the Israeli Supreme Court today whether he must hang for his part in the World War II extermination of 6 million Jews.

If the court turns down his appeal, Eichmann's last chance for possible clemency will lie with President Itzhak Ben-Zvi.

The wizened Nazi executioner appears before the nation's highest tribunal at 9 a.m. (3 a.m. EDT) to hear its ruling on his appeal from the death sentence passed by the Jerusalem district court last December.

Algiers Police Check Mass Murder Report

ALGIERS (AP)—Police opened an investigation Monday into reports that two rooms filled with corpses of Europeans had been found in a Moslem suburb of Algiers.

Europeans have been tortured and slain by Moslems seeking vengeance for the daily slaughter of their comrades by the European secret army. Only last week 17 bodies of Europeans were found in a vacant lot east of the city.

Reports reaching the police said the rooms filled with the corpses were located in the new Moslem housing development known as "Cite de la Montagne" in the suburbs of Hussein Dey.

Some reports spoke of 70 bodies, others of more.

Eichmann Swore He Is Innocent, Wife Says In Telling Of Meeting In Prison

EDITOR'S NOTE: Trude B. Feldman of New York City sat through the trial of Adolf Eichmann. Later, when Mrs. Eichmann learned that Miss Feldman was the daughter of a U. S. rabbi, she sought her help in giving the Eichmann viewpoint. Mrs. Eichmann agreed to tell of her plans and the visit she had paid her husband in prison. Miss Feldman's father is Rabbi Moses J. Feldman of Los Angeles. A brother, David, is a rabbi in New York City.

By TRUDE B. FELDMAN

MUNICH, Germany (AP)—Mrs. Adolf Eichmann has disclosed she pleaded with her husband's jailors to let her spend a night locked in his death cell with him so she could "hold him in my arms once more."

The wife of the former Gestapo colonel was permitted to visit her husband April 30 in Tel Aviv's Ramleh Prison. A glass shield separated them.

The plea was refused, and she returned to Munich to await the outcome of his appeal from the death sentence pronounced by an Israeli court for his role in the Nazi extermination of millions of Jews. A decision on the appeal is expected Tuesday.

In three taped interviews with this writer, Vera Eichmann reiterated she considers her husband innocent. She said she would appeal if necessary to Israeli President Izhak Ben-Zvi for clemency and to the World Court to set him free.

She had two meetings on that one day with her "Addie." She said one lasted an hour and 45 minutes, and the other—requested because she had more to say to him—was much shorter.

She described the end of the first interview: "The guards rose from their chairs. It was their way of telling us the meeting was to end. I turned to the commander (the head jailor) and asked him if I could stay the night with my husband. I told them they could lock me in the cell with him. They had already searched me.

"I could be hiding nothing. I just wanted to hold him in my arms once more. I pleaded with them. I told them I loved him so and that he was not guilty. Why, I asked them, do this to a man who is not guilty? But they nodded politely, and Addie smiled weakly as if to say to me once more that I was just an optimist."

Mrs. Eichmann said that when her husband came into the interview room and saw her "his face lit up."

Sen. Robert S. Kerr, D-Okla., floor manager for the bill, accused Bush of engaging in the "lowest level of partisan politics I've seen displayed on the Senate floor." He said Bush's remarks were unfair, incorrect and "an insult."

The final version of the bill authorized $750 million for projects next year in areas of high unemployment, and an additional $750 million "standby" authority for projects in the succeeding fiscal year starting July 1, 1963 to counter any economic downturn.

The compromise represented a tactical retreat from the original $2.6 billion bill cleared by the committee which would have given the President standby authority to spend $2 billion on projects as an anti-recession weapon.

Democrats hailed the bill as a frontal assault on the unemployment problem.

More than 1,000 economically distressed areas in all 50 states would be eligible for matching federal aid for construction of roads, libraries, sewers and other works projects if Congress later appropriates the necessary money.

Many Republicans assailed the bill as big spending that would give the President power to favor certain areas for federal hand outs. Sen. George Aiken, R-Vt., nothing the sharp stock market break, said passage of the bill would convince the American people that "there really is a depression ahead of us."

Loss Worst Since Great Crash Of '29

Exchange Ticker Tape Is Record 69 Minutes Late

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market Monday suffered its sharpest loss since Oct. 28, 1929.

Blue chips and "growth stocks were battered unmercifully as investors unloaded stocks from coast to coast.

An estimated total of $19.5 billion dollars was shorn from the quoted value of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange, based on the fall in the Associated Press average.

The Dow Jones industrial average smashed through a hoped-for support level at around 600, falling 34.95 to 576.93—the steepest loss in the Dow since the Oct. 28, 1929, date when the average lost 38.3 on volume of 9,212,800 shares.

Mondays volume was even heavier—9.35 million shares, the largest since July 21, 1933, when 9,572,000 shares were traded.

The ticker tape was an hour and nine minutes late at the close, the longest lag in the 32-year history of the high-speed ticker. During the 29 crash the ticker ran at a slower pace and was late for hours.

The havoc was terrific among the blue chips the highest rated issues.

AT & T Drops $11

American Telephone fell $11 to $100.62, Du Pont $12.50 to $202.50, International Business Machines $37.50 to $361.

Selling snowballed amid calls for margin—even though a 70 per cent down payment is the legal requirement now. Back in 29 it was much lower.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks toppled 13.40 to 211.20, with industrials down 17.50, rails down 5.80, and utilities down 9.50, all to new lows for the year. For the AP average, too, it was the worst loss since Oct. 28, 1929.

Margin calls hit AT&T harder than others because of a special technicality allowing those with "rights to purchase the stock to carry their actual stock purchases on margin of only 25 per cent.

AT&T was the most heavily-traded issue, rolling up 282,800 shares. Standard Oil (New Jer- down $5 a share at $46 on 148,200 shares. Third was General Telephone & Electronics, off $1.75 a share at $19.25 on 108,800 shares.

Business News Good

The sharp drop in the AP average left it at its lowest point since Nov. 4, 1960, when it also stood at 211.20. The Dow Jones industrials were at their lowest level since Oct. 26, 1960.

Monday's drop, culminating a series of slides over the last week and more, came amid reports of continuing good business news.

One reason for the huge shakeout came from President Kennedy's top economic adviser, Dr. Walter W. Heller. He said the year's decline reflected a realization that inflation is "no longer a way of life in this economy."

Heller said the outlook for healthy economic expansion "flatly contradicts the disturbing developments in the stock market of today."

The purchase of stocks as a hedge against inflation has been the most convincing argument for many investors, and it has prevailed generally since the big bull market began in 1949, reaching its crest last December when the Dow industrials reached a peak of 734.91.

Suicide Blast Hinted By Jet Crash Probers

CENTERVILLE, Iowa (AP) —A briefcase found among the debris scattered by a disintegrating jetliner assumed additional importance Monday after Civil Aeronautics Board officials indicated that if a bomb had caused the plane to crash, the explosive device was set off by a person aboard.

George Van Epps, head of the CAB's investigating team, said the briefcase might be of significance.

"It would have been possible to carry an explosive aboard the plane in it," Van Epps said in reply to a question.

The brown leather briefcase, found about 10 miles northeast of the Missouri farm where the Continental Airlines plane crashed Tuesday night killing 45 persons, was marked with the initials T.C.D.

Chicago's American said the initials of the briefcase are the same as those of a passenger who had bought a $225,000 insurance policy in Kansas City before going by Chicago to meet a woman who also died in the crash.

Although federal investigators declined comment on speculation that a bomb may have been detonated by persons involved in a suicide pact, they were overheard several times discussing among themselves rumors linking the explosion to a man and woman who boarded the plane in Chicago.

W. Mark Felt, head of an FBI team on the scene, declined to answer questions about the briefcase, of which his men have taken possession.

Three Missing In YWCA Blast

WICHITA FALLS, Tex. (AP—An explosion Monday rocked two floors of the Wichita Falls YWCA, injuring at least one person. Three others were missing.

The boilers for the swimming pool exploded shortly before noon, wrecking portions of the first and second floors and sending debris tumbling into the swimming pool.

Albert Davis, an employe, received head, shoulder and back injuries. He was freed by rescuers from under the debris. He said two other men were with him.

Unaccounted for was Miss Terri Korrith, telephone company employe who was believed to have been in her room.

Carpenter Flies To Home Town

DENVER (UPI) — Astronaut Scott Carpenter arrived on President Kennedy's personal plane here Monday for 2½ days of acclaim from his fellow Coloradoans and what may be the greatest Memorial Day parade in the state's history.

The 37-year-old spaceman and his family were met here by Gov. Stephen L. R. McNichols after a trip from Cape Canaveral that took about four hours, or about an hour less than it took Carpenter to travel 82,000 miles in his three orbits around the earth last Thursday.

The lean Navy lieutenant commander and his party were to go directly to Boulder Monday night, where his hometown will honor him with a 90-minute ceremony Tuesday at Folsom Field on the University of Colorado campus. A luncheon in his honor also was planned Tuesday.

Manned Lunar Trip May Come Year Earlier

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —While experts assessed astronaut Malcolm Scott Carpenter's orbital flight, it was learned Monday the two-man Gemini spaceship possibly might be modified to place an American team on the moon a year or so sooner than the present 1967 target date.

At the same time, Project Mercury officials awaited complete evaluation of Carpenter's space ride to determine whether the next U.S. manned flight will be 3, 5, 7, or 18 orbits. A seven-orbit flight in August or September is favored if the present Mercury capsule fuel supply can be increased sufficiently.

Looking beyond earth orbit flights, long-range planners believe there is a chance of redesigning Gemini to achieve manned lunar landing earlier than is possible with the three-man Apollo vehicle now assigned the task.

They feel rockets which already have been test-fired might be used to rendezvous Gemini with a fueled rocket in space. The hook-on propulsion unit would boost it to the moon. Apollo and the rockets intended to put it on the moon are far behnd Gemini in development.

Gemini's assigned mission is to keep two-man crews in orbit for periods up to a week, starting in 1963 or late 1964, and later to test the rendezvous technique by joining the manned spacecraft with other orbiting vehicles.

"We believe that with extensive modifications Gemini might get us to the moon," an informed official said. "Nothing is definite now. But engineering studies are being conducted."

As planned now, Gemini will weigh only three tons. This would have to be increased considerably—but nowhere near Apollo's 75-ton figure—to accomplish a moon trip. A new fuel, most likely storable hypergolic fuels requiring no ignition system, would be used instead of hydrogen peroxide.

"K" Concedes U.S. In Space

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Khrushchev conceded Monday that the United States won a share in space with the Soviet Union through the orbital flight of Lt. Cmdr. Malcolm Scott Carpenter.

"Now we are not alone in the cosmos," he said. "Now the Americans (like the Russians, have put two men in space."

Khrushchev told a crowd at the entrance to an Italian trade fair which opened Monday that Carpenter had displayed great courage and fortitude when everything seemed to be going wrong.

The Soviet leader's appearance at the fair coincided with an announcement by the Soviet news agency Tass that the Russians have shot another unmanned satellite into orbit. This was Cosmos 5, fifth in a series started March 16. It was reported circling the earth in 102.75 minutes at altitudes ranging from 126 to 994 miles.

Khrushchev was in a gay mood and happily accepted a Fiat 2300 given to him by the Italians.

Leaving after two hours at the exhibition, he climbed into the Fiat's front seat and told the chauffer: "To the Kremlin."

Life Rafts Found By Plane Hunters

DOVER, Del. (UPI) — Two empty life rafts were found Monday in the area where an Air Force C133 Cargomaster transport disappeared Sunday with six men aboard.

The rafts were recovered from the Atlantic Ocean 45 miles off the Delaware Coast by the German vessel Sankt Marien. They had been spotted by a Coast Guard plane, one of 64 aircraft and 6 Coast Guard and Navy vessels scanning the Atlantic from the Delaware to the Azores in search of the transport.

The Coast Guard asked the Sankt Marien to make the life raft recoveries and sent the cutter Cherokee and a 95-foot patrol boat to the scene. It was not determined immediately whether the life rafts definitely were from the missing plane, but it was assumed they were.

Kennedy, 45 Today, Also Several Million Richer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy celebrates his 45th birthday Tuesday. As the saying goes, he's a year older and a year wiser — and, in his case, he's also several million dollars wealthier.

The youngest president ever elected to the office plans to take refuge from the White House, symbolic center of the toughest job in the world, and observe the occasion in the tranquility of his nearby rural hideaway with Mrs. Kennedy and the family.

They're getting together for a quiet party Tuesday evening at Glen Ora, the Kennedys' rented place near Middleburg, Va.

The President is scheduled to put in a full day's work at the White House before taking a helicopter to the Virginia hunt country estate.

Gathered there to sing "Happy Birthday," in addition to Mrs. Kennedy, will be Caroline and John Jr., of course, along with Atty. Gen. and Mrs. Robert F. Kennedy, Mr. and Mrs. Sargent Shriver and Mrs. Stephen Smith. Mrs. Shriver, whose husband heads the Peace Corps, is the President's oldest sister, Eunice. Mrs. Smith is his youngest sister, Jean.

Just how much turning 45 means financially to the President is uncertain. He is due to acquire a substantial chunk of the trust fund set up by his father, Joseph P. Kennedy.

The elder Kennedy, now convalescing in New York from a stroke, established identical funds for each of his children. They obtain the principal in stages, of which the 45th birthday is one.

Ruling On Eichmann Appeal Slated Today

JERUSALEM, Tuesday (UPI)—Former Nazi S.S. officer Adolf Eichmann learns from the Israeli Supreme Court today whether he must hang for his part in the World War II extermination of 6 million Jews.

If the court turns down his appeal, Eichmann's last chance for possible clemency will lie with President Itzhak Ben-Zvi.

The wizened Nazi executioner appears before the nation's highest tribunal at 9 a.m. (3 a.m. EDT) to hear its ruling on his appeal from the death sentence passed by the Jerusalem district court last December.

Algiers Police Check Mass Murder Report

ALGIERS (AP)—Police opened an investigation Monday into reports that two rooms filled with corpses of Europeans had been found in a Moslem suburb of Algiers.

Europeans have been tortured and slain by Moslems seeking vengeance for the daily slaughter of their comrades by the European secret army. Only last week 17 bodies of Europeans were found in a vacant lot east of the city.

Reports reaching the police said the rooms filled with the corpses were located in the new Moslem housing development known as "Cite de la Montagne" in the suburbs of Hussein Dey.

Some reports spoke of 70 bodies, others of more.

Eichmann Swore He Is Innocent, Wife Says In Telling Of Meeting In Prison

EDITOR'S NOTE: Trude B. Feldman of New York City sat through the trial of Adolf Eichmann. Later, when Mrs. Eichmann learned that Miss Feldman was the daughter of a U. S. rabbi, she sought her help in giving the Eichmann viewpoint. Mrs. Eichmann agreed to tell of her plans and the visit she had paid her husband in prison. Miss Feldman's father is Rabbi Moses J. Feldman of Los Angeles. A brother, David, is a rabbi in New York City.

By TRUDE B. FELDMAN

MUNICH, Germany (AP)—Mrs. Adolf Eichmann has disclosed she pleaded with her husband's jailors to let her spend a night locked in his death cell with him so she could "hold him in my arms once more."

The wife of the former Gestapo colonel was permitted to visit her husband April 30 in Tel Aviv's Ramleh Prison. A glass shield separated them.

The plea was refused, and she returned to Munich to await the outcome of his appeal from the death sentence pronounced by an Israeli court for his role in the Nazi extermination of millions of Jews. A decision on the appeal is expected Tuesday.

In three taped interviews with this writer, Vera Eichmann reiterated she considers her husband innocent. She said she would appeal if necessary to Israeli President Izhak Ben-Zvi for clemency and to the World Court to set him free.

She had two meetings on that one day with her "Addie." She said one lasted an hour and 45 minutes, and the other—requested because she had more to say to him—was much shorter.

She described the end of the first interview: "The guards rose from their chairs. It was their way of telling us the meeting was to end. I turned to the commander (the head jailor) and asked him if I could stay the night with my husband. I told them they could lock me in the cell with him. They had already searched me.

"I could be hiding nothing. I just wanted to hold him in my arms once more. I pleaded with them. I told them I loved him so and that he was not guilty. Why, I asked them, do this to a man who is not guilty? But they nodded politely, and Addie smiled weakly as if to say to me once more that I was just an optimist."

Mrs. Eichmann said that when her husband came into the interview room and saw her "his face lit up."

Hallack Sees Kennedy's Medicare Plan Stymied

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Republican Leader Charles A. Halleck of Indiana predicted Monday that the House Ways and Means Committee will continue to bottle up President Kennedy's health care plan for the elderly.

And Halleck described as a flop what he called "monster meetings" held May 20 to build public sentiment for the program.

Kennedy himself plugged in a televised program his plan which would provide hospital, nursing and home therapy for persons over 65 covered by Social Security or railway retirement benefits.

"My mail is running 30-1 against the President's plan. We heard a lot about the New York City meeting at which the President spoke but most of the rest of the meetings flopped. In seven cities meetings actually were canceled.

"The President's bill will not even get out of the Ways and Means Committee."

In response to questions, Halleck said his opinion is that even if the bill clears this initial hurdle and gets subsequent necessary approval of the rules committee, "it is extremely doubtful that it would pass the House."

The House minority leader was asked if Republicans are willing to go to the voters this fall without the enactment of additional health aid for the elderly.

"I suppose I ought to say that the bill should be judged on he basis of whether it is right or wrong, sound or unsound,' Halleck said. "But if anybody is going to indulge in politics on the basis of Congress failure to pass it, I have no fear of the result.

Girl, 20, Thinks Chances Good In House Race

BALTIMORE (AP) — Brenda Satterfield will run for a seat in the Maryland House of Delegates Nov. 6, just 48 days after she becomes 21 and eligible to seek the office.

The attractive employe of a Baltimore radio station (WCBM) entered the Republican primary race last March 5, just minutes before the filing deadline.

Then, although spending "no money—only shoe leather" on the campaign, she led six other Republicans with 1,276 votes in the city's 4th District.

The other GOP candidates also entered the race late, but a suit filed later contended they were entered by Democrats who wished to prevent the Republican State Central Committee from filling the slate for a the general election.

As a result of the dispute, Brenda — one of two white Republican candidates in the district—was endorsed by the Afro-American newspaper, Baltimore's only Negro newspaper.

Miss Satterfield, whose only previous election experience was in high school politics, now feels she has a good chance of becoming the youngest member of the state legislature.

Eichmann Swore

"It was the kind of smile I always remember he had. He sat down at the table and pressed his hand to the glass wall. He then motioned I should do the same. I looked at the commander who was seated behind me, and he nodded that it would be all right. I quickly pressed my hand to the glass where he held his.

"It was an embrace—an embrace separated by two years and a piece of glass—but it was an embrace with my Adolf, my husband, a man I love and shall always love very deeply. I could feel the warmth of his hand even through the thickness of that glass."

Mrs. Eichmann said tears began to fall and she could not open the conversation. He started by asking about the children, with special mention of Hasi, 6. She said her husband had instructed to send him to a good Catholic school, "so he gets a good, sound education."

Mrs. Eichmann said her husband swore "by my own children" that he is innocent.

"That was enough proof for me," she said, "because I know my Adolf."

She said she did not discuss life imprisonment or death with her husband but that he told her he will face "it all firmly" a that "what must come, must come."

Seven Fired For Walking Off Icy Jobs Reinstated

WASHINGTON (AP) — Seven workers fired for walking off their jobs to protest the bitter cold of their working quarters won reinstatement Monday with three years back pay.

A 7-0 Supreme Court decision reversed the U.S. Circuit Court and upheld a National Labor Relations Board ruling that Washington Aluminum Co. of Baltimore was guilty of unfair labor practics in ousting the men.

Justice Hugo L. Black, delivering the high court's opinion, pinpointed this as a somewhat different complained repeatedly about their discomfort and finally acted together in protest.

Black rejected the appeals court's findings that the seven could not act as they did jointly "merely because they do not present a specific demand upon their employer to remedy a condition they find objectionable."

To compel the NLRB to apply the law "in the niggardly fashion suggested," he said, would frustrate the laws designed to protect the right of workers to act gether to better heir working condiions.

Queen Visits Boy

CAMBRIDGE, England (AP)—Queen Elizabeth II on Monday visited Michael Avery, 5, who was knocked down and injured by the queen's automobile last week.

Marshall's Widow And His Brother Pass Lie Detector Tests

FRANKLIN, Tex. (UPI) —Two relatives of Henry H. Marshall passed lie detector tests Monday. Texas Ranger Capt. Clint Peoples said more polygraph tests will be given in the investigation of the death of Marshall, the first government agent to get evidence against Billie Sol Estes.

Peoples refused to identify others who will take the tests because such information "might infringe on the grand jury" looking into the death of Marshall.

Marshall's widow and his brother were given tests at their request by Thad Johnson, a Texas Department of Public Safety lie detector (polygraph) examiner.

Peoples said that both Mrs. Marshall and Bob Marshall, her brother-in-law, were found to have told the truth when they testified before the grand jury last week.

The grand jury, meanwhile, studied a federally - censored report on Estes' cotton allotments. It was trying to find out whether the censored report will help in determining if Marshall commmitmitted suicide or was murdered.

Witnesses scheduled to testify Tuesday include John Dennison, an attorney for Estes in Pecos, Tex., and four officials of the Department of Agriculture.

Dist. Atty. Bryan Russ said the four officials, all from Texas, are L. C. Williams, an assistant to marshall; Paul Johnson, a subordinate of Marshall; W. Lewis David, state executive director of the agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service, and W. H. Hott, whom Russ identified as "Marshall's right-hand man in the production division."

Witnesses scheduled to testify Tuesday include John Dennison, an attorney for Estes in Pecos, Tex., and four officials of the Department of Agriculture.

Dist. Atty. Bryan Russ said the four officials, all from Texas, are L. C. Williams, an assistant to marshall; Paul Johnson, a subordinate of Marshall; W. Lewis David, state executive director of the agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service, and W. H. Hott, whom Russ identified as "Marshall's right-hand man in the production division."

There are some things dryer than Seagram's Gin
...but none of them is gin!
Search the wide world over, there is no other gin so lean, so crisp, so brilliantly dry as Seagram's. For this is the gin that goes through an extra step in the making—to give nature a chance to absorb sweetness, and perfumery. It is the gin that bears nature's sunny signature—a glint of amber in its color. Sure sign of ultimate dryness. Sure sign that, of all gins, this is the one right gin ...for you.

Baptists Dedicate New Headquarters

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
Associated Press Religion Writer

VALLEY FORGE, Pa. (AP) — Two Episcopal clergymen, motoring along the Pennsylvania Turnpike through this verdant countryside, glanced out and saw a strange sight — a huge, sunny, ring-shaped edifice whose pillars beneath and lancet windows above gave it an ethereal, floating effect.

"Say," one of them said, "some church ought to build a building like that!"

The idea already was fact.

The gleaming loop of white stone and concrete is the new $8½-million national headquarters of American Baptists. Its dedication last Saturday marked a nostalgic transition in setting for the denomination's administration.

The big-city staff has gone rural. It also has moved back to its roots.

"We're in a more average community now," observed the Rev. Dr. R. Dean Goodwin, director of the denomination's communication division, noting that most Baptist congregations are in small-town areas. "It's also more neighborly."

Across a road from the unusual structure, a herd of Black Angus grazed. Trees and little frame houses dot the terrain. "We have a closer relationship with people here," Dr. Goodwin said. "They are aware of us. Back in New York, no one noticed."

The shift to the tranquil atmosphere here from seven scattered, crowded offices in New York City and Philadelphia also brings the church's main center back to the area where Baptists first organized jointly in America more than 250 years ago.

It is the first time in the 1,600,000-member denomination's history that all of its score of agencies and boards have been united under one roof.

"I believe," Dr. Goodwin went on, "that our life here in a community more typical of America than we have known for some years will help us better understand our churches, and our churches to understand us."

The new building itself is a great, graceful swirl of quartz-glinting stone and tiers of arched windows, mounted in front on an arcade of columns through which can be seen the grassy inner courtyard.

Someone called it "The Coliseum" and added: "We throw lions to the Christians."

Such banter aside, the three-story building is an architectural feat in spacial efficiency, impressive appearance, Baptist egalitarianism and religious symbolism.

The circle is the classic symbol of unity and eternity.

To get anywhere in the building you can go either direction—whichever is closest.

With a circular, rather than vertical building, agency offices need not be stacked on top of each other, as if some dominate others in importance.

The Rev. Dr. Edwin H. Tuller, denominational general secretary, said the purpose of establishing the new headquarters was not to build a monument but to provide a more effective base for spreading the gospel to "the furthermost parts of the world through missionary representatives and the printed word."

American Baptists have 6,200 congregations in this country, and mission operations in 15 foreign countries.

Headquarters personnel moved here earlier this year, but the dedication was held up until the denomination's annual convention this week. More than 10,000 Baptists are taking part, including Baptist Nelson A. Rockefeller, governor of New York.

Altogether, about 750 administrative workers are employed here.

The new headquarters stands on 55½ acres of open land with the rolling hills of historic Valley Forge Park to the north. It's 17 miles west of Philadelphia.

The main building, shaped like an open ring with the band 52 feet wide, provides 135,740 square feet of space—a total of 249 rooms in tasteful, cheery colors.

Although the new headquarters is in the country, it commands a big audience. Its curving shape, its Gothic-like window peaks, its projecting mullions that give off an odd light-and-shadow effect—all this provides an eye-catching sight for passersby on the Pennsylvania Turnpike—totaling 30 million a year.

It was announced that a decision on whether to retain the daylight collection of garbage, presently in a trial period, would be made within the next week.

Woman To Woman

NEW YORK (UPI)—A woman who whales with Eskimo tribes captures the moods of a whale hunt in sketches and couplets.

Claire Fejes, artist and poet, finds life in a whaling camp exactly as she pictured it: sprouting hardship but also inspiring.

Mrs. Fejes went to Alaska with her husband 18 years ago to strike it rich the gold mine way.

"We went broke in a short time," she said in an interview, "but rather than return to New York, we started anew in Fairbanks.

"I struck riches when I started whaling—gaining a richness of spirit from seeing the stoic Eskimos at work. Who is to say gold is better?"

On the trips with the Eskimos, Mrs. Fejes sketches with pencil. The weather is such that ink or paint freezes.

Her sketches interpret some of the less familiar aspects of life in a whaling camp. Her poems hold the moods.

"I go on these trips," she said, "because I love the primitive tribes—and I want to record the life they lead. The advance of civilization soon will change them.

"They are solid people, close to the earth and live only from hunting. They are stoic and patient, living off land and sea—and some how in their simple way managed to survive life at its hardest for centuries."

Whaling for Mrs. Fejes means leaving home for up to two months at a time, traveling by plane, boat and dog-sled to an isolated patch of the Artic Ocean's crust—say a few hundred miles below Point Barrow.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Charm Despoilers And How To Banish Them

The woman who keeps her charm intact is the one who is ever on the alert for traces of their despoiling acts. She keeps a keen, critical eye on herself, and she knows what to watch for—the evidence of an ungroomed mannerism.

Look at your nails. If they are too short, their cuticle ragged, and edges uneven, you know that others see you frequently in one of the unloveliest of gestures. Before the habit gets more deeply entrenched, put a stop to it! Nail biting can cancel out all of your other charms.

Look at your lips a half hour after you have applied lipstick. If they need renewing so soon, check yourself the next time you begin to bite or wet them. It's a habit that makes you appear timid and uncertain—and it's a waste of good lipstick.

Recall how often your beads require restringing. Too often? Then stop fiddling with them — train your hands to lie composed in your lap. You'll appear and feel much more poised — and think of the jeweler's bills you'll save!

Do your skirts get shiny and out of shape too quickly? If they do, clasp your hands in front of you as you are seating yourself so you can't tug and pull your skirt into a taut line under you. Your skirt will arrange itself, if you lever yourself down slowly with your knees, as all graceful women do.

Do your coats show wear under the arm? Not unless you clutch your handbag in a most unfeminine fashion. Do your blouses come through at the elbows? Hmmm—I'm sure you know the answer to that one. Do your heels wear unevenly? Then you're not walking as this column teaches, with your weight rolling down the middle of your foot.

As you can see, the ungroomed gesture not only spoils your charm, but also your clothes. There's a practical reason underlying most ideals of charm!

Bringing Up Baby®

HINTS COLLECTED BY MRS. DAN GERBER, MOTHER OF 5

Self-expression takes many forms in the toddler. Imagination begins to run rampant. Showing off becomes second nature. Daredevil tactics dominate the daily scene. While self-assurance grows by leaps and bounds, there are still many, many times when your toddler will slip back to the security of babyhood and need mother's guiding hand to help him over hurdles.

•

New Finger Food for self-feeders. Gerber Meat Sticks make playing "pick up sticks" a worthwhile pleasure because they're so nutritious. Made from selected Armour Pork and Beef for high quality protein. Nonfat dry milk solids are added for extra protein and other nutrients. Tasty? You bet. They're mildly seasoned—extra low in fat.

•

Video views. Certainly TV can be a boon to a busy mother as well as an educational force for a toddler. But TV should not be a substitute for real experiences and educational training from mother. By limiting viewing and selecting suitable programs, you can make TV work to your advantage . . . and your child's.

•

Tabletime tactics. Most toddlers go through a stage of saying "No" to everything. If it attracts attention at mealtime, saying "No" can become a habit . . . almost a game. (Sometimes it's even more fun than eating.) It should be ignored like any other play for attention. Baby will stop sooner if you don't listen.

•

Refusal of food is usually minimized when you serve Gerber Junior Foods. Because they have the "semi-grown-up" flavors toddlers take to . . . an evenly minced texture that's just right for tots with a few teeth.

•

Reminder: baby cereals are still an important part of a toddler's diet because of the iron and other important nutrients they provide. Gerber Cereals are rich in iron, also offer calcium, B-vitamins. Gerber Baby Foods, Fremont, Michigan.

Cheverly Girl Middies' June Week Queen

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — A pretty brunette secretary who had never dated a midshipman until a month ago will be queen of the Naval Academy's June Week program which begins Friday.

Miss Hope Littleton of Cheverly, Md., was chosen for the honor Monday by Midshipman James H. Barnes of Tulare, Calif., commander of the company judged best of 24 at the academy.

Miss Littleton's official title is Color Girl, and like the 89 others who have preceded her since 1871, she'll be the central figure at the academy's most picturesque parade of the year on June 5.

In her flowing dress and picture hat, she'll transfer the national and brigade colors from the 21st Company, which has carried them all year, to Barnes' 11th Company.

The 11th will carry the colors at all functions next year as a result of winning a year-long competition in academics, intramural sports, professional drills and parade performances.

Miss Littleton will receive three hat-lifting cheers from the company and then stand beside Rear Adm. John F. Davidson, academy superintendent, to watch the 3,800-man brigade of midshipmen pass in review at its final dress parade of the year.

This will be the first June Week visit to the academy by the 22-year-old secretary, although she has lived close by all her life. She met Barnes about a month ago through mutual friends in Washington and has been dating him since then.

She is employed in the electronics-electrical design branch of the Navy's Bureau of Ships in Washington.

"It's wonderful," she said today of her selection for the academy's top social honor. "I can't describe the thrill."

As color girl she'll be the envy of every other "drag", or date, here for the June Week program which brings thousands of visitors from throughout the country.

She'll also be a center of attention at the numerous social functions connected with graduation week festivities.

The week begins Friday with a dress parade and ends the following Wednesday, June 6, with graduation of a class of 730 midshipmen. The commencement speaker will be Secretary of the Navy Fred Korth.

Miss Littleton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James N. Littleton of Cheverly, is a native of Washington, D.C. and was graduated from Bladensburg, Md. High School in 1957.

That region of the United States in which the bulk of the cotton crop of the country is produced is called the cotton belt.

Two Brothers Win Forestry Award

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Two Baltimore County brothers will receive the nation's first Family Forest Program award Friday.

Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman will present the award to George and Richard Price of Phoenix, Md., for protection of their woods from grazing and fire by managing it according to local forester recommendations.

The presentation will be made in a ceremony scheduled for 1:30 p.m. at the Price's 140-acre woodland tract. Accompanying Freeman from Washington will be Edward Cliff, chief of the U.S. Forest Service.

The Family Forest Program recently was inaugurated by Freeman's department.

The Prices were recommended for the award by the State Department of Forests and Parks, which administers the program in cooperation with the State Association of Forest Conservancy District Boards, which has one board in each county.

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — The University of Maryland announced Monday that its department of chemical engineering has received a $27,250 grant from the Atomic Energy Commission for a gamma radiation study.

A spokesman said the money will be used by Dr. Joseph Silverman, associate professor of nuclear-chemical engineering, for a study already under way in a facility financed by an earlier AEC grant.

Primary interest will be centered on research into the effects of radiation on plastics.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Calvin S. Dean of Cambridge was elected Monday as president of the Maryland Council of Retail Merchants.

Other officers elected included Albert D. Hutzler Jr., Baltimore, first vice president; George A. Schwarzenbach, Cumberland, second vice president; Bernard L. Siegel, Elkton, treasurer, and William G. Ewald, Baltimore, executive vice president.

NEW YORK (AP) — Keith Funston, president of the New York Stock Exchange, announced Monday that Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower, president of Johns Hopkins University, had been elected a public governor of the exchange.

Eisenhower succeeds Dr. Courtney C. Brown, dean of the Columbia University Graduate School of Business, as one of the three public governors on the exchange's Board of Governors.

The office of public governor was created in 1938 to represent the public viewpoint to the exchange. The board is composed of 30 other governors from the exchange community, including the president and chairman of the exchange.

Judges Renominated

WASHNNGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy Monday nominated three judges of the U.S. Tax Court for reappointment to 12-year-terms.

They were Judge Clarence V. Opper, New York Democrat, who has been on the court since 1938; Norman O. Tietjens, Napoleon, Ohio, Democrat who has served since 1950, and Craig S. Atkins, Chevy Chase, Md., Republican appointed to the court in 1955.

Medical Care Given 9,000 Marylanders

BALTIMORE (AP)—A program financed by matching state and federal funds provided medical care last month for more than 9,000 Marylanders 65 years and older.

The Medical and Chirurgical Faculty of Maryland reported the figures Monday. They relate to the Kerr-Mills Medical Assistance to the Aged program, established in June, 1961.

Manhunt Launched For Cop Killer

BALTIMORE (AP) — Police launched a manhunt Monday for a 35-year-old man charged in the fatal shooting Saturday night of a Baltimore policeman.

Police said the suspect, Wallace Creighton, was believed traveling to Heath Spring, S.C. by auto.

Officers were seeking him in connection with the death of Patrolman Richard B. Seebo. He was shot to death after having stopped a car for a traffic violation.

Creighton, a Baltimore resident and a native of Heath Spring, was stopped on the Baltimore-Washington Expressway Sunday night during a routine traffic check.

Capital Park Police learned later of the manhunt and alerted authorities in South Carolina. Officers said Creighton had several women with him.

A witness told Baltimore authorities Seebo died after the motorist whom he stopped began cursing and put his car in reverse. This knocked the officer from his motorcycle. The motorist then shot the policeman twice, using the officer's gun the second time, according to the witness.

A silk farm at Lullingstone castle, in Kent, England, furnished the silk thread for the coronation robe of Queen Elizabeth II.

Cheverly Girl Middies' June Week Queen

NAVY COLOR GIRL — Hope Littleton, Cheverly, Md., a secretary at the Navy's Bureau of Ships, poses yesterday after being named the Naval Academy's "Color Girl" for June week exercises beginning Friday at Annapolis, Md. (AP Photofax)

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — A pretty brunette secretary who had never dated a midshipman until a month ago will be queen of the Naval Academy's June Week program which begins Friday.

Miss Hope Littleton of Cheverly, Md., was chosen for the honor Monday by Midshipman James H. Barnes of Tulare, Calif., commander of the company judged best of 24 at the academy.

Miss Littleton's official title is Color Girl, and like the 89 others who have preceded her since 1871, she'll be the central figure at the academy's most picturesque parade of the year on June 5.

In her flowing dress and picture hat, she'll transfer the national and brigade colors from the 21st Company, which has carried them all year, to Barnes' 11th Company.

The 11th will carry the colors at all functions next year as a result of winning a year-long competition in academics, intramural sports, professional drills and parade performances.

Miss Littleton will receive three hat-lifting cheers from the company and then stand beside Rear Adm. John F. Davidson, academy superintendent, to watch the 3,800-man brigade of midshipmen pass in review at its final dress parade of the year.

This will be the first June Week visit to the academy by the 22-year-old secretary, although she has lived close by all her life. She met Barnes about a month ago through mutual friends in Washington and has been dating him since then.

She is employed in the electronics-electrical design branch of the Navy's Bureau of Ships in Washington.

"It's wonderful," she said today of her selection for the academy's top social honor. "I can't describe the thrill."

As color girl she'll be the envy of every other "drag", or date, here for the June Week program which brings thousands of visitors from throughout the country.

She'll also be a center of attention at the numerous social functions connected with graduation week festivities.

The week begins Friday with a dress parade and ends the following Wednesday, June 6, with graduation of a class of 730 midshipmen. The commencement speaker will be Secretary of the Navy Fred Korth.

Miss Littleton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James N. Littleton of Cheverly, is a native of Washington, D.C. and was graduated from Bladensburg, Md. High School in 1957.

That region of the United States in which the bulk of the cotton crop of the country is produced is called the cotton belt.

Men's Fall Fashions To Offer Few Changes

NEW YORK (UPI) — The big news in men's furnishings for fall 1962 is the lack of major change.

Ties are a bit wider, shirts have fancier collars, felt hats have a bit more taper, hosiery is darker, longer and more stretchable and fur hats for cold days are the thing.

The men's wear industry, which moves a good six months ahead of the retail market, has had it fall showings and factories now are filling orders for fall and winter goods.

Tie manufacturers report the continuing biggest seller for fall is the underknot — a neat pattern centered under the knot. Stripes are increasing in popularity, and polka dots are making an appearance.

Blue-olive and blue-brown color are leaders followed by brown and red.

Widths continue narrow on the West Coast, sometimes as narrow as one inch but in traditional ties the widths are increasing slightly in some cases up to three inches measured across the broad part of the tie. Teen-agers prefer them narrow — about 1½ inches.

In shirts the basic button-down oxford still is the college favorite — and for the young businessman. Spread collars are gaining in popularity with snap tab, pinthroughs next. Teen-agers are going in for higher collars. Grayed-blues and greens are popular. A few stripes are seen but nothing like the quantity of bold stripes seen in London these days.

New shapes in men's hats reflect the "advance silhouette" models introduced in the spring by the Hat Corporation of America — geometric patterns. Trationals still prevail although crowns are somewhat higher with more taper. Brims run well under the two-inch, traditional with the older men and some teen-agers wearing one-inch brims. Colors — dark with brown making a new appearance.

The big news last winter was the unexpected popularity of fur and fake fur hats. They're even bigger this year and almost every manufacturer is featuring a form of Astrakhan or Cossack model. Cloth hats are more subdued and increasingly popular. The old ski cap reappears this fall with fur ear flaps.

Hebrew is the only one of the ancient languages that has survived as a spoken language.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband and I have been married for 10 years. We have small children and the usual headaches. Through no fault of our own we can't seem to get on our feet financially. No sooner do we get a doctor bill paid, when we are faced with a dentist's bill, an insurance premium or income taxes. There is never an extra dollar to buy something that is not absolutely essential — or to have a meal out.

My parents are comfortably fixed. They are in their 70's and retired. They are always saying we will have things better when they are gone. I know they have a nice estate and my brother and I will inherit it.

Why must parents wait until they die to make life easier for their children? My husband and I need the money NOW.

My brother is having a financial struggle, too. He agrees with me.

Shall I tell my parents how I feel and ask for their help? — POOR

DEAR POOR: Your signature tells me far more than your letter — and your letter tells me plenty.

Your are "Poor" all right — and in the sorriest sense of the word. You are poor in self-respect.

Your parents probably worked hard to achieve the comforts and freedom from financial worries which they enjoy today. Did anyone give THEM cash to make their lives easier?

I am not opposed to helping married children get through school, or coming to the rescue in case of an emergency, but it should be on a loan basis (without interest). You, however, are not interested in a loan—you're looking for a handout.

Go ahead and ask them for money now if you wish, but I hope your parents have the good sense to say no.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: For the past eight months I've been writing letters to a girl who is away at college. She and I were high school sweethearts. I enjoy writing letters (it's my hobby) so I write about five letters to her one, but she seems to like my letters so I don't think I'm overdoing it.

I've been wanting to visit her at school but she's been studying hard all year and was never able to set aside a weekend. Finals week will be coming up soon. All the college kids cut loose after finals and have a ball. I wrote saying I'd like to come up for the unwinding celebration. She wrote back and said she has three dates lined up for that week, and maybe it would be best if I didn't come. But she didn't say POSITIVELY.

I'm wondering if you think I should surprise her. I'll bet if I showed up she'd squeeze me in some place.

What do you think? — ERNIE

DEAR ERNIE: Wipe the egg off your face, Buddy Boy. This girl wants you to leave her alone. If you try to "surprise" her after she has told you she is busy, you'll be handed the surprise.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You are off base. I refer to your advice to the man who failed to file income tax returns and is now fearful that if he surrenders he will be clapped in the jug.

You said he should turn himself in to the Internal Revenue Service. As a certified public accountant I'd like to tell you that anyone who does this may have a pretty rough time all by his meek little self. Revenue agents are not always polite. They spar for every advantage. That's why we have tax courts.

There are two professions which specialize in income tax, attorneys who handle tax law and certified public accountants who prepare or certify to the accuracy of the return.

In dealing with marital problems you often recommend a lawyer, a clergyman or marriage counselor. In this tax matter you should have told the person to look in the yellow pages and consult a C.P.A. or an attorney who specializes in tax law. — MADISON, WIS.

To learn the knack of feeling comfortable with the opposite sex, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Be Date Bait," enclosing with your request 20c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Providence Oldsters Have Many Hobbies

PROVIDENCE, R. I. (UPI)— Every Thursday more than a dozen oldsters in the Providence area look forward to dabbling in paint, shaping copper or doing any one of a number of similar things.

They turn out wall plaques, artificial flowers, tile ash trays, hand tooled leather wallets and most anything else.

These people, most of them over 65, form the nucleus of a hobby workshop group at the Providence Recreation Department's Golden Age Center. The city provides them with an instructor, Miss Ruth Lamoureux, a building in which to meet and most of the basic materials used in their work.

One of their more eye-catching products is an eight by 12-inch wall plaque formed out of copper. This is made by placing a thin sheet of copper over a plastic mold and, with a wooden stylus, pressing out the particular scene to create a three-dimensional plaque.

The plaque then is polished, oxidized to darken the recessed areas and polished again to clean off the raised portion. One such product would take a Golden Ager about four hours to complete.

The plaque is framed, usually in white cardboard. One creative student, however, finished hers in bamboo.

One of the more popular pastimes is free-hand oil painting. The first step normally consists of a period of filling in outlines with the aid of numbers.

"The numbers give them an idea of color sense and the practice of working with a brush," Miss Lamoureux said. "They quickly go from numbers to free hand painting . . . they enjoy it more."

The hobbyists paint not only on canvas, but on trays, cigarette boxes and other items.

And the list of products goes on and on. They make leather bowling bags, shoes, wallets and handbags; bracelets out of beadwork; hot mats and ash trays from small tiles, and artificial flowers that look and feel real.

Then there are those senior citizens whn enjoy just helping out the Golden Agers. As Miss Lamoureux said: "There are many Golden Agers who make Golden Agers their hobby."

In shirts the basic button-down oxford still is the college favorite — and for the young businessman. Spread collars are gaining in popularity with snap tab, pinthroughs next. Teen-agers are going in for higher collars. Grayed-blues and greens are popular. A few stripes are seen but nothing like the quantity of bold stripes seen in London these days.

New shapes in men's hats reflect the "advance silhouette" models introduced in the spring by the Hat Corporation of America — geometric patterns. Trationals still prevail although crowns are somewhat higher with more taper. Brims run well under the two-inch, traditional with the older men and some teen-agers wearing one-inch brims. Colors — dark with brown making a new appearance.

The big news last winter was the unexpected popularity of fur and fake fur hats. They're even bigger this year and almost every manufacturer is featuring a form of Astrakhan or Cossack model. Cloth hats are more subdued and increasingly popular. The old ski cap reappears this fall with fur ear flaps.

Hebrew is the only one of the ancient languages that has survived as a spoken language.

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband and I have been married for 10 years. We have small children and the usual headaches. Through no fault of our own we can't seem to get on our feet financially. No sooner do we get a doctor bill paid, when we are faced with a dentist's bill, an insurance premium or income taxes. There is never an extra dollar to buy something that is not absolutely essential — or to have a meal out.

My parents are comfortably fixed. They are in their 70's and retired. They are always saying we will have things better when they are gone. I know they have a nice estate and my brother and I will inherit it.

Why must parents wait until they die to make life easier for their children? My husband and I need the money NOW.

My brother is having a financial struggle, too. He agrees with me.

Shall I tell my parents how I feel and ask for their help? — POOR

DEAR POOR: Your signature tells me far more than your letter — and your letter tells me plenty.

Your are "Poor" all right — and in the sorriest sense of the word. You are poor in self-respect.

Your parents probably worked hard to achieve the comforts and freedom from financial worries which they enjoy today. Did anyone give THEM cash to make their lives easier?

I am not opposed to helping married children get through school, or coming to the rescue in case of an emergency, but it should be on a loan basis (without interest). You, however, are not interested in a loan—you're looking for a handout.

Go ahead and ask them for money now if you wish, but I hope your parents have the good sense to say no.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: For the past eight months I've been writing letters to a girl who is away at college. She and I were high school sweethearts. I enjoy writing letters (it's my hobby) so I write about five letters to her one, but she seems to like my letters so I don't think I'm overdoing it.

I've been wanting to visit her at school but she's been studying hard all year and was never able to set aside a weekend. Finals week will be coming up soon. All the college kids cut loose after finals and have a ball. I wrote saying I'd like to come up for the unwinding celebration. She wrote back and said she has three dates lined up for that week, and maybe it would be best if I didn't come. But she didn't say POSITIVELY.

I'm wondering if you think I should surprise her. I'll bet if I showed up she'd squeeze me in some place.

What do you think? — ERNIE

DEAR ERNIE: Wipe the egg off your face, Buddy Boy. This girl wants you to leave her alone. If you try to "surprise" her after she has told you she is busy, you'll be handed the surprise.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You are off base. I refer to your advice to the man who failed to file income tax returns and is now fearful that if he surrenders he will be clapped in the jug.

You said he should turn himself in to the Internal Revenue Service. As a certified public accountant I'd like to tell you that anyone who does this may have a pretty rough time all by his meek little self. Revenue agents are not always polite. They spar for every advantage. That's why we have tax courts.

There are two professions which specialize in income tax, attorneys who handle tax law and certified public accountants who prepare or certify to the accuracy of the return.

In dealing with marital problems you often recommend a lawyer, a clergyman or marriage counselor. In this tax matter you should have told the person to look in the yellow pages and consult a C.P.A. or an attorney who specializes in tax law. — MADISON, WIS.

To learn the knack of feeling comfortable with the opposite sex, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Be Date Bait," enclosing with your request 20c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

First place winner is Margaret Skitarelic, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Benedict Skitarelic, Baltimore Pike.

Miss Skitarelic is a member of this year's graduating class and has been active in the National Honor Society, Sentinel staff, Science Club, Junior Town Meeting and various assemblies.

Second-place winner is Ellen Burge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Burge, 22 Browning Street.

Miss Burge is also a senior, holds a "Best Actress" award; has participated in the National Honor Society, Junior Town Meeting and various assemblies.

In addition to the regional winners, whose papers have been entered in the state contest, there is one other school winner. William Koelle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Irvin S. Koelle, 111 Memorial Avenue, Ext., placed third in the school contest. He is a member of the Hi-Y and was in the May Day Program.

Providence Oldsters Have Many Hobbies

PROVIDENCE, R. I. (UPI)— Every Thursday more than a dozen oldsters in the Providence area look forward to dabbling in paint, shaping copper or doing any one of a number of similar things.

They turn out wall plaques, artificial flowers, tile ash trays, hand tooled leather wallets and most anything else.

These people, most of them over 65, form the nucleus of a hobby workshop group at the Providence Recreation Department's Golden Age Center. The city provides them with an instructor, Miss Ruth Lamoureux, a building in which to meet and most of the basic materials used in their work.

One of their more eye-catching products is an eight by 12-inch wall plaque formed out of copper. This is made by placing a thin sheet of copper over a plastic mold and, with a wooden stylus, pressing out the particular scene to create a three-dimensional plaque.

The plaque then is polished, oxidized to darken the recessed areas and polished again to clean off the raised portion. One such product would take a Golden Ager about four hours to complete.

The plaque is framed, usually in white cardboard. One creative student, however, finished hers in bamboo.

One of the more popular pastimes is free-hand oil painting. The first step normally consists of a period of filling in outlines with the aid of numbers.

"The numbers give them an idea of color sense and the practice of working with a brush," Miss Lamoureux said. "They quickly go from numbers to free hand painting . . . they enjoy it more."

The hobbyists paint not only on canvas, but on trays, cigarette boxes and other items.

And the list of products goes on and on. They make leather bowling bags, shoes, wallets and handbags; bracelets out of beadwork; hot mats and ash trays from small tiles, and artificial flowers that look and feel real.

Then there are those senior citizens whn enjoy just helping out the Golden Agers. As Miss Lamoureux said: "There are many Golden Agers who make Golden Agers their hobby."

Fort Hill Grads To Hear Imre Kovacs

Imre Kovacs, lecturer on world affairs, exponent of Democracy and an authority on Central Europe and the Balkans, will be making his third visit to Allegany County on Tuesday, June 5, and Wednesday, June 6, when he addresses the graduates of Fort Hill and Beall high schools.

Two hundred fifty-three seniors will get their diplomas at Fort Hill at 8 p. m. June 5 and 149 will be graduated at Beall the following night.

Kovacs, a Hungarian by birth who has become an American, will speak on "The Challenge of Being An American."

Educated in schools in Hungary, Germany, Roumania and Serbia, he came to the United States and completed his training at Yale University, Lancaster Seminary and Juilliard School of Music.

He represented the YMCA in Yugoslavia. He has addressed over 5,000,000 people in American communities and is the only foreign-born American ever to receive the National Best Teller Award. He was co-recipient of this honor with former Vice President Alban Barkley.

Wiley Ford PTA Honors Top Spellers

The annual dinner meeting of the Wiley Ford P.T.A. was held recently at the school with Mrs. Carmelita Fleming presiding.

The faculty was honored, as were contestants in the Mineral County spelling meet, who were introduced by Clark Eagle, principal. They are Debbie Wease, fourth grade; Deanna Fazenbaker, fifth; Roger Harris, sixth; Martha Bloom, seventh; and Lyle Bloom, eighth.

The Americanism Medal was presented to Richard Taylor and Linda Ryan by Gib Brant, representing Knobley Mountain Post 136 of the American Legion.

A history award, given by the Woodmen of the World, was received by Richard Taylor, and Terry Deremer was recognized as participant in the West Virginia history golden horseshoe contest.

Officers of the organization were installed by Mrs. Graham Pifer, Keyser, regional director of the P.T.A. They are Mrs. Joseph Wolfe, president; Mrs. Benny Houdershell, vice-president; Mrs. Jack Grady, secretary; and Mrs. William Smith, treasurer.

Committee chairmen for the year are Parliamentarian, Clark Eagle; publicity, Mrs. Carmelita Fleming; juvenile protection and safety, Mr. Lester Hoffman; program, Mrs. Ruie Teter; ways and means, Mrs. Delse Johnson; health, Mrs. Doris Nield; library, Mrs. Howard Burkhardt; family problems, Mr. Harold Lambert; history, Mrs. Loretha Lantz; hospitality, Mrs Doris Fazenbaker; scout house, Mr. Marshall Nield; and membership, Mrs. Mary Goldsworthy.

The group was entertained by a quartet consisting of Eddie Liton, George Ott, Jack McFarland, and Duane Bloom under the direction of Karl Pfiffer, Ridgeley High band director.

Fifty per cent of all traffic accidents occur at speeds of less than 40 miles per hour. Half of all accidents occur within 25 miles of the driver's home.

Ordered $13,156.50 paid C. D. Stickley, Inc., contractor, for first and partial payment for surfacing nine downtown streets.

Cincinnati, O., still a great meat packing center in the world markets, was once known as "Porkapolis."

Two Deaths Recorded In Same Crash

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Two deaths recorded in a single accident in McDowell County over the week end raised West Virginia's traffic death toll to 148 or 30 more than the number recorded by this date a year ago, State Police said Monday.

Fatally injured Sunday night in the only fatal accident recorded in the state during the week end were Jack Farmer, 33, Abbs Valley, Va., and June Mayberry, 29, of English, McDowell County.

Farmer was apparently killed instantly while Miss Mayberry died in a Welch hospital Monday.

State Trooper Paul Gyke of Welch said they were passengers in a car driven by Farmer's brother, Jesse, who stopped his car along U. S. 52 near Iaeger to take a nap.

His brother and Miss Farmer had got out to stretch when they were struck by a car driven by Masin Lee Bailey, 27, of Panther, a soldier stationed at Fort Meade, Md.

Early Christians buried their dead and worshipped in the catacombs of Rome.

CENTENNIAL SCRAPBOOK

The War for the Union 1861-65 in Pictures

No. 125 "I believe that the struggle for life is the order of the world, at which it is vain to repine. I can imagine the burden changed in the way it is to be borne, but I cannot imagine that it will ever be lifted from man's back."

It may be surprising to intellectual or liberal admirers of Oliver Wendell Holmes, who was Associate Justice of the Supreme Court for 30 years, that the above is an opinion of his. It may also surprise them he was not a pacifist. He fought as a volunteer in defense of the Union (1861-65), was wounded three times, and earned promotion to lieutenant colonel.

The quotation is from an address in which he recalled his experiences in the war. He continued: "Perhaps as long as man dwells upon the globe, his destiny is battle, and he has to take the chances of war. If it is our business to fight, the book for the Army is a war song, not a hospital sketch. It is not well for soldiers to think much about wounds. Sooner or later we shall fall; but meanwhile it is for us to be stormed, and to get there if we can."

He continued: "Behind every scheme to make the world over, lies the question, 'What kind of world do you want?' The ideals of men of the past have been drawn from war, as those of women have been drawn from motherhood. For all our prophecies I doubt if we are ready to give up our inheritance. Who is there who would not like to be thought a gentleman? Yet what has that name been built on but the soldier's choice of honor or life?

"To be a soldier or descended from soldiers, in time of peace to be ready to give one's life rather than suffer disgrace, that is what the word [gentleman] has meant; and if we try to claim it at less cost than a splendid carelessness of life, we are trying to steal the good will without the responsibilities of the place . . ."

For a complete transcript of Mr. Holmes' memorable remarks, send a stamped, self-addressed No. 10 envelope to Clark Kinnaird, care of this newspaper.

Sen. Randolph Cites Need For More Jobs

Shorter Work Week May Result

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Unless the American economy can meet the challenge of providing increased job opportunities, a shortened work week "will be an inevitable and controversial consequence," Sen. Jennings Randolph said Monday.

Speaking in the Senate on behalf of the administration's public works bill, Randolph said he opposed such a development at this time.

"Conditions do not warrant such a radical procedure as that of earning more for producing less. Progress and national growth will depend on earning more for producing more," he said.

But the West Virginia Democrat warned that "an across-the-board shortening of the work-week" will become a reality unless new jobs keep up with expansion of the work force.

Randolph said the "immediate action" phase of the public works bill "is a sound and time-honored approach because the program will provide work directly on projects and indirectly in industries and serives associated with or supplying the projects."

He said the "standby" provisions are "safeguards for the future."

Randolph co - sponsored an amendment to increase the authorized size of the immediate program of accelerated public works to $750 million, from $600 million.

Another amendment co - sponsored by Randolph would reduce the standby authority of the President to "trigger" a new program of public works in the future as an anti-recession expedient from $2 billion to $750 million.

He also was listed as co-sponsor of amendments to provide for funding of both the immediate action and standby programs through direct appropriations, and to establish July 1, 1963, as the earliest date the President could invoke the standby program provisions of the bill.

Hodges Paints Rosy Business Picture

BALTIMORE (AP) — Secretary of Commerce Luther Hodges painted a sunny business picture Monday and called for support of legislation empowering President Kennedy to negotiate tariffs with the Common Market nations.

Hodges addressed the annual meeting of the Retail Merchants Association.

He cited the Federal Reserve System's quarterly report on consumer buying and forecast a very good year for business in 1962.

He said large numbers of consumers reported plans to buy homes and houses and durable household goods.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Integrationist leaders say they plan to meet Friday night to review Ocean City Mayor Hugh Cropper Jr.'s statement that the resort cannot afford to attempt integration at this time.

The mayor told the Civic Interest Group of Maryland (CIG) Monday that a partial poll indicated Ocean City businessmen feared attempts to change racial policies now would hamper the resort's rehabilitation. The city is recovering from tidal storm of March 6-7.

Two Deaths Recorded In Same Crash

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Two deaths recorded in a single accident in McDowell County over the week end raised West Virginia's traffic death toll to 148 or 30 more than the number recorded by this date a year ago, State Police said Monday.

Fatally injured Sunday night in the only fatal accident recorded in the state during the week end were Jack Farmer, 33, Abbs Valley, Va., and June Mayberry, 29, of English, McDowell County.

Farmer was apparently killed instantly while Miss Mayberry died in a Welch hospital Monday.

State Trooper Paul Gyke of Welch said they were passengers in a car driven by Farmer's brother, Jesse, who stopped his car along U. S. 52 near Iaeger to take a nap.

His brother and Miss Farmer had got out to stretch when they were struck by a car driven by Masin Lee Bailey, 27, of Panther, a soldier stationed at Fort Meade, Md.

Legislation Not For Courts, Senate States

Phoebus Resolution Gains Adoption

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—The Maryland Senate, waiting for the House to act on a court-directed reapportionment of seats, called on the courts Monday "to desist from their usurpation of legislative functions."

The resolution, sponsored by Sen. Harry T. Phoebus, came out of the Senate Judiciary Committee with a favorable report and was adopted on a voice vote.

The Senate had just vented some similar feelings in a debate on a stronger resolution which proposes revision of the 14th Amendment to the federal Constitution. The Supreme Court's recent interpretation that the amendment prohibits discrimination in malapportioned legislatures led to a special session of the Maryland Legislature which began last Friday.

The stronger complaint is a joint resolution which requires approval of both houses for passage. It was advanced to a third reading in the Senate by a 13-10 vote, two less than will be required for passage.

Phoebus' Senate resolution, which required only passage by that body, said the Supreme Court ruling in a Tennessee reapportionment case last March shattered a precedent of non-intervention in legislative matters.

"Clearly, assumption of such power by federal courts violates not only the principle of separation of governmental powers, but also takes away the rights of states under the doctrine of federalism," it said.

Lack Of Money To Keep Many From College

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The State Board of Education says lack of money appears to be the main reason why about 3,500 high school graduates recommended for college-level work by their principals won't enroll in college this fall.

The board's survey of public and private high schools showed that only 5,000 of the 8,546 graduates recommended for higher education plan to continue their schooling.

The survey covered 216 to 236 public and 9 of 17 private high schools in the state.

The number who will go to college represents about 30 per cent of the graduating classes, compared with a national average of 50 per cent.

About 580 of the students not going to college listed lack of money as their reason, another 460 said they decided to take a job, and 199 said they would enter military service.

H. K. Baer, secretary of the state board, said 185 students planned to enter nurses training, 60 will go to trade schools and 60 to beauty schools.

About 270 said they planned to enroll in business schools, 256 were not interested in college and 200 planned to be married.

Baer said 159 students remained undecided about college, 480 gave no statement, 242 gave no reasons and 348 gave miscellaneous reasons.

The information on the graduates listing each individual and data about him is being furnished to each of the state's colleges and universities.

Institutions were asked by the board to use the list in "promoting the advantages of higher education to young people and their parents, contacting the students in their areas to attempt to get them enrolled in college and uniting in a concerted effort to improve the percentage of high school graduates enrolling in colleges and universities."

House Battles

While the House engaged in a tug of war, the Senate merely marked time. The leadership there had agreed to wait for the outcome in the House before digging into the issue.

The special session of the legislature was called after Circuit Court Judge O. Bowie Duckett last week declared he found invidious discrimination against three suburban metropolitan counties on representation in the house.

The number of delegates ranging from two to six has been frozen since 1950 with the total at 123.

The proposal being pushed would retain the total number at 123 but would be based on a population formula subject to revision every 10 years.

Would Gain Five

Under existing population figures, Baltimore County would gain five delegates, Montgomery and Prince Georges three each, Anne Arundel and St. Mary's one each.

Losers would be Allegany, Dorchester and Frederick two each, and Carroll, Garrett, Somerset, Talbot, Washington, Wicomico, and Worcester one each.

During the four-year interim period, no county would have to surrender any delegate.

The total membership of the House would be raised temporarily to 140 in order to provide the increases.

The effect of the pending population formulas on Baltimore City would vary according to whether or not its six legislative districts are equalized in population.

During the four-year interim proposal, the 3rd and 5th districts would increase from six to eight each while the four retain six.

Without redistricting in 1966, four of the districts would lose delegates while the 3rd would gain two and the 5th one. If the boundary lines were withdrawn, the 6th would drop one delegate while all the others held to six.

The bill tentatively approved in the House contains a provision directing that the 1963 legislature draft new district lines for Baltimore or have the governor propose them.

Luncheon Speaker

Mrs. Ella Everstine, pyschiatric social consultant for Allegany County Health Department, will be luncheon speaker for the United Church of Christ Synod June 5, at Hyndman, Pa.

Mrs. Everstine's topic will be "The Pastor—The Patient,—and the Community."

Group Appeals Court Ruling

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The Maryland Committee for Fair Representation noted Monday an appeal from an Anne Arundel County Circuit Court ruling declaring the makeup of the House of Delegates invalid.

The appeal was taken immediately after Judge O. Bowie Duckett signed a formal decree, implementing the opinion he had given last week.

John B. Wright, local attorney for the committee which pressed for legal action on reapportionment, said the Court of Appeals will be asked Tuesday to rule again on the issue, "if possible this week while the legislature is still in special session."

Wright said the appeal will be based on Judge Duckett's refusal to declare the State Senate makeup unconstitutional, as well as that of the House of Delegates. The committee also will protest his holding that no "invidious discrimination" exists against residents of Anne Arundel County and Baltimore City in the present distribution of seats in the House.

Morgantown Man Charged In Murder

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI)—Robert A. Wilson, 27, of near Morgantown, waived to the Monongalia County grand jury Monday on a murder charge in the death of Wayman A. Johnson, 27, Morgantown.

Wilson was arrested after he walked into the county jail Saturday night and admitted the fatal shooting.

Johnson was shot twice in the head with a 22-caliber pistol during an argument in a back room at the Bunny Hop Tavern at nearby Osage, police said.

Johnson, father of three children, once was chauffeur for Elvis J. Stahr, when the Army Secretary was president of West Virginia University.

Blackwater Falls On Calendar

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—West Virginia may not replace Marilyn Monroe in popularity on calendars but it is making some progress in the field.

State Travel Director Robert Bowers said a leading calendar firm has contracted to use color prints of six of West Virginia's "mostly highly scenic" sites. The pictures will be published for use on calendars this year and next.

Bowers said a large airline has purchased 10,000 calendars featuring the West Virginia scenes for distribution in America and abroad. The scenes include Blackwater Falls, Harper's Ferry, Gauley Bridge, Bluestone State Park and Reservoir, Hill's Creek Falls in Pocahontas County and a panoramic view of the Potomac River Valley.

Bowers said at least 125,000 of the pictures will be published by the calendar firm.

Special Assembly May Cost $50,000

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The Maryland Legislature is digging deeper into the state treasury to finance the special session it is now holding on reapportionment of seats.

A bill was introduced as the session began last Friday to appropriate $25,000 for its costs. The amount was doubled Monday at the suggestion of Senate President George W. Della.

Della said it would cost a minimum of $35,000 and probably $50,000. He noted that the previous costs of special sessions have averaged $4,000 a day not counting printing and telephone bills.

MOSCOW (AP) — Two musical works by Ivan the Terrible—1533-1584—have been found in a monastery at Zagorsk near Moscow, Tass said. The news agency added that the compositions by the 16th century Russian ruler were played on the piano and have an austere and solemn sound.

Supreme Court Agrees To Review

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The State Supreme Court agreed Monday to review a Kanawha County Circuit Court decision against the Cumberland & Allegheny Gas Co., Keyser, in a Workmen's Compensation case.

The lower court upheld a ruling by the State Department of Employment Security Board of Review that 14 of the company's employes were eligible for unemployment compensation benefits for the July 29, 1960-Aug. 26, 1960 period during a labor dispute at the plant.

Legislation Not For Courts, Senate States

Phoebus Resolution Gains Adoption

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—The Maryland Senate, waiting for the House to act on a court-directed reapportionment of seats, called on the courts Monday "to desist from their usurpation of legislative functions."

The resolution, sponsored by Sen. Harry T. Phoebus, came out of the Senate Judiciary Committee with a favorable report and was adopted on a voice vote.

The Senate had just vented some similar feelings in a debate on a stronger resolution which proposes revision of the 14th Amendment to the federal Constitution. The Supreme Court's recent interpretation that the amendment prohibits discrimination in malapportioned legislatures led to a special session of the Maryland Legislature which began last Friday.

The stronger complaint is a joint resolution which requires approval of both houses for passage. It was advanced to a third reading in the Senate by a 13-10 vote, two less than will be required for passage.

Phoebus' Senate resolution, which required only passage by that body, said the Supreme Court ruling in a Tennessee reapportionment case last March shattered a precedent of non-intervention in legislative matters.

"Clearly, assumption of such power by federal courts violates not only the principle of separation of governmental powers, but also takes away the rights of states under the doctrine of federalism," it said.

Building Permits Are Issued Here

The issuance of seven building permits yesterday kept James G. Stevenson, clerk of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners, rather busy for awhile.

He issued three dwelling permits to Mike Burgess, 628 Washington Street, who was given the go ahead to build three homes in LaVale.

Donald Workman, of LaVale, was issued permits to construct two dwellings.

Also getting two building permits was Harold S. Hughes, LaVale, who plans additions to present structures.

The seventh permit was granted to Sarver F. Good of Berlin, Pa., who plans a brick dwelling along National Highway in District 29.

Lack Of Money To Keep Many From College

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The State Board of Education says lack of money appears to be the main reason why about 3,500 high school graduates recommended for college-level work by their principals won't enroll in college this fall.

The board's survey of public and private high schools showed that only 5,000 of the 8,546 graduates recommended for higher education plan to continue their schooling.

The survey covered 216 to 236 public and 9 of 17 private high schools in the state.

The number who will go to college represents about 30 per cent of the graduating classes, compared with a national average of 50 per cent.

About 580 of the students not going to college listed lack of money as their reason, another 460 said they decided to take a job, and 199 said they would enter military service.

H. K. Baer, secretary of the state board, said 185 students planned to enter nurses training, 60 will go to trade schools and 60 to beauty schools.

About 270 said they planned to enroll in business schools, 256 were not interested in college and 200 planned to be married.

Baer said 159 students remained undecided about college, 480 gave no statement, 242 gave no reasons and 348 gave miscellaneous reasons.

The information on the graduates listing each individual and data about him is being furnished to each of the state's colleges and universities.

Institutions were asked by the board to use the list in "promoting the advantages of higher education to young people and their parents, contacting the students in their areas to attempt to get them enrolled in college and uniting in a concerted effort to improve the percentage of high school graduates enrolling in colleges and universities."

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Dorothy Manners

(Substituting for Louella Parsons)

HOLLYWOOD, — Sean Flynn, son of Errol, wishes now he'd had a clamp over his mouth before he gave out that interview in London that he preferred Europe to the USA. French, Italian and even the British press gave it a far more anti-American slant than he had intended.

In justice to the good looking boy who is just starting and has a lot to learn, I hear he was feeling in sort of an Errol Flynn mood when he met the foreign reporters (most of whom are only too happy to pan this country) and some of the comments were put in his mouth. Anybody can make one mistake.

From now on in, Sean, watch it.

Was the "Something's Got To Give" set closed the other day because Marilyn Monroe was working in a nude swimming scene? All right, almost nude scene for American distribution.

She was anything but nude when she showed up later in the 20th Century Fox commissary, a stunner in a beige wool suit trimmed with mink at the hemline, cuffs and collar and a matching mink beret. Marilyn was playing hostess to two foreign looking guests, friends of her coach, Paula Strasberg - a very animated and laughing group.

The studio gang may get very irked with Marilyn from time to time but they can't take their eyes off her when she's around.

The French may be pouting with us politically, but they're turning it on big to welcome Frank Sinatra with a singular honor. The Garde Republicaine will give him an official welcome when he arrives in June. This is an unheard of tribute to an entertainer.

Frank's chief business in Paris is putting on several benefits for his children and youth organizations, a mission which has had him touring the world for the past five weeks.

From France, Frank goes on to Monaco June 9th to visit his old friend Princess Grace and stage a show which will be attended by Grace and Prince Rainier.

After two years of production blues keeping "Mutiny On The Bounty" afloat, it must be music to Aaron Rosenberg's ears that it now looks as if he'll get "Sound Of Music" to bring him to the screen.

This entails a move off the MGM lot to 20th Century Fox where Rosie has already set up shop in the Administration Building.

"Sound Of Music" is one of loveliest of the Rodgers and Hammerstein musicals. Walking on a sound stage and hearing that beautiful music would be a welcome switch from the din that marked "Mutiny" from start to finish.

Ann Margret's age has been guessed at and printed as any place between 17 and 25. When she goes into court next week to pick up her earnings as a juvenile performer, the record will show that the svelte Swede turned 21 on April 28th.

The way producers are stampeding her with offers, it's convenient she can now sign her own contracts. There are a lot of smart people in this town who will tell you that Ann Margret is the next authentic star coming up.

Walt Disney himself got so many chuckles out of Ed Wynn and Keenan Wynn teamed in "The Absent Minded Professor" that he has signed the father-son duo for a repeat in one of his pictures, "Son Of Flubber." Fred MacMurray is also a repeat- so it will be like old home week when Director Robert Stevenson gathers the clan together on the Disney lot.

You can start laughing already at Ed Wynn as a whimsical agricultural agent and Keenan as a wheeler-dealer loan shark. Or is this too close to some current headlines for comfort?

Park Ready For Opening Tomorrow

Constitution Park, 90-acres of natural beauty within the city limits, opens what is expected to be another successful summer season Wednesday, Memorial Day.

The Street Department and Recreation Department announced plans for the opening yesterday.

The swimming pool will be open for the holiday Wednesday, according to C. Eugene Mason, recreation director, close Thursday and Friday, then reopen for Saturday and Sunday. Then the pool will be closed until after schools recess for the summer holiday, he said.

The park area in general, play equipment, picnic sections and the few animals on display, were pronounced in redainess for the official opening by Street Commissioner John J. Long and Street Superintendent Ray Valentine under whose direction work there was conducted.

Valentine said the downstairs and locker and shower rooms of the bathhouse at the pool have been painted and repaired. New toilet equipment also was installed.

The pool has been painted and depth numbers painted on the sides. The adjoining wading pool was repaired, about 10 feet of concrete being required to fix the sides which had deteriorated. A new eight-inch pipe was installed in the filter house.

In the animal line, Valentine said the bear cage has been enlarged from 12 to 18 feet, the duck pond area cleaned and the deer pen prepared to receive the many hundreds of youngsters who find the city's one remaining deer a major attraction at the park.

In addition, picnic tables have been retopped and painted and a fountain in Grove 4 rebuilt of brick. Fireplaces were also checked and a number of them are in need of repair which will be done during the summer, Valentine said.

Playground equipment has been checked, repainted and installed.

In the amphitheatre, which is used for public programs and vesper services during the summer, benches have been repaired and the area pronounced in shape for the summer.

City workers are presently engaged in the second cutting of grass in the park this spring. A new mower was purchased recently, Vaelntine said, and the old one used as a trade-in.

Ten old trash cans were removed and 20 new ones put in place and visitors are asked to use them for trash and debris to keep the park beautiful, Valentine said.

Robert R. Golden is custodian of the park and reservations for picnics or other events should be made with Golden, Valentine said.

Other members of the park staff are Thomas G. Hopwood, chauffeur; Clarence Day, Phil Barbe and Joseph Blacklin, laborers, and Fred Graziani, watchman, who is on duty from 10 p. m. to 6 a. m.

Yesterday, the Mayor and Council approved seasonal workers for the park pool. They include: Charles Smith Jr., manager, $105 biweekly; John T. Morris, head lifeguard, $75; George Strachan, Andrew Petenbrink, Michael Wanda, lifeguards, $56; David Hite, Harley Winer, Martin Beck, Keith Thomas, extra lifeguards, $56; Charlene Sibley, Judy Giles, Francis Berry, cashier-checkers, $40; Janet D. Browne, Norma Hendrickson, extra cashier-checkers, $40.

Good News For Nibblers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A defense for nibblers!

Studies reported by the National Heart Institute show that a flock of chickens given free access to food to nibble around the clock daily for five weeks fared better than chicks in nearby coops who ate regular meals.

The chickens who ate regular meals and did not nibble had cholesterol levels twice as high and coronary atherosclerosis seven times as severe as did nibblers.

This — despite the fact that the regular peckers had consumed about one-third less food then the nibblers. Identical foods were eaten by both the nibblers and the regular meal chickens.

A report in the Journal of the South Carolina Medical Association notes that the experiments raise questions on the soundness of current dietetic theory — the three meals a day regime.

The journal reported also that the studies suggest that the popularity of "coffee breaks" may indicate an unconscious desire for the beneficial effects of frequent feeding — alias nibbling.

Meeting On B&O Noise Delayed

A meeting with the B&O Railroad concerning complaints received from residents of the Offutt Street area was not held yesterday but will be held at a later date.

Police and Fire Commissioner Philmore Fleming, who was acting mayor last week, said he had received letters from H. I. Walton, superintendent of the Cumberland Division of the B&O, saying he would be out of town yesterday but would be willing to meet on the matter at any time after that day.

Offutt Street residents had protested a noise caused by the cutting of steel rails; and the dumping of trash and garbage on B&O property in the area.

Antibiotics were first made available for clinical use in the United States in 1940 when penicillin was produced for commercial use.

Naval Unit To Meet Today

Naval Reserve Surface Division 5-9, which usually meets for drills each Wednesday, will meet this week today, instead, according to Cmdr. Gerard P. Calhoun, commanding officer.

Cmdr. Calhoun said the change was made because of the visit of Rear Adm. Wallis Petersen, who will conduct a personel inspection at the center tomorrow.

Marble Tourney Is Rescheduled

The annual Cumberland marbles championship tourney scheduled for yesterday has been postponed because of rain, Recreation Director C. Eugene Mason said this morning.

The tourney will be held next Monday at 4 p. m. at Gephart School Playground, Frederick Street. Sixteen local school champions will compete.

A Lesson Learned A Decade Ago

While the world is now enjoying peace of a sort, there is always the possibility that the United States will again be involved in war, a danger which will exist so long as Russia continues to manifest a belligerent attitude toward the free world. And should a showdown come, it would soon become apparent what this country has learned from past experience.

High military authorities still are convinced that an opportunity for permanent peace in the Far East was fumbled by failure to blast Communist supply depots in Manchuria. That the red enemy was able to wage the Korean War to a humiliating draw because he was left unmolested while he was assembling men and munitions.

By failure to adopt General MacArthur's thesis that there is no substitute for victory, the U. S. was left in an unhappy situation.

Nothing can come of reviving the controversy at this late date. But should this nation find itself in a similar dilemma, would it revive the policy of "shooting the enemy gently" or would it give him the works, as many are convinced should have been done in Korea?

Defense Line Against Communism?

These Days

A Girl's Ideas

Dear Myrna:

I have your letter of May 17. You are a brave girl. Your P.S. says, "You may publish this!" And you give your full name and the name of your college in which you are a senior student.

But I think that it is better not to publish your name or the name of your college. You are undoubtedly in your early 20's and I could be your grandfather. I have seen much of the world; have lived and worked in many places. I know that your ideas suit you now, but they are likely to be a heartache 10 years from now. We all go through that.

You say:

"First of all, if you're referring to college students' dress, the only dress I've seen (and I've been around to many campuses) is in the best taste and is quite conservative and collegiate. How can this possibly be conducive to 'illicit sex'? . . ."

I, too, have visited many campuses during the past 30 years and have had three children on campuses and if you think that slacks and shorts and short-shorts, for girls, are conservative and in the best taste, I hope to differ. Most girls look awful in such clothes Their figures are unsuited for them.

Long before you were born, I lived in China where women wear trousers and sometimes, the coolie women have no tops. But women of good families wear clothes to fit their figures and they try to be trim. A few weeks ago, I was lecturing at a very important girls' college and I must say that the girls I saw on the campus looked very sloppy to me. If I were a young man, I would not marry one of them.

You ask:

". . . how can you judge students by the marks they get in hard subjects? How assanine (sic) is that? A student may be very good in one subject that she is interested in and just passing another which she finds boring (for the most part it's the teacher who makes the course a success or a failure, so actually it can be extremely good or vice versa.) This is a proven fact. What does this have to do with their character? All it shows is that they don't have any interest in the subject, that the teacher is poor, or that they aren't capable of doing the work if their marks aren't up to par. If their marks are good, on the other hand, it means it is an interesting course, they study constantly, and the teacher is qualified. It has nothing to do with one's morality."

It has a great deal to do with responsibility and with obligation. Parents do not send their children to college, usually at considerable expense, to do only what interests them. Most parents often do not realize that many students take snap courses, that really mean nothing in the long run, and that even in the snap courses, they get a passing C. Even a B is an unsatisfactory mark on a curve in the smaller and less strict colleges.

I employ young ladies and I often shudder at what they did not learn. A girl who told me that she majored in economics never heard of Gresham's Law. Another majored in English composition. So I told her to write me 1,500 words about anything. My dog, Joe, could undoubtedly bark a more correct essay. Spelling bad. Punctuation ridiculous. Ideas infantile. Composition meaningless.

You have a perfect right to disagree with Miss Blanding of Vassar, but your manner of disagreement is disrespectful. Nay, it is impudent. The fact that the last paragraph in your letter to me is also impudent, I shall pass over. But concerning Miss Blanding, you write: "Just because she is President of Vassar does not mean she is all knowing."

That is fresh. You are a senior, just about to be graduated. Thus far, you have achieved nothing. Miss Blanding is one of America's most distinguished educators. Of such women, you, a shave-tail, should speak with respect.

One of the misfortunes of our country is that our young people have lost the meaning of the words, respect, duty, responsibility, obligation.

When you have achieved such a position as Miss Blanding holds, you might speak slightingly of your peers. Until then be respectful and hold your peace.

Kennedy's Father Not Improving; President Ribs New York Mayor

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—President Kennedy had a disheartening visit with his father in New York last week.

Despite the long months of trying to restore Ambassador Kennedy's speech, the doctors have not been successful. The 72-year-old patriarch remains frustrated and silent when he tries to speak to his family, and his family, in turn, can't be sure that he understands what they say to him.

For a man who was always as active as his nine children and who took such pride in their achievements, this is most distressing.

Joseph P. Kennedy lived through the famous Hoover-depressed stock Market and, as first chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission, helped to build the safeguards against future stock market debacles. Doubtless he could have given his son important advice on the current plunging market, had he been able to talk. But he could not.

No Southern Esteem

While in New York last week, President Kennedy met with 100 mayors from around the nation to talk about medical care for the aged.

The meeting was at Gracie Mansion, official residence of Mayor Bob Wagner, and the President took occasion to pay a little tribute to the mayor of New York.

"I've traveled all over the country," he said, "and I know the high esteem in which Bob Wagner is held. He's held in high esteem as far west as California, as far north as Maine, and as far south as New Jersey."

Sweat-Shop Conditions

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, now 77, sat in the hot New York sun for two hours at the dedication of the new International Gament Workers Center. The temperature was about 90 in the shade, and considerably more in the sun. But Mrs. R. couldn't leave because she occupied an honor position next to President Kennedy.

"You know," she remarked, "I'm not exactly a weakling. But two hours in the sun is a long time."

Commented President Kennedy: "I thought they'd aboiished sweatshop conditions."

Note — Gov. Rockefeller, also present, did not waste his time. "He was pumping hands all over the place," observed Mrs. Roosevelt.

Ike's Brothers

Here is what Congressional probers found in Agriculture Department files regarding grain storage and two of the Eisenhower brothers. It's also why Senate GOP leader Ev Dirksen of Illinoise began squawking last week that Congressinoal probers were preparing a "retaliatory strike" against the Republicans.

In the files is a grain contract with Tacoma Vegetable Oils Corp., which, though having headquarters in Tacoma, Wash., is controlled by the Sir Walter Carpenter interests in Australia and Canada. However, its counsel and director was Edgar Eisenhower, brother of the ex-President.

In 1955, Tacoma Vegetable Oils wasn't doing at all well. Its business of handling copra from the South Pacific was off. The company had only $2,986.70 in the bank and had rolled up a whopping deficit of $398,570.42.

This worried Edgar Eisenhower, who was also treasurer of the company.

At this point, however, the company was pulled out of the deep red by a very nice contract from the Agriculture Department to store grain. In 1955, a total of 212,000 bushels was stored in the warehouse of which Ike's brother was counsel, director, and treasurer.

Then, in 1956, the amount was increased to 476,000 bushels. A lot of West Coast companies were anxious to get government grain. It was good business. But only one other West Coast company got its grain storage increased by the government that year. The files show that Ike's brother's company's was doubled.

Back in Kansas City, another brother, the late Arthur Eisenhower, vice president of the Commerce Trust Company, was one of the bankers for the famous Burrus Mills Company which made headlines when it stored 35,000,000 bushels of government grain under tents and birds pecked the canvas away, thereby damaging the grain.

The banks had agreed to guarantee any loss, but the Agriculture Department considerately waived its right to reject gain that fell below par or to collect any loss. Democrats at that time claimed the Burrus Company got special favored treatment and that the taxpayers were left holding the bag.

Deep Freezes vs. Estes

Jerry Holleman, who was fired as Assistant Secretay for taking a $1,000 expense check from Billie Sol Estes, is getting bitter. He is asking why Kennedy can't stand up for his staff members the same way Harry Truman did for his military aide, Maj. Gen. Harry Vaughan, when Vaughan accepted various deep freezes from a Wisconsin lobbyist.

There was a difference, however, between Vaughan and Holleman Vaughan was an intimate personal friend of Truman's. Holleman was not a friend of Kennedy's. And the deep freezes were given to Mrs. Truman, to the wife of Chief Justice Vinson, and others high up in the official family.

If Truman had retreated, it would have reflected on his own family, and Harry was one to fight like a tiger for his family.

Contradictions Of Supreme Court Are Growing

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — It's getting harder and harder to believe in the infallibility of the Supreme Court of the United States. The contradictions in its rulings are growing in scope and number.

Thus, on May 14, the Supreme Court affirmed a lower court ruling which ordered Maurice A. Hutcheson, head of the National Carpenters' Union, to serve six months in jail for contempt. He had refused to answer questions of a Senate Investigating Committee.

Yet just a week later — on May 21 — the same Supreme Court reversed a lower court and set free six men who had been convicted of contempt for refusing to answer the questions of Congressional investigating committees. In this case, the majority of the court said that the indictment was faulty because it didn't state the subject under inquiry. But the very indictment which sends Mr. Hutcheson to jail had the same omission. So one man is imprisoned while the others go free.

This, moreover, wasn't the only contradiction revealed by the May 21 opinions of the members of the Supreme Court. It brings memories of another decision—perhaps the most important in the history of the press of America—which was made by the Supreme Court just 25 years ago on the right of a newspaper or a news organization to fire its employes for any reason it chooses.

In last week's case, which involved contempt charges, the majority of the defendants were newspapermen. They refused to answer questions that congressional committees had asked in investigating Communist attempts to infiltrate the American press. The purpose of Congress was to determine what safeguards of law could be devised to check such efforts.

The Supreme Court's majority in this case ignored all other issues and merely held that the wording of the indictment was faulty. It remained for Justice Douglas, in his "concurring opinion," to put his finger on a basic issue which the majority had failed even to mention—whether the press is immune from investigation because of the first amendment, which says Congress shall make no law abridging the freedom of the press. He wrote:

"Under our system of government, I do not see how it is possible for Congress to pass a law saying whom a newspaper or news agency or magazine shall or shall not employ. . .

"Congress has no more authority in the field of the press than it does where the pulpit is involved."

Yet on April 12, 1937, a majority of the Supreme Court—Justices Hughes, Roberts, Stone, Cardozo and Brandeis—ruled the exact opposite in the case of the Associated Press V. National Labor Relations Board. In the majority opinion of the court, which upheld a law of Congress known as the National Labor Relations Act, Justice Roberts wrote:

"The act does not compel the petitioner to employ anyone; it does not require that the petitioner retain in its employ an incompetent editor or one who fails faithfully to edit the news to reflect the facts without bias or prejudice. The act permits a discharge for any reason other than union activity or agitation for collective bargaining with employes."

But the first amendment to the Constitution says nothing about "union activity or agitation." It says Congress "shall make no law abridging the freedom of the press." And the same law upheld by the Supreme Court is in existence today and permits conspiracies by groups of employes in different trades to shut down a newspaper plant by agreeing among themselves not to cross a picket line.

The Supreme Court in its 1937 opinion chose, moreover, to disregard the true scope of "union activity" and to assume that labor-management relations, for instance, is not a subject ever dealt with in their writings by the reporters or editorial writers employed by a newspaper and that presumably no "conflict of interest" could occur against which the newspaper would want to protect itself.

The flat rule was nevertheless adopted — and it still is the "law of the land"—that Congress may by law forbid employers from discharging anyone, even an agitator, because of activity in a labor union. Another employe, however, could be discharged for participating too conspiciously in partisan politics or in some other field of endeavor that became controversial. Labor-union activity alone was immunized by the Supreme Court.

The four justices in the minority — Sutherland, Van Devanter, McReynolds and Butler — took the view that, because of the first amendment to the Constitution, Congress could not pass any law interfering with the right of newspapers or news agencies to hire and fire whomever they pleased and for whatever reason they felt was justified. It is interesting now to read a "concurring opinion" on the majority side by Justice Douglas of today's court reaffirming the freedom of the press in even broader terms than were expressed by a majority of four justices 25 years ago.

Inside Washington

DOUBLE TALK—There's a new move afoot in Congress to push through a "Fair Trade" law—one which would make it illegal for retail stores to sell any number of articles below prices set by the manufacturers.

However, its proponents don't call it a Fair Trade law. They call it "quality stabilization," an obvious effort to sell the bill to legislators with the argument that price maintenance is necessary if manufacturers are to be encouraged from downgrading the quality of their products.

Recently the Washington representative — or "lobbyist" — for a group favoring the legislation, testified before a congressional committee.

He was contending that such a measure would not work to the disadvantage of the consumer. But let him put it in his own words:

"We sincerely believe the bill would cost the American people nothing. All of the statistics over the years indicate that retail price maintenance adds nothing to the cost of living of the American people as a whole—although concededly it deprives people of the opportunity of shopping around for bargains."

So little attention was being paid to the witness that none of the committee members questioned his remarks. But since reading the transcript they're waiting for an opportunity to get him back on the witness stand.

The Great Cop-Out

By John Crosby

Most young writers are a little reluctant to bite the hand that feeds them, but not Roger O. Hirson, who looks more like a movie star than the excellent writer that he is. Hirson lashes out with great accuracy and rage at both the world of the theater and television in both of which he's trying to get along.

Hirson is best known for his "Playhouse 90" play "Journey to the Day," which was conceivably the best TV original of its season—although considerable credit for its impact must be given to Fred Coe who produced it with great style and John Frankenheimer who directed it with great inventiveness. "Journey to the Day," which was about severely ill mental patients groping to sanity through group therapy, is now a full-length play which Hirson longs to get to Broadway.

Still, one of his great complaints about the Broadway theater—and I must admit it gives one pause to think—is that it is too obsessed with neuroses: "Boy, do I think, the neurotic is overused and the world of the heroic underused!" he says, almost exploding with it. "Our emphasis on the neurotic is a social neurosis in itself."

Hirson has reflected deeply and, one suspects, a little bitterly on this subject and he makes some disturbing points: "Strong women are written very often but strong men who rise above their obstacles are not acceptable as heroes. People do triumph in our society. They do triumph over their environment and over their emotions. Why are we so involved with neurotics, like the people in Tennessee Williams?

"That's what I like about 'Journey to the Day.' It has a hero and I'm working on another play which has a hero and I like heroes. For the producers and the directors in the theater today, for the most part, there are no heroes. And we're not going to get any, and if we don't get any, society will take on this same feeling that there aren't any heroes and become an extension of our art."

Then he went on to a very touchy point indeed and one that you hear expressed sub rosa by the people in the theater but rarely out loud. "I feel that the theater is so rife with homosexuality that the masculine values necessary in our society are almost totally lacking. We always have plays that blame all our troubles on our fathers or our mothers. It's the great cop-out. Unless men come along who produce and men write plays, our theater is going to be in trouble."

Hirson turned to a subject that is not going to make him the favorite around the Authors League. "Writers make too much money. Their standard of living goes up and then they find themselves involved in a constant effort to keep up that standard. How can they get the house, get the second car, put their kids in private school—and all that. So they start figuring: why not write a bad movie and make a bundle. But one year doing junk and you begin to lose the talent for doing anything better. Nobody gives you that year back."

He laughed: "You have to be careful not to get rich. The years a writer spends going after easy money are a total waste. I haven't given up on myself. I have a value. And I have succeeded in not getting rich."

Hirson is now doing a TV original for the Westinghouse series on June 20 called "The First Day" (he's going to have to get away from that kind of "Day" title one day) and like "Journey to the Day" it's about mental illness—in this case about a woman's return to society after being released from a mental institution.

"'The First Day' deals with a lack of communication between people. It's a very old subject. But I'd rather say something which has been said fifty times before and try to say it better than to take something which may be new and specific. That's the trouble with television, you've got to come up with something new. I am more interested in the human condition than the headlines because the comment on the human condition can be universal; the other is only specific."

Backache Common Complaint During Pregnancy

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Backache is a common complaint among pregnant women. This is understandable, considering the strain associated with standing, bending, lifting, and walking. In addition, the lower spine is tilted forward during the last few months of pregnancy, to counterbalance the protrusion in front.

Backache in a pregnant woman rarely if ever is traced to an abnormality of the pelvic organs. The exception occurs during labor when the contractions of the uterus are associated with marked backache. Fatigue also plays an important role in weakening the muscles and supporting ligaments of the area. Most minor degrees of backache can be helped by minimizing strain, obtaining more rest and wearing a light maternity girdle to lend support.

Severe backache is different. It varies from a constant nagging distress to an incapacitating pain in the lower spine. In some instances the condition is so painful the pregnant woman must be hospitalized.

X-rays are advisable when pain is severe, even though there is a good chance they will not show any abnormality. In these women, discomfort usually stems from an acute strain of the spinal muscles leading to painful spasm.

Heat, aspirin and a muscle relaxant help most. An ordinary electric pad may be satisfactory whereas others apply warm moist towels, kept hot via an infrared lamp or heat cradle. This type of aching may persist or recur after the baby comes.

In others, severe pain stems from an anatomic defect such as that produced by arthritis or a ruptured disc. In many instances, pain extends down the back of a leg due to pressure on the roots of the sciatic nerve. These conditions usually require additional treatment after the baby comes.

TOMORROW: Rest and relax on trips.

HANDEDNESS

REPLY

Some authorities hold to this theory. Children (yours, not others,) should be encouraged — not forced — to use the right hand.

BEER AND ULCER

B. H. writes: I was operated on for a perforated ulcer a few months ago. I drink milk at each meal. Would it be safe to have a glass of beer a few times a week? I can't ask my own doctor because he has gone back to school for a special course.

REPLY

Wait until he comes back. He may have picked up a few additional reasons why alcoholic beverages are not recommended for persons recovering from ulcer.

DETECTING CIRRHOSIS

R. S. writes: Can a physician make a correct diagnosis of cirrhosis of the liver from an office examination and after the patient has disclosed his symptoms? No tests were taken.

REPLY

Yes, when the individual has a textbook picture of the disease, including a definite cause, such as excessive drinking and inadequate eating.

ULCERATIVE COLITIS

A. M. writes: Is ulcerative colitis curable?

REPLY

The word cure should not be used because this disease tends to come and go. Many victims have been free from symptoms for years and years. Surgery offers the best chance of recovery when the disease is persistent.

Due to the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Clip Amory, sauve Boswell of what's left of the Society Set in this country, often prefaces his lectures to ladies' clubs with the reminder that most exclusive clubs are formed to keep people out, rather than to take people in. "I am sure," simpered one club president, as she served Amory a post-lecture cup of lukewarm coffee, "that you didn't include this wonderful Green Valley Club of ours." "Oh, no," Amory answered her. "I had always thought the Green Valley Club was a motel."

Who says great thinkers are forgetful folk? Viscount Hailsham recalls the morning Philosopher Immanuel Kant suddenly remembered he had proposed marriage to a lovely neighbor and been accepted. He hastily donned his best clothes and rushed over to his prospective bride's home—where he found to his intense disappointment she had left town—some 20 years before.

"You Bostonians are always so loyal," taunted another midwestern matron, "yet I notice that neither your father, your brother, your sister, nor you yourself married a Bostonian." "Of course not," answered Amory smoothly, "We feel we have to spread the culture."

A Lesson Learned A Decade Ago

While the world is now enjoying peace of a sort, there is always the possibility that the United States will again be involved in war, a danger which will exist so long as Russia continues to manifest a belligerent attitude toward the free world. And should a showdown come, it would soon become apparent what this country has learned from past experience.

High military authorities still are convinced that an opportunity for permanent peace in the Far East was fumbled by failure to blast Communist supply depots in Manchuria. That the red enemy was able to wage the Korean War to a humiliating draw because he was left unmolested while he was assembling men and munitions.

By failure to adopt General MacArthur's thesis that there is no substitute for victory, the U. S. was left in an unhappy situation.

Nothing can come of reviving the controversy at this late date. But should this nation find itself in a similar dilemma, would it revive the policy of "shooting the enemy gently" or would it give him the works, as many are convinced should have been done in Korea?

These Days

A Girl's Ideas

Dear Myrna:

I have your letter of May 17. You are a brave girl. Your P.S. says, "You may publish this!" And you give your full name and the name of your college in which you are a senior student.

But I think that it is better not to publish your name or the name of your college. You are undoubtedly in your early 20's and I could be your grandfather. I have seen much of the world; have lived and worked in many places. I know that your ideas suit you now, but they are likely to be a heartache 10 years from now. We all go through that.

You say:

"First of all, if you're referring to college students' dress, the only dress I've seen (and I've been around to many campuses) is in the best taste and is quite conservative and collegiate. How can this possibly be conducive to 'illicit sex'? . . ."

I, too, have visited many campuses during the past 30 years and have had three children on campuses and if you think that slacks and shorts and short-shorts, for girls, are conservative and in the best taste, I hope to differ. Most girls look awful in such clothes Their figures are unsuited for them.

Long before you were born, I lived in China where women wear trousers and sometimes, the coolie women have no tops. But women of good families wear clothes to fit their figures and they try to be trim. A few weeks ago, I was lecturing at a very important girls' college and I must say that the girls I saw on the campus looked very sloppy to me. If I were a young man, I would not marry one of them.

You ask:

". . . how can you judge students by the marks they get in hard subjects? How assanine (sic) is that? A student may be very good in one subject that she is interested in and just passing another which she finds boring (for the most part it's the teacher who makes the course a success or a failure, so actually it can be extremely good or vice versa.) This is a proven fact. What does this have to do with their character? All it shows is that they don't have any interest in the subject, that the teacher is poor, or that they aren't capable of doing the work if their marks aren't up to par. If their marks are good, on the other hand, it means it is an interesting course, they study constantly, and the teacher is qualified. It has nothing to do with one's morality."

It has a great deal to do with responsibility and with obligation. Parents do not send their children to college, usually at considerable expense, to do only what interests them. Most parents often do not realize that many students take snap courses, that really mean nothing in the long run, and that even in the snap courses, they get a passing C. Even a B is an unsatisfactory mark on a curve in the smaller and less strict colleges.

I employ young ladies and I often shudder at what they did not learn. A girl who told me that she majored in economics never heard of Gresham's Law. Another majored in English composition. So I told her to write me 1,500 words about anything. My dog, Joe, could undoubtedly bark a more correct essay. Spelling bad. Punctuation ridiculous. Ideas infantile. Composition meaningless.

You have a perfect right to disagree with Miss Blanding of Vassar, but your manner of disagreement is disrespectful. Nay, it is impudent. The fact that the last paragraph in your letter to me is also impudent, I shall pass over. But concerning Miss Blanding, you write: "Just because she is President of Vassar does not mean she is all knowing."

That is fresh. You are a senior, just about to be graduated. Thus far, you have achieved nothing. Miss Blanding is one of America's most distinguished educators. Of such women, you, a shave-tail, should speak with respect.

One of the misfortunes of our country is that our young people have lost the meaning of the words, respect, duty, responsibility, obligation.

When you have achieved such a position as Miss Blanding holds, you might speak slightingly of your peers. Until then be respectful and hold your peace.

Defense Line Against Communism?

Contradictions Of Supreme Court Are Growing

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — It's getting harder and harder to believe in the infallibility of the Supreme Court of the United States. The contradictions in its rulings are growing in scope and number.

Thus, on May 14, the Supreme Court affirmed a lower court ruling which ordered Maurice A. Hutcheson, head of the National Carpenters' Union, to serve six months in jail for contempt. He had refused to answer questions of a Senate Investigating Committee.

Yet just a week later — on May 21 — the same Supreme Court reversed a lower court and set free six men who had been convicted of contempt for refusing to answer the questions of Congressional investigating committees. In this case, the majority of the court said that the indictment was faulty because it didn't state the subject under inquiry. But the very indictment which sends Mr. Hutcheson to jail had the same omission. So one man is imprisoned while the others go free.

This, moreover, wasn't the only contradiction revealed by the May 21 opinions of the members of the Supreme Court. It brings memories of another decision—perhaps the most important in the history of the press of America—which was made by the Supreme Court just 25 years ago on the right of a newspaper or a news organization to fire its employes for any reason it chooses.

In last week's case, which involved contempt charges, the majority of the defendants were newspapermen. They refused to answer questions that congressional committees had asked in investigating Communist attempts to infiltrate the American press. The purpose of Congress was to determine what safeguards of law could be devised to check such efforts.

The Supreme Court's majority in this case ignored all other issues and merely held that the wording of the indictment was faulty. It remained for Justice Douglas, in his "concurring opinion," to put his finger on a basic issue which the majority had failed even to mention—whether the press is immune from investigation because of the first amendment, which says Congress shall make no law abridging the freedom of the press. He wrote:

"Under our system of government, I do not see how it is possible for Congress to pass a law saying whom a newspaper or news agency or magazine shall or shall not employ. . .

"Congress has no more authority in the field of the press than it does where the pulpit is involved."

Yet on April 12, 1937, a majority of the Supreme Court—Justices Hughes, Roberts, Stone, Cardozo and Brandeis—ruled the exact opposite in the case of the Associated Press V. National Labor Relations Board. In the majority opinion of the court, which upheld a law of Congress known as the National Labor Relations Act, Justice Roberts wrote:

"The act does not compel the petitioner to employ anyone; it does not require that the petitioner retain in its employ an incompetent editor or one who fails faithfully to edit the news to reflect the facts without bias or prejudice. The act permits a discharge for any reason other than union activity or agitation for collective bargaining with employes."

But the first amendment to the Constitution says nothing about "union activity or agitation." It says Congress "shall make no law abridging the freedom of the press." And the same law upheld by the Supreme Court is in existence today and permits conspiracies by groups of employes in different trades to shut down a newspaper plant by agreeing among themselves not to cross a picket line.

The Supreme Court in its 1937 opinion chose, moreover, to disregard the true scope of "union activity" and to assume that labor-management relations, for instance, is not a subject ever dealt with in their writings by the reporters or editorial writers employed by a newspaper and that presumably no "conflict of interest" could occur against which the newspaper would want to protect itself.

It is interesting now to read a "concurring opinion" on the majority side by Justice Douglas of today's court reaffirming the freedom of the press in even broader terms than were expressed by a majority of four justices 25 years ago.

Inside Washington

DOUBLE TALK—There's a new move afoot in Congress to push through a "Fair Trade" law—one which would make it illegal for retail stores to sell any number of articles below prices set by the manufacturers.

However, its proponents don't call it a Fair Trade law. They call it "quality stabilization," an obvious effort to sell the bill to legislators with the argument that price maintenance is necessary if manufacturers are to be encouraged from downgrading the quality of their products.

Recently the Washington representative — or "lobbyist" — for a group favoring the legislation testified before a congressional committee.

He was contending that such a measure would not work to the disadvantage of the consumer. But let him put it in his own words:

So little attention was being paid to the witness that none of the committee members questioned his remarks. But since reading the transcript they're waiting for an opportunity to get him back on the witness stand.

Kennedy's Father Not Improving; President Ribs New York Mayor

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—President Kennedy had a disheartening visit with his father in New York last week.

Despite the long months of trying to restore Ambassador Kennedy's speech, the doctors have not been successful. The 72-year-old patriarch remains frustrated and silent when he tries to speak to his family, and his family, in turn, can't be sure that he understands what they say to him.

For a man who was always as active as his nine children and who took such pride in their achievements, this is most distressing.

Joseph P. Kennedy lived through the famous Hoover-depressed stock Market and, as first chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission, helped to build the safeguards against future stock market debacles. Doubtless he could have given his son important advice on the current plunging market, had he been able to talk. But he could not.

No Southern Esteem

While in New York last week, President Kennedy met with 100 mayors from around the nation to talk about medical care for the aged.

The meeting was at Gracie Mansion, official residence of Mayor Bob Wagner, and the President took occasion to pay a little tribute to the mayor of New York.

"I've traveled all over the country," he said, "and I know the high esteem in which Bob Wagner is held. He's held in high esteem as far west as California, as far north as Maine, and as far south as New Jersey."

Sweat-Shop Conditions

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, now 77, sat in the hot New York sun for two hours at the dedication of the new International Gament Workers Center. The temperature was about 90 in the shade, and considerably more in the sun. But Mrs. R. couldn't leave because she occupied an honor position next to President Kennedy.

"You know," she remarked, "I'm not exactly a weakling. But two hours in the sun is a long time."

Commented President Kennedy: "I thought they'd abolished sweatshop conditions."

Note — Gov. Rockefeller, also present, did not waste his time. "He was pumping hands all over the place," observed Mrs. Roosevelt.

Ike's Brothers

Here is what Congressional probers found in Agriculture Department files regarding grain storage and two of the Eisenhower brothers. It's also why Senate GOP leader Ev Dirksen of Illinoise began squawking last week that Congressinoal probers were preparing a "retaliatory strike" against the Republicans.

In the files is a grain contract with Tacoma Vegetable Oils Corp., which, though having headquarters in Tacoma, Wash., is controlled by the Sir Walter Carpenter interests in Australia and Canada. However, its counsel and director was Edgar Eisenhower, brother of the ex-President.

In 1955, Tacoma Vegetable Oils wasn't doing at all well. Its business of handling copra from the South Pacific was off. The company had only $2,986.70 in the bank and had rolled up a whopping deficit of $398,570.42.

This worried Edgar Eisenhower, who was also treasurer of the company.

At this point, however, the company was pulled out of the deep red by a very nice contract from the Agriculture Department to store grain. In 1955, a total of 212,000 bushels was stored in the warehouse of which Ike's brother was counsel, director, and treasurer.

Then, in 1956, the amount was increased to 476,000 bushels. A lot of West Coast companies were anxious to get government grain. It was good business. But only one other West Coast company got its grain storage increased by the government that year. The files show that Ike's brother's company's was doubled.

Back in Kansas City, another brother, the late Arthur Eisenhower, vice president of the Commerce Trust Company, was one of the bankers for the famous Burrus Mills Company which made headlines when it stored 35,000,000 bushels of government grain under tents and birds pecked the canvas away, thereby damaging the grain.

The banks had agreed to guarantee any loss, but the Agriculture Department considerately waived its right to reject gain that fell below par or to collect any loss. Democrats at that time claimed the Burrus Company got special favored treatment and that the taxpayers were left holding the bag.

Deep Freezes vs. Estes

Jerry Holleman, who was fired as Assistant Secretay for taking a $1,000 expense check from Billie Sol Estes, is getting bitter. He is asking why Kennedy can't stand up for his staff members the same way Harry Truman did for his military aide, Maj. Gen. Harry Vaughan, when Vaughan accepted various deep freezes from a Wisconsin lobbyist.

There was a difference, however, between Vaughan and Holleman Vaughan was an intimate personal friend of Truman's. Holleman was not a friend of Kennedy's. And the deep freezes were given to Mrs. Truman, to the wife of Chief Justice Vinson, and others high up in the official family.

If Truman had retreated, it would have reflected on his own family, and Harry was one to fight like a tiger for his family.

Their standard of living goes up and then they find themselves involved in a constant effort to keep up that standard. How can they get the house, get the second car, put their kids in private school—and all that. So they start figuring: why not write a bad movie and make a bundle. But one year doing junk and you begin to lose the talent for doing anything better. Nobody gives you that year back."

He laughed: "You have to be careful not to get rich. The years a writer spends going after easy money are a total waste. I haven't given up on myself. I have a value. And I have succeeded in not getting rich."

Hirson is now doing a TV original for the Westinghouse series on June 20 called "The First Day" (he's going to have to get away from that kind of "Day" title one day) and like "Journey to the Day" it's about mental illness—in this case about a woman's return to society after being released from a mental institution.

"'The First Day' deals with a lack of communication between people. It's a very old subject. But I'd rather say something which has been said fifty times before and try to say it better than to take something which may be new and specific. That's the trouble with television, you've got to come up with something new. I am more interested in the human condition than the headlines because the comment on the human condition can be universal; the other is only specific."

Backache Common Complaint During Pregnancy

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Backache is a common complaint among pregnant women. This is understandable, considering the strain associated with standing, bending, lifting, and walking. In addition, the lower spine is tilted forward during the last few months of pregnancy, to counterbalance the protrusion in front.

Backache in a pregnant woman rarely if ever is traced to an abnormality of the pelvic organs. The exception occurs during labor when the contractions of the uterus are associated with marked backache. Fatigue also plays an important role in weakening the muscles and supporting ligaments of the area. Most minor degrees of backache can be helped by minimizing strain, obtaining more rest and wearing a light maternity girdle to lend support.

Severe backache is different. It varies from a constant nagging distress to an incapacitating pain in the lower spine. In some instances the condition is so painful the pregnant woman must be hospitalized.

X-rays are advisable when pain is severe, even though there is a good chance they will not show any abnormality. In these women, discomfort usually stems from an acute strain of the spinal muscles leading to painful spasm.

Heat, aspirin and a muscle relaxant help most. An ordinary electric pad may be satisfactory whereas others apply warm moist towels, kept hot via an infrared lamp or heat cradle. This type of aching may persist or recur after the baby comes.

In others, severe pain stems from an anatomic defect such as that produced by arthritis or a ruptured disc. In many instances, pain extends down the back of a leg due to pressure on the roots of the sciatic nerve. These conditions usually require additional treatment after the baby comes.

TOMORROW: Rest and relax on trips.

REPLY

Some authorities hold to this theory. Children (yours, not others,) should be encouraged — not forced — to use the right hand.

BEER AND ULCER

B. H. writes: I was operated on for a perforated ulcer a few months ago. I drink milk at each meal. Would it be safe to have a glass of beer a few times a week? I can't ask my own doctor because he has gone back to school for a special course.

REPLY

Wait until he comes back. He may have picked up a few additional reasons why alcoholic beverages are not recommended for persons recovering from ulcer.

DETECTING CIRRHOSIS

R. S. writes: Can a physician make a correct diagnosis of cirrhosis of the liver from an office examination and after the patient has disclosed his symptoms? No tests were taken.

REPLY

Yes, when the individual has a textbook picture of the disease, including a definite cause, such as excessive drinking and inadequate eating.

ULCERATIVE COLITIS

A. M. writes: Is ulcerative colitis curable?

REPLY

The word cure should not be used because this disease tends to come and go. Many victims have been free from symptoms for years and years. Surgery offers the best chance of recovery when the disease is persistent.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Clip Amory, sauve Boswell of what's left of the Society Set in this country, often prefaces his lectures to ladies' clubs with the reminder that most exclusive clubs are formed to keep people out, rather than to take people in. "I am sure," simpered one club president, as she served Amory a post-lecture cup of lukewarm coffee, "that you didn't include this wonderful Green Valley Club of ours." "Oh, no," Amory answered her. "I had always thought the Green Valley Club was a motel."

Who says great thinkers are forgetful folk? Viscount Hailsham recalls the morning Philosopher Immanuel Kant suddenly remembered he had proposed marriage to a lovely neighbor and been accepted. He hastily donned his best clothes and rushed over to his prospective bride's home—where he found to his intense disappointment she had left town—some 20 years before.

"You Bostonians are always so loyal," taunted another midwestern matron, "yet I notice that neither your father, your brother, your sister, nor you yourself married a Bostonian." "Of course not," answered Amory smoothly, "We feel we have to spread the culture."

"Mountain City Echoes" will have a great cast of 350 area people and the production will be presented nightly at the high school stadium on June 30 and July 2-3-4-5-6-7.

Leo Spaeth, veteran professional director with John B. Rogers Producing Company, will outline the script of the spectacle at the initial casting meeting, to which all of those interested in taking part are invited.

Mr. Spaeth has produced and directed some of the largest spectacles in the nation, including "Sesquirama," commemorating the 150th anniversary of The Louisiana Purchase in New Orleans; "Cowtown Cavalcade," Kansas City; "Gangway For Tomorrow" at the centennial of The Soo Locks, Sault Ste. He has just returned from Jacksonville, Fla., where he was managing director of "Next Day In The Morning," playing The Coliseum in 18 performances.

Spaeth explains that the technical treatment he will use in directing "Mountain City Echoes" will synchronize the pantomime action of the cast with the spoken words of six narrators over a compresensive sound system.

"This will materially reduce the length and the number of rehearsals," he continued, "due to the fact that principals and other cast members will not be required to memorize any lines."

Miss Drucilla Shriner, spectacle chairman, stated that all of the elaborate and authentic costumes will be supplied free of charge to the participants.

Assisting in the casting are Mrs. Daniel Shupe, Mrs. Gerald Reeves, Mrs. Thomas Stewart and more than a hundred organizational leaders.

Headlights Campaign To Halt Mishaps

Careful Driving Urged On Holiday

KEYSER — Law enforcement officers from the local detachment of West Virginia State Police have notified drivers in the area to drive with their headlights on dim during daylight hours May 30 as the official nationwide traffic safety campaign gets underway and will continue through Labor Day.

Cpl. F. W. Armstrong said the "Slow Down and Live Campaign" comes each year at a time when vacation and holiday travel place the greatest traffic load on the nation's streets and highways. It is the world's largest safety program and is sponsored by the Association of State and Provincial Safety Coordinators.

Gov. W. W. Barron has again called for statewide participation in the program and urges the cooperation of state, county, and local officials; business, industry, and safety groups; civic organizations and citizen leaders.

Particular attention will be given to the five "in a hurry" accident causes: excessive speed; speed too fast for conditions; improper passing; following too closely, and failure to yield right-of-way.

Trooper Robert E. Noechel, also of the local detachment, said that 1961 facts indicate that: one person was killed during Memorial Day from 6 p.m. May 29 through midnight May 30. The Fourth of July (6 p.m. July 3 through midnight July 4) was fatality free. Thirteen persons were killed over the Labor Day weekend extending from 6 p.m. September 1 through midnight September 3. Ninty-nine persons lost their lives on West Virginia highways in 86 fatal accidents during the campaign last year.

This year both state and local governments are making a special effort to emphasize "Slow Down and Live" in all phases of traffic law enforcement by police, prosecutors and courts, during the summer months.

Headlights Campaign To Halt Mishaps

Careful Driving Urged On Holiday

KEYSER — Law enforcement officers from the local detachment of West Virginia State Police have notified drivers in the area to drive with their headlights on dim during daylight hours May 30 as the official nationwide traffic safety campaign gets underway and will continue through Labor Day.

Cpl. F. W. Armstrong said the "Slow Down and Live Campaign" comes each year at a time when vacation and holiday travel place the greatest traffic load on the nation's streets and highways. It is the world's largest safety program and is sponsored by the Association of State and Provincial Safety Coordinators.

Gov. W. W. Barron has again called for statewide participation in the program and urges the cooperation of state, county, and local officials; business, industry, and safety groups; civic organizations and citizen leaders.

Particular attention will be given to the five "in a hurry" accident causes: excessive speed; speed too fast for conditions; improper passing; following too closely, and failure to yield right-of-way.

Trooper Robert E. Noechel, also of the local detachment, said that 1961 facts indicate that: one person was killed during Memorial Day from 6 p.m. May 29 through midnight May 30. The Fourth of July (6 p.m. July 3 through midnight July 4) was fatality free. Thirteen persons were killed over the Labor Day weekend extending from 6 p.m. September 1 through midnight September 3. Ninty-nine persons lost their lives on West Virginia highways in 86 fatal accidents during the campaign last year.

This year both state and local governments are making a special effort to emphasize "Slow Down and Live" in all phases of traffic law enforcement by police, prosecutors and courts, during the summer months.

As is the custom, the Hyndman-Londonderry High School Band, directed by Donald M. Wagner, will lead the parade. All servicemen are invited to march, as well as the Hyndman Volunteer Fire Department, Explorer Scouts, Boy Scouts, Cub Scouts, Girl Scouts and Brownies, and all school children. Cars will be provided for the older veterans.

The cemetery program will include selections by the high school band; the invocation will be given by Rev. Clewell E. Miller, former pastor of the E.U.B. Church. Commander Shaffer will present Rev. Harry E. Hull, pastor of the E.U.B. Church who will deliver the address. Following the speech the Post and Auxiliary will hold their ceremony.

At 11 o'clock the firing squad will fire a salute at the Servicemen's Memorial at the Londonderry Intermediate School.

In the event of rain, the parade will be cancelled. However the memorial services will be conducted in Hyndman-Londonderry High School auditorium at 10 a.m.

Graves of all veterans in Cooks Mills and Palo Alto cemeteries will be decorated with flags by Floyd E. Mason, while graves in both the Hyndman Cemetery and the Lybarger Lutheran Cemetery will be decorated by Kenneth J. Minnick and Harlan Porter Sr.

Harry T. Ritchey is parade chairman, Robert W. Bryant will be in charge of the firing squad. Paul A. Evans and Earl J. Leap , will serve as buglars.

An auxiliary sponsored festival will commence at noon in the vacant store room next to the Post Office. Mrs. Homer Shaffer will head this affair.

Murphy Store Is Installing Self-Service

FROSTBURG — Installation of three self-service checkout counters in the G. C. Murphy Company Store on East Main Street has been started.

While major construction is not involved, J. W. Griffiths, manager, stated that shortening of two present counters at the front-center of the store is necessary to provide adequate space for the checkout counters. Guide rails will be installed which will direct customers with purchases to the three checkouts.

Other work to be done in the local store includes replacing the remaining block - type counters with new back-to-back counters and display fixtures. Two new seven foot glass enclosed candy cases will be installed on one of the shortened counters. A former Quick Service Station will be relocated at the left-rear entrance to serve customers leaving by the rear door.

The three checkout counters will be equipped with electric cash registers and complete merchandise wrapping facilities which will enable attendants to service customers quickly and efficiently.

In order to maintain an efficient flow of customer traffic, the left and right hand front doors will be used as "in" entrances and the center door will become the checkout exit.

Trash Can Drive Starts In Keyser

Cleaner Streets Is Objective

KEYSER — One of the Keyser fire trucks and several volunteer firemen were on hand Saturday to assist in the continuing work of the community Clean-Up Committee by delivering nine trash cans at needed sites on the Keyser streets.

These nine cans were donated by George Petras of Emerson-Pryne Company and the tops were bought by the Keyser Lions Club. The four old cans which were originally donated by the Lions were repainted and replaced on Main Street. Six more cans given by Clarence Sears Sr. will soon be placed. Tops for these were purchased by the City Beautiful Committee of the Woman's Club.

Painting of these tops will complete the painting job of all the trash cans by Charles E. Leary as his contribution to the campaign.

The committee hopes to have at least 10 more trash cans by fall and if any group or organization would like to help with the project by buying the dome tops it will be appreciated. The cost of $9.25 per top plus freight charges makes it a total of about $10 each.

The Circle K Club of Potomac State College, under the direction of William E. Michael, has placed three trash cans on the campus.

The committee says its next task is to educate people to the fact that the cans are placed on the streets for their convenience and to help keep Keyser clean.

Those having suggestions as to where trash cans are needed may contact Mrs. J. Clark Bright, chairman, or any other member of the City Beautiful Committee.

Hyndman Vets Will Observe Memorial Day

Street Parade Scheduled At 9 A.M.

HYNDMAN, Pa. — Oscar Jordan Post 7375, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Hyndman, will observe Memorial Day with a street parade followed by appropriate ceremonies at the Hyndman Cemetery, according to Homer C. Shaffer, commander.

The parade will form below the B&O Station on Second Avenue at 9 a.m. ready to move off at 9:30. The marchers will then proceed over a marked route to the Soldiers Monument in the cemetery where appropriate services will be held.

The parade will not stop at the Servicemen's Memorial on Schellsburg Street as heretofor, due to the fact the memorial is in a bad state of repair and must be relocated due to demolition of the old school buildings in front of which the memorial is located.

As is the custom, the Hyndman-Londonderry High School Band, directed by Donald M. Wagner, will lead the parade. All servicemen are invited to march, as well as the Hyndman Volunteer Fire Department, Explorer Scouts, Boy Scouts, Cub Scouts, Girl Scouts and Brownies, and all school children. Cars will be provided for the older veterans.

The cemetery program will include selections by the high school band; the invocation will be given by Rev. Clewell E. Miller, former pastor of the E.U.B. Church. Commander Shaffer will present Rev. Harry E. Hull, pastor of the E.U.B. Church who will deliver the address. Following the speech the Post and Auxiliary will hold their ceremony.

At 11 o'clock the firing squad will fire a salute at the Servicemen's Memorial at the Londonderry Intermediate School.

In the event of rain, the parade will be cancelled. However the memorial services will be conducted in Hyndman-Londonderry High School auditorium at 10 a.m.

Graves of all veterans in Cooks Mills and Palo Alto cemeteries will be decorated with flags by Floyd E. Mason, while graves in both the Hyndman Cemetery and the Lybarger Lutheran Cemetery will be decorated by Kenneth J. Minnick and Harlan Porter Sr.

Harry T. Ritchey is parade chairman, Robert W. Bryant will be in charge of the firing squad. Paul A. Evans and Earl J. Leap , will serve as buglars.

An auxiliary sponsored festival will commence at noon in the vacant store room next to the Post Office. Mrs. Homer Shaffer will head this affair.

Commander Shaffer urges community wide observance of this day by a patriotic display of flags at their homes.

Wage Minimums Are Reduced In W. Virginia

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — State Labor Commissioner Lawrence Barker revised downward Monday various prevailing minimum wage scales for public improvement projects in Ritchie, Morgan and Jefferson counties.

Barker accepted the recommendations for the reductions as outlined by a State Minimum Wage Rate Board set up by a 1961 legislative act.

His action followed informal protests heard by the five-member board and Barker about two weeks ago. The revisions will be effective immediately upon filing with the secretary of state.

The Jefferson and Morgan county changes will find the electricians minimum and the carpenters minimum reduced from $3.80 and $3.60, respectively to $2.50, and the bricklayers minimum dropped from $4.10 to $3.00.

Murphy Store Is Installing Self-Service

FROSTBURG — Installation of three self-service checkout counters in the G. C. Murphy Company Store on East Main Street has been started.

While major construction is not involved, J. W. Griffiths, manager, stated that shortening of two present counters at the front-center of the store is necessary to provide adequate space for the checkout counters. Guide rails will be installed which will direct customers with purchases to the three checkouts.

Other work to be done in the local store includes replacing the remaining block - type counters with new back-to-back counters and display fixtures. Two new seven foot glass enclosed candy cases will be installed on one of the shortened counters. A former Quick Service Station will be relocated at the left-rear entrance to serve customers leaving by the rear door.

The three checkout counters will be equipped with electric cash registers and complete merchandise wrapping facilities which will enable attendants to service customers quickly and efficiently.

In order to maintain an efficient flow of customer traffic, the left and right hand front doors will be used as "in" entrances and the center door will become the checkout exit.

Construction will be completed and the new system in operation by June 14, Mr. Griffiths stated.

Trash Can Drive Starts In Keyser

Cleaner Streets Is Objective

KEYSER — One of the Keyser fire trucks and several volunteer firemen were on hand Saturday to assist in the continuing work of the community Clean-Up Committee by delivering nine trash cans at needed sites on the Keyser streets.

These nine cans were donated by George Petras of Emerson-Pryne Company and the tops were bought by the Keyser Lions Club. The four old cans which were originally donated by the Lions were repainted and replaced on Main Street. Six more cans given by Clarence Sears Sr. will soon be placed. Tops for these were purchased by the City Beautiful Committee of the Woman's Club.

Painting of these tops will complete the painting job of all the trash cans by Charles E. Leary as his contribution to the campaign.

The committee hopes to have at least 10 more trash cans by fall and if any group or organization would like to help with the project by buying the dome tops it will be appreciated. The cost of $9.25 per top plus freight charges makes it a total of about $10 each.

The Circle K Club of Potomac State College, under the direction of William E. Michael, has placed three trash cans on the campus.

The committee says its next task is to educate people to the fact that the cans are placed on the streets for their convenience and to help keep Keyser clean.

Those having suggestions as to where trash cans are needed may contact Mrs. J. Clark Bright, chairman, or any other member of the City Beautiful Committee.

Wynn Beats Tribe, 2-0, Breaks Donovan's 8-Game Win Streak

Cleveland Held To Three Hits By Chisox Veteran

Fans Six, Singles Home Second Run In Posting 295th Win

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Early Wynn hurled the 295th victory of his career Monday night as the Chicago White Sox defeated the Cleveland Indians, 2-0, and handed Dick Donovan his first loss of the season after eight straight wins.

Wynn allowed only three hits and retired 17 men in-a-row at one stretch. He struck out six and didn't walk a batter as he evened his season record at 3-3.

The veteran right-hander also drove in Chicago's second run in the seventh inning when he singled home Mike Hershberger, who had walked and moved to second on Luis Aparicio's sacrifice. The White Sox took a 1-0 lead in the fourth inning when Jim Landis singled and scored on Floyd Robinson's double to right.

Donovan, who pitched all the way, struck out four. Wynn, who pitched the 47th shutout of his career, gave up a leadoff single to Tito Francona in the first inning. He then retired the next five men.

Bubba Phillips singled with two out in the second and the Indians then went down in order until Phillips singled in the eighth. Mike De La Hoz hit into a double play and Wynn retired the Indians in order in the ninth.

Bucs Recall Joe Gibbon

Lefty Bob Veale Sent To Columbus

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — The Pittsburgh Pirates Monday night announced the recall of southpaw Joe Gibbon from Kinston, N.C., of the Carolina League where he had been sent to recuperate from a torn arm muscle.

To make room on the roster for Gibbon, General Manager Joe L. Brown said Bob Veale, another southpaw, had been sent to Columbus of the International League on 24-hour recall.

Brown said Gibbon had pitched three games for Kinston and yielded only five hits in 15 innings and did not allow a run. He quoted Gibbon s saying that his arm "feels fine" and that he is "ready to go anytime."

Badly in need of pitching strength, Brown voiced the hope that the return of Gibbon, expected to arrive here late Monday night, may inject some power in his mound taff. Gibbon had a 13-10 record with the Pirates last year.

Dr. Gaynor Says:

Tightness Of Pennant Race In AL Responsible For Rash Of Injuries

Yankees' Physician Says Players Trying Harder, Taking Risks

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — It's the tightness of the pennant race and not the brittleness of the modern athlete which is responsible for the present rash of baseball injuries, the team physician of the New York Yankees said Monday.

"I'm speaking primarily of the American League race," Dr. Sidney Gaynor added. "The competition is so intense that the players are trying harder, putting out more and taking bigger risks.

"They're pulling muscles, running into fences and breaking bones in diving catches because every game means so much."

Kaline, Battey On List

Two more big names were added to the game's mushrooming casualty list over the weekend. On Saturday, Al Kaline, Detroit right fielder, broke his collarbone, diving for a short fly ball on the final out of the Tigers' 2-1 victory over the New York Yankees at Yankee Stadium. Sunday, Earl Battey, star catcher of the Minnesota Twins, suffered a split finger in the ninth inning of a doubleheader opener at Chicago.

They joined a distinguished list of early season cripples, who could make up a potent all-star squad. Not in modern memory have so many leading baseball players been knocked out of action so early.

The Rill Call

Here is the roll call:

Al Kaline, Detroit Outfielder — Broken collarbone, out two months.

Earl Battey, Minnesota catcher —Split finger on his right hand, status indefinite.

Mickey Mantle, New York Yankee center fielder—Muscular tear in his right thigh, out two to three weeks.

Joe Adcock, Milwaukee first baseman — Pinched nerve in his back required hospitalization.

Gus Triandos, Baltimore catcher — Broken metacarpal joint on the right forefinger, placed on disabled list.

Jim Lemon, Minnesota outfielder — Skull fracture and broken wrist from crashing into wall, on disabled list.

Ernie Banks, Chicago Cubs first baseman — Hit on head with pitched ball May 26, momentarily out of action.

Whitey Ford, New York Yankee pitcher—Shoulder injury, momentarily out of action.

Luis Arroyo, New York Yankee relief ace—Strained left elbow, on disabled list.

Frank Lary, Detroit pitcher — Lame shoulder, in and out of action.

Bob Allison, Minnesota outfielder—Hit on leg by pitch, momentarily out of action.

Freese Broke Ankle

The major run of mishaps and illnesses began in spring training March 5 when Gene Freese, hard-hitting Cincinnati infielder, broke his ankle in an intra-asquad game at Tampa, and has continued unabated.

The season's hospital list also has included such players as Ed Mathews, Milwaukee third baseman; Roberto Clemente, Pittsburgh outfielder; Harvey Kuenn, San Francisco outfielder; Pete Richert, Los Angeles Dodger rookie pitcher; Lee Maye, Milwaukee outfielder; Russ Nixon, Boston catcher, and Gene Stephens, Kansas City outfielder. Their ailments have run the gamut from broken toes to sore arms, pneumonia and fractured fingers.

High School League Playoffs Set Today At Stitcher, 'Coney

Three playoff games in the Allegany High School Baseball League were postponed yesterday on account of rain but an effort will be made to stage two of the contests today while another is reset for Memorial Day.

Allegany is slated to play LaSalle at Stitcher Field today at 2 p. m., while Bruce and Mt. Savage will clash on the Valley High School Field, Lonaconing, at 4 p. m.

Coach John J. "Bobby" Cavanaugh, of Fort Hill, last night announced that the Fort Hill-Beall game is rescheduled for Wednesday at 10:30 a. m. at Frostburg.

The Fort Hill-Beall game would have been reset for today but the change to Wednesday was made due to the Fort Hill dinner this evening. Beall High School's dinner is scheduled Thursday.

Kenneth Grimes and Joe Geatz are the umpires assigned to the Fort Hill-Beall contest.

Bosox Blank Twins

ST. PAUL - MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — Earl Wilson and Mike Fornieles combined to limit the Minnesota Twins to three hits on Monday night and Frank Malzone drove in a pair of runs to pace the Boston Red Sox to a 3-0 victory.

Wilson hurled the first 7 1-3 innings and gave up only two ground ball singles. He was lifted in the eighth after walking pinch hitter Don Mincher and Lenny Green with only one out. Fornieles came on to force Vic Power to hit into an inning ending double play.

The game was highlighted by eight double plays, which fell one short of a major league record. Each team completed four twin-killings.

Irving Schoenwald Named Promoter For Heavy Title Fight

CHICAGO (UPI)—The Illinois Athletic Commission Monday named Irving Schoenwald of Chicago as promoter of record for the Floyd Patterson-Sonny Liston heavyweight championship fight.

Al Bolan, vice president of Championship Sports Inc. which is sponsoring the fight, held up an immediate announcement of the exact site and date of the fight.

Bolan said last week the fight would be held in either Soldier Field Sept. 17 or Comiskey Park Sept. 25. Bolan said Monday he first wanted to inspect mammoth Soldier Field, which seats 104,000. Sunday he looked over Comiskey Park, home of the baseball White Sox and which holds 56,000, and said "everything there is satisfactory."

"Mr. Schoenwald and Championship Sports Inc. entered into an agreement," Joseph Triner, chairman of the athletic commission, said. "This agreement conforms to the law, rules and regulations of the state of Illinois."

Schoenwald also is the matchmaker.

Cincy Wins, 9-6

CINCINNATI (UPI)—Joey Jay batted in four runs in helping the streaking Cincinnati Reds gain a 9-6 victory Monday night over the Houston Colts.

Jay went all the way to win his seventh game of the season—his sixth in his last seven decisions—and had three of the Reds' 14 hits. He singled and scored in the second inning, hit another single to drive in two runs in the third, and smashed a two - run homer in the fifth.

Jay was breezing along with a six-hitter going into the ninth inning when the Colts rallied for five runs. The big blow as a three-run homer by Roman Mejias, his 11th of the season.

LONDON (AP)—Britain's Terry Downes, former co-holder of the world middleweight title, has a fractured left hand and will be unable to box Sugar Ray Robinson of New York in London June 26, Downes' Manager Sam Burns said Monday.

Downes won the 10-rounder against Fullmer, younger brother of NBA middleweight champion Gene Fullmer.

Haddix Leads Pittsburgh To 3-1 Win Over St. Louis

Pirates' Southpaw Tosses Six-Hitter, Gets Three Safeties

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Southpaw Harvey Haddix was a one-man show Monday night as he pitched a brilliant six - hitter, scored twice and got three for four at the plate in leading the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 3-1 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

The valiant Haddix went the route for the first time since last Aug. 8 in notching his fourth victory of the season. At one point he retired 12 Cardinals in a row, and did not allow the first Cardinal hit until the fifth inning.

Haddix scored the first run of the game when he led off the fifth inning with a triple to right center off loser Ernie Broglio and scored after Dick Groat forced Bill Virdon at second.

In the seventh, Haddix singled to center, Virdon bunted and both runners were safe when Broglio threw wild to second for an error. Groat singled to left, scoring Haddix to put the Pirates ahead. Bob Skinner bunted, forcing Virdon at third and Groat took second. Roberto Clemente then singled to left scoring Groat, to give the Pirates a 3-1 lead.

Haddix ran into trouble in the last inning when Gene Oliver walked and Julio Gotay singled for his third hit after two were out. But Carl Sawatski looked at a third strike and Haddix' victory was assured. Haddix struck out six.

The Cardinals averted a shutout in the seventh when Ken Boyer singled and was forced at second by Oliver. Gotay singled, Oliver going to third. Old pro Red Schoendienst hit a pinch single to tie the game at 1-1.

The Pirates have now won seven out of their last nine games.

The winner earns a shot at Martinsburg High School's Bulldogs for the Region Four crown and a trip to the West Virginia state championship tournament at Parkersburg June 6, 7 and 8.

Mathias and Paw Paw have met twice this season, the Hardy countians winning the first game, 4-3, while the Pirates took the second, 5-0.

Roland Hamilton (5-0) is expected to pitch for the Morgan countians while Albert Makowski (8-2) will toil on the firing line for Mathias.

The Southern-Bayard game which will determine the championship of the Potomac Valley Conference is scheduled for Memorial Day at 1 p.m., at Oakland, it was announced yesterday by Richard Travis, athletic director at the Oakland school.

Southern's Highlanders got an opportunity to bag their first P.V.C. crown when they windup their series with Bayard. The Garrett countians own a 6-1 record. A defeat for Southern will tie Mathias and Paw Paw (8-2) for the championship. Southern holds a 9-5 win over Bayard.

Chuck Bradfield, Keyser Grid Star, Has Hand Injuries

Charles "Chuck" Bradfield, 18, Keyser High School junior, and leading scorer in the tri-state area during the 1961 football season, suffered injuries to his right hand yesterday while operating a saw at the Vo-Ag Building in the New Creek area, Keyser.

One of Bradfield's fingers was broken and the others were lacerated. He was taken to the Potomac Valley Hospital for treatment. It was reported last evening that "Chuck" will not lose any of his fingers.

A fullback, Bradfield led area and Potomac Valley Conference scorers last year with 86 and 67 points, respectively. He also headed the P.V.C. point scorers in 1960 with a total of 53.

Only nine major league players have won the triple crown for hitting, RBIs and home runs. Rogers Hornsby did it twice. Mickey Mantle was the last to do it in 1956. Babe Ruth never achieved this.

Jim Bunning Turns Back Birds, 5-1

Colavito, Fernandez Hit Two-Run Homers

DETROIT (UPI) —Jim Bunning scattered three hits Monday night to pitch the Detroit Tigers to a 5-1 victory over the Baltimore Orioles.

Bunning, who last week was accused of cutting baseballs with his belt buckle by Oriole manager Billy Hitchcock, stayed free of controversy in a masterful job which earned him his fifth victory against two defeats.

Russ Snyder ruined Bunning's shutout bid in the ninth when he led off with his fourth home run of the season.

Rocky Colavito drove in three of the Tiger runs with a double in the first and a two-run homer in the fourth. Chico Fernandez added another two-run homer in the same inning to round out Detroit's scoring.

Milt Pappas was the victim of the Detroit homers and suffered his third defeat against five victories.

Bunning set the Orioles down with only one baserunner until the fifth inning when Charlie Lau reached first base on Jake Wood's error and Jerry Adair singled to center for the Orioles first hit.

Newcombe Will Pitch In Japan

Don Signs With Chunichi Dragons

HONOLULU (UPI) — Don Newcombe, former major league pitching star, was signed Monday to hurl for the Chunichi Dragons of Japan's professional Central League.

Kazuo Takata, vice president and general manager of the Dragons, reportedly signed Newcombe for $18,000 for the remainder of the season.

During his hey-day, Newcombe, now nearing 36 years, was one of the top hurlers in the National League. Pitching for the old Brooklyn Dodgers, he had a 27-7 record in 1956; was the Dodgers' star hurler on three pennant-winning teams; and was named to the all-star league team four times. He was chosen the "most valuable" player in the National League in 1956.

In the majors he won 143 games, lost 81.

Hill, Gendebien Win Sports Car Race

NUERBURGRING, Germany (UPI)—World driving champion Phil Hill of Santa Monica, Calif., teamed with Oliver Gendebien of Belgium Sunday to win the 1,000-kilometer (621 miles) Nuerburgring sports car race.

Hill and Gendebien, driving a Ferrari, negotiated the 44 laps in 7 hours, 33 minutes, 27.7 seconds for an average speed of 82.34 miles per hour.

An intermittent rain, plus the fact that Hill and Gendebein were never seriously challenged by other cars, was held responsible for the comparatively slow speed.

Another Ferrari captured second place as Mike Parkes of England and Willy Mairesse of Belgium were clocked in 7:35:49.

Wynn Beats Tribe, 2-0, Breaks Donovan's 8-Game Win Streak

Cleveland Held To Three Hits By Chisox Veteran

Fans Six, Singles Home Second Run In Posting 295th Win

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Early Wynn hurled the 295th victory of his career Monday night as the Chicago White Sox defeated the Cleveland Indians, 2-0, and handed Dick Donovan his first loss of the season after eight straight wins.

Wynn allowed only three hits and retired 17 men in-a-row at one stretch. He struck out six and didn't walk a batter as he evened his season record at 3-3.

The veteran right-hander also drove in Chicago's second run in the seventh inning when he singled home Mike Hershberger, who had walked and moved to second on Luis Aparicio's sacrifice. The White Sox took a 1-0 lead in the fourth inning when Jim Landis singled and scored on Floyd Robinson's double to right.

Donovan, who pitched all the way, struck out four. Wynn, who pitched the 47th shutout of his career, gave up a leadoff single to Tito Francona in the first inning. He then retired the next five men.

Bubba Phillips singled with two out in the second and the Indians then went down in order until Phillips singled in the eighth. Mike De La Hoz hit into a double play and Wynn retired the Indians in order in the ninth.

Bucs Recall Joe Gibbon

Lefty Bob Veale Sent To Columbus

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — The Pittsburgh Pirates Monday night announced the recall of southpaw Joe Gibbon from Kinston, N.C., of the Carolina League where he had been sent to recuperate from a torn arm muscle.

To make room on the roster for Gibbon, General Manager Joe L. Brown said Bob Veale, another southpaw, had been sent to Columbus of the International League on 24-hour recall.

Brown said Gibbon had pitched three games for Kinston and yielded only five hits in 15 innings and did not allow a run. He quoted Gibbon s saying that his arm "feels fine" and that he is "ready to go anytime."

Badly in need of pitching strength, Brown voiced the hope that the return of Gibbon, expected to arrive here late Monday night, may inject some power in his mound taff. Gibbon had a 13-10 record with the Pirates last year.

Dr. Gaynor Says:

Tightness Of Pennant Race In AL Responsible For Rash Of Injuries

Yankees' Physician Says Players Trying Harder, Taking Risks

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — It's the tightness of the pennant race and not the brittleness of the modern athlete which is responsible for the present rash of baseball injuries, the team physician of the New York Yankees said Monday.

"I'm speaking primarily of the American League race," Dr. Sidney Gaynor added. "The competition is so intense that the players are trying harder, putting out more and taking bigger risks.

"They're pulling muscles, running into fences and breaking bones in diving catches because every game means so much."

Kaline, Battey On List

Two more big names were added to the game's mushrooming casualty list over the weekend. On Saturday, Al Kaline, Detroit right fielder, broke his collarbone, diving for a short fly ball on the final out of the Tigers' 2-1 victory over the New York Yankees at Yankee Stadium. Sunday, Earl Battey, star catcher of the Minnesota Twins, suffered a split finger in the ninth inning of a doubleheader opener at Chicago.

They joined a distinguished list of early season cripples, who could make up a potent all-star squad. Not in modern memory have so many leading baseball players been knocked out of action so early.

The Rill Call

Here is the roll call:

Al Kaline, Detroit Outfielder — Broken collarbone, out two months.

Earl Battey, Minnesota catcher —Split finger on his right hand, status indefinite.

Mickey Mantle, New York Yankee center fielder—Muscular tear in his right thigh, out two to three weeks.

Joe Adcock, Milwaukee first baseman — Pinched nerve in his back required hospitalization.

Gus Triandos, Baltimore catcher — Broken metacarpal joint on the right forefinger, placed on disabled list.

Jim Lemon, Minnesota outfielder — Skull fracture and broken wrist from crashing into wall, on disabled list.

Ernie Banks, Chicago Cubs first baseman — Hit on head with pitched ball May 26, momentarily out of action.

Whitey Ford, New York Yankee pitcher—Shoulder injury, momentarily out of action.

Luis Arroyo, New York Yankee relief ace—Strained left elbow, on disabled list.

Frank Lary, Detroit pitcher — Lame shoulder, in and out of action.

Bob Allison, Minnesota outfielder—Hit on leg by pitch, momentarily out of action.

Freese Broke Ankle

The major run of mishaps and illnesses began in spring training March 5 when Gene Freese, hard-hitting Cincinnati infielder, broke his ankle in an intra-asquad game at Tampa, and has continued unabated.

The season's hospital list also has included such players as Ed Mathews, Milwaukee third baseman; Roberto Clemente, Pittsburgh outfielder; Harvey Kuenn, San Francisco outfielder; Pete Richert, Los Angeles Dodger rookie pitcher; Lee Maye, Milwaukee outfielder; Russ Nixon, Boston catcher, and Gene Stephens, Kansas City outfielder. Their ailments have run the gamut from broken toes to sore arms, pneumonia and fractured fingers.

High School League Playoffs Set Today At Stitcher, 'Coney

Three playoff games in the Allegany High School Baseball League were postponed yesterday on account of rain but an effort will be made to stage two of the contests today while another is reset for Memorial Day.

Allegany is slated to play LaSalle at Stitcher Field today at 2 p. m., while Bruce and Mt. Savage will clash on the Valley High School Field, Lonaconing, at 4 p. m.

Coach John J. "Bobby" Cavanaugh, of Fort Hill, last night announced that the Fort Hill-Beall game is rescheduled for Wednesday at 10:30 a. m. at Frostburg.

The Fort Hill-Beall game would have been reset for today but the change to Wednesday was made due to the Fort Hill dinner this evening. Beall High School's dinner is scheduled Thursday.

Kenneth Grimes and Joe Geatz are the umpires assigned to the Fort Hill-Beall contest.

Bosox Blank Twins

ST. PAUL - MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — Earl Wilson and Mike Fornieles combined to limit the Minnesota Twins to three hits on Monday night and Frank Malzone drove in a pair of runs to pace the Boston Red Sox to a 3-0 victory.

Wilson hurled the first 7 1-3 innings and gave up only two ground ball singles. He was lifted in the eighth after walking pinch hitter Don Mincher and Lenny Green with only one out. Fornieles came on to force Vic Power to hit into an inning ending double play.

The game was highlighted by eight double plays, which fell one short of a major league record. Each team completed four twin-killings.

Irving Schoenwald Named Promoter For Heavy Title Fight

CHICAGO (UPI)—The Illinois Athletic Commission Monday named Irving Schoenwald of Chicago as promoter of record for the Floyd Patterson-Sonny Liston heavyweight championship fight.

Al Bolan, vice president of Championship Sports Inc. which is sponsoring the fight, held up an immediate announcement of the exact site and date of the fight.

Bolan said last week the fight would be held in either Soldier Field Sept. 17 or Comiskey Park Sept. 25. Bolan said Monday he first wanted to inspect mammoth Soldier Field, which seats 104,000. Sunday he looked over Comiskey Park, home of the baseball White Sox and which holds 56,000, and said "everything there is satisfactory."

"Mr. Schoenwald and Championship Sports Inc. entered into an agreement," Joseph Triner, chairman of the athletic commission, said. "This agreement conforms to the law, rules and regulations of the state of Illinois."

Schoenwald also is the matchmaker.

Terry Downes Injured, Robinson Bout Off

LONDON (AP)—Britain's Terry Downes, former co-holder of the world middleweight title, has a fractured left hand and will be unable to box Sugar Ray Robinson of New York in London June 26, Downes' Manager Sam Burns said Monday.

Burns said Downes, who saw a bone specialist Monday, fractured a metacarpal bone in his left hand during the fifth round of his fight against Don Fullmer of West Jordan, Utah, last Tuesday.

Downes won the 10-rounder against Fullmer, younger brother of NBA middleweight champion Gene Fullmer.

Cincy Wins, 9-6

CINCINNATI (UPI)—Joey Jay batted in four runs in helping the streaking Cincinnati Reds gain a 9-6 victory Monday night over the Houston Colts.

Jay went all the way to win his seventh game of the season—his sixth in his last seven decisions—and had three of the Reds' 14 hits. He singled and scored in the second inning, hit another single to drive in two runs in the third, and smashed a two - run homer in the fifth.

Jay was breezing along with a six-hitter going into the ninth inning when the Colts rallied for five runs. The big blow as a three-run homer by Roman Mejias, his 11th of the season.

Haddix Leads Pittsburgh To 3-1 Win Over St. Louis

Pirates' Southpaw Tosses Six-Hitter, Gets Three Safeties

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Southpaw Harvey Haddix was a one-man show Monday night as he pitched a brilliant six - hitter, scored twice and got three for four at the plate in leading the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 3-1 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

The valiant Haddix went the route for the first time since last Aug. 8 in notching his fourth victory of the season. At one point he retired 12 Cardinals in a row, and did not allow the first Cardinal hit until the fifth inning.

Haddix scored the first run of the game when he led off the fifth inning with a triple to right center off loser Ernie Broglio and scored after Dick Groat forced Bill Virdon at second.

In the seventh, Haddix singled to center, Virdon bunted and both runners were safe when Broglio threw wild to second for an error. Groat singled to left, scoring Haddix to put the Pirates ahead. Bob Skinner bunted, forcing Virdon at third and Groat took second. Roberto Clemente then singled to left scoring Groat, to give the Pirates a 3-1 lead.

Haddix ran into trouble in the last inning when Gene Oliver walked and Julio Gotay singled for his third hit after two were out. But Carl Sawatski looked at a third strike and Haddix' victory was assured. Haddix struck out six.

The Cardinals averted a shutout in the seventh when Ken Boyer singled and was forced at second by Oliver. Gotay singled, Oliver going to third. Old pro Red Schoendienst hit a pinch single to tie the game at 1-1.

The Pirates have now won seven out of their last nine games.

Paw Paw and Mathias will battle it out for a West Virginia Region Four final baseball berth today at 3 p.m., on the Romney High School Field.

The winner earns a shot at Martinsburg High School's Bulldogs for the Region Four crown and a trip to the West Virginia state championship tournament at Parkersburg June 6, 7 and 8.

Mathias and Paw Paw have met twice this season, the Hardy countians winning the first game, 4-3, while the Pirates took the second, 5-0.

Roland Hamilton (5-0) is expected to pitch for the Morgan countians while Albert Makowski (8-2) will toil on the firing line for Mathias.

The Southern-Bayard game which will determine the championship of the Potomac Valley Conference is scheduled for Memorial Day at 1 p.m., at Oakland, it was announced yesterday by Richard Travis, athletic director at the Oakland school.

Southern's Highlanders got an opportunity to bag their first P.V.C. crown when they windup their series with Bayard. The Garrett countians own a 6-1 record. A defeat for Southern will tie Mathias and Paw Paw (8-2) for the championship. Southern holds a 9-5 win over Bayard.

Athletes To Ge Trophies Tonight At Ft. Hill Dinner

Trophies for the school's outstanding football and basketball players and standout track and field athlete will be presented tonight at the Fort Hill Boosters Club dinner at 6:30 o'clock at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

The H. Clifford Spiker Memorial Trophy will go to the track star, the 12th annual James H. Hipsley Memorial Trophy will be presented the school's football star and the Ted Morris Memorial Trophy will be given to the basketball star.

Bill Elias, University of Virginia football coach and former George Washington University grid mentor, will be guest speaker at the dinner honoring the school's athletes.

Chuck Bradfield, Keyser Grid Star, Has Hand Injuries

Charles "Chuck" Bradfield, 18, Keyser High School junior, and leading scorer in the tri-state area during the 1961 football season, suffered injuries to his right hand yesterday while operating a saw at the Vo-Ag Building in the New Creek area, Keyser.

One of Bradfield's fingers was broken and the others were lacerated. He was taken to the Potomac Valley Hospital for treatment. It was reported last evening that "Chuck" will not lose any of his fingers.

A fullback, Bradfield led area and Potomac Valley Conference scorers last year with 86 and 67 points, respectively. He also headed the P.V.C. point scorers in 1960 with a total of 53.

Only nine major league players have won the triple crown for hitting, RBIs and home runs. Rogers Hornsby did it twice. Mickey Mantle was the last to do it in 1956. Babe Ruth never achieved this.

Jim Bunning Turns Back Birds, 5-1

Colavito, Fernandez Hit Two-Run Homers

DETROIT (UPI) —Jim Bunning scattered three hits Monday night to pitch the Detroit Tigers to a 5-1 victory over the Baltimore Orioles.

Bunning, who last week was accused of cutting baseballs with his belt buckle by Oriole manager Billy Hitchcock, stayed free of controversy in a masterful job which earned him his fifth victory against two defeats.

Russ Snyder ruined Bunning's shutout bid in the ninth when he led off with his fourth home run of the season.

Rocky Colavito drove in three of the Tiger runs with a double in the first and a two-run homer in the fourth. Chico Fernandez added another two-run homer in the same inning to round out Detroit's scoring.

Milt Pappas was the victim of the Detroit homers and suffered his third defeat against five victories.

Bunning set the Orioles down with only one baserunner until the fifth inning when Charlie Lau reached first base on Jake Wood's error and Jerry Adair singled to center for the Orioles first hit.

Baltimore	000	000	001— 1 3 1
Detroit	100	400	00x— 5 6 1

Pappas, Hoeft 5 and Lau. Bunning 5-2 and Brown. Loser—Pappas 5-3. HRs—Colavito, Fernandez, Snyder.

Elston Howard of the Yankees and Jim Pagliaroni, rookie Red Sox receiver, are the only two to throw out Luis Aparicio on a steal three times in a season.

Newcombe Will Pitch In Japan

Don Signs With Chunichi Dragons

HONOLULU (UPI) — Don Newcombe, former major league pitching star, was signed Monday to hurl for the Chunichi Dragons of Japan's professional Central League.

Kazuo Takata, vice president and general manager of the Dragons, reportedly signed Newcombe for $18,000 for the remainder of the season.

During his hey-day, Newcombe, now nearing 36 years, was one of the top hurlers in the National League. Pitching for the old Brooklyn Dodgers, he had a 27-7 record in 1956; was the Dodgers' star hurler on three pennant-winning teams; and was named to the all-star league team four times. He was chosen the "most valuable" player in the National League in 1956.

In the majors he won 143 games, lost 81.

Hill, Gendebien Win Sports Car Race

NUERBURGRING, Germany (UPI)—World driving champion Phil Hill of Santa Monica, Calif., teamed with Oliver Gendebien of Belgium Sunday to win the 1,000-kilometer (621 miles) Nuerburgring sports car race.

Hill and Gendebien, driving a Ferrari, negotiated the 44 laps in 7 hours, 33 minutes, 27.7 seconds for an average speed of 82.34 miles per hour.

An intermittent rain, plus the fact that Hill and Gendebein were never seriously challenged by other cars, was held responsible for the comparatively slow speed.

Another Ferrari captured second place as Mike Parkes of England and Willy Mairesse of Belgium were clocked in 7:35:49.

Rod Thorn Is Voted Athlete-Of-The-Year By Southern Conference

West Virginia Cage, Baseball Star Honored

Leads Mountaineers To 2 Championships; Whaley Is Runner-Up

WASHINGTON (UPI) — West Virginia's Rod Thorn, who led the Mountaineers to championships in two sports, was named Monday as Southern Conference athlete-of-the-year.

It was the eighth consecutive year that a basketball standout was voted the award by the Southern Conference Sportswriters Association.

Thorn, a standout in both basketball and baseball, edged The Citadel's Bill Whaley, an all-conference selection in football and baseball.

Other Vote-Getters

Other vote-getters, in order of their finish, were Richmond halfback Earl Stoudt, the conference football player-of-the-year; Virginia Tech basketballer Bucky Keller; Richmond's Mel Rideout (football-baseball); VMI's Joe Gedro (basketball-baseball); and West Virginia's Tom Shafer (baseball.

Thorn, a 6-foot-4-inch junior from Princeton, W. Va., ranked among the nation's leading-scorers in basketball with 23.7 points per game and was the first baseman on the Mountaineers' pennant-winning baseball team.

He was voted the league's basketball player-of-the-year and most valuable player in the 1962 Southern Conference tournament. In addition, he led the Mountaineers in scoring, rebounding and assists.

As a first baseman, Thorn was an honorable mention selection on the all-conference team.

Whaley, a senior from Clearwater S. C., led the league in total offense in football, hit .422 for the Gamecock baseball team and was an all-league selection in both sports.

Thorn, although primarily a basketball standout, was the first two-sport participant to win all-athlete honors since VMI's Johnny Mapp, a football and track star, won in 1954. Mapp was also the last non-basketballer to win.

Previous Winners

Previous award winners were William & Mary's Jeff Cohen (1961), West Virginia's Jerry West (1960, 1959; Washington & Lee's Dom Flora (1958); West Virginia's Rod Hundley (1957) and Furman's Darrell Floyd (1956, 1955).

Casper's Earnings Soar To $41,208.44

DUNEDIN, Fla. (UPI)—Arnold Palmer retaind his lead in Monday's unofficial professional golfers money standings, but the margin was sliced heavily through runner-up Billy Casper Jr.'s triumph in the Indianapolis Speedway tournament.

Palmer, who had won six of 14 tourneys this year, has earned $59,308.33. Casper's Speedway victory was worth $9,000 and lifted the Californian's winnings to $41,208.44.

Gene Littler held third place with $25,654.16. Phil Rodgers was fourth with $21,155.79 and Bob Nichols, fifth, with $20,803.01.

Maryland's Brown Tops ACC Hitters

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Tom Brown, Maryland's All-Atlantic Coast Conference first baseman - outfielder, has topped the ACC batting record, but he'll have to wait a while to find out if his .449 average goes into the books as the new record.

Roger Coon of Wake Forest, with a .387 average, will play in the NCAA District 3 Tournament later this week, and still has a slim chance of topping Brown's mark.

Clemson's Johnny Jones and Joey Taylor ranked two-three behind Brown with marks of .439 and .403.

Brown also leads the conference in triples with five, according to ACC Service Bureau statistics.

Brown is second to Wake Forest's Bill Scripture in stolen bases with 16.

West Virginia State Shoot Set Next Week

The forty-second annual West Virginia state trapshooting championships will be held at the Greenbrier Gun Club, White Sulphur Springs, June 1, 2 and 3.

The state singles title will be at stake Saturday while Sunday's program will be highlighted by the state doubles and handicap championships.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Branch Rickey may have been right, at that.

The high caliber of the 1962 rookie crop indicates the old boy had the right idea when he insisted a few years back there were plenty of good young ball players around to stock a third major league.

They sneered at expansion-minded Rickey then but a flock of those kids he had in mind actually are big leaguers today—not in the proposed third league but in the two old circuits whose ranks were opened up by the creation of two new teams each.

The list includes sensations like pitcher Bo Belinsky of the Los Angeles Angels and outfielder Manny Jimenez of Kansas City as well as solid performers like Tom Tresh of the Yankees, Julio Gotay of the Cardinals and Chuck Hiller of the Giants.

Surprisingly, the American League has the edge in rookie talent though the AL expanded in 1961, a year ahead of the National.

Belinsky, Jimenez Leading

Belinsky and Jimenez are running a dandy race for rookie honors in the junior league. The cocky Los Angeles pitcher included a no-hitter as he won six of his first seven and manager Bill Rigney insists Bo is no flash in the pan. Jimenez, hitting .383 in the weekend averages, has been leading the league consistently.

Minnesota, last year's top flop, may have cemented relations with the first division again by gambling with a pair of rookies—third baseman Rich Rollins and second baseman Bernie Allen. Rollins has been hitting for high average. Allen, better known for his football at Purdue, has been hitting well and turned into a good run producer.

The Yankees came up with four nifties in infielders Tresh, Phil Linz and Joe Pepitone and pitcher Jim Bouton. Tresh has been the regular shortstop from the start in place of the absent Tony Kubek, in service. Linz is a spare wheel but delivered at third base when Clete Boyer was hurt. Pepitone was carried as first base insurance for oft-injured Bill Skowron but really got into the home run groove when he took over left field in an injury emergency and may be a tough cookie to push out of the lineup.

Chisox Landed Hershberger ....

The Chicago White Sox are stumping for outfielder Mike Hershberger for rookie honors and the Orioles are convinced outfielder John (Boog) Powell is a great find.

The Indians have outfielder Ty Cline and pitcher Sam McDowell, and the Angels regard Dean Chance as a hot pitching prospect if not as sensational as Belinsky. Dave Stenhouse of the Senators has been leading the league in the earned runs pitching department.

In the National League, Gotay and Hiller have solved infield problems for the Cards and Giants both at bat and afield.

The hapless Cubs have a couple of nifties in second baseman Ken Hubbs and outfielder Lou Brock. Add Larry Burright of the Dodgers, Ted Savage of the Phillies, and Jim Hickman of the Mets.

About all you can do is list the top hopefuls. As frequently happens, a guy you never heard of in May can wind up on top in the scramble for rookie-of-the-year honors come October.

Three Postponed Hot Stove Games Reset Saturday

Rain yesterday washed out two games scheduled in the Hot Stove Baseball League and James F. Twigg, president, announced that both contests have been rescheduled for Saturday.

The B.P.O. Elks will play Bedford Road Optimists at 3 p.m., at Mason Road Field, and B'nai B'rith will oppose the Outdoor Club at 6 p.m., at Penn Avenue Field.

Twigg also announced that the postponed game last week between the Rotary Club and Jaycees has been reset for Saturday at 4 p.m., at Penn Avenue Field.

Rams Sign Pellegrini

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Bob Pellegrini, linebacker obtained by the Los Angeles Rams recently from the Philadelphia Eagles, has signed his 1962 contract, general manager Elroy Hirsch announced Monday.

The Rams traded lineman John Baker to the Eagles for Pellegrini who had five seasons of NFL experience.

Charles Babst Award May Be Grant-In-Aid

Fred Hetzel Sparkles Cadets Win 11 In Row

By C. V. BURNS

CHARLES E. BABST, donor of the Babst Award which goes to Allegany High School's outstanding student-athlete each year, is considering changing the award (a gold wrist watch) to a one-year grant-in-aid for educational use.

Mr. Babst suggests that the grant be $200 or $250 with the recipient receiving a certificate or medallion as tangible evidence that he received the award.

Thought must be given, however, as to what should be done in the event the award winner does not elect to further his education.

The award donor intends to sound out a number of people to get a cross section of opinion. Then he will make up his mind whether to change or leave it as it is.

Charley writes:

"I would possibly make the change with the 40th Award in 1964, this of course, if I decide to make the change."

Among those whom Mr. Babst has contacted are Ralph R. Webster, superintendent of Allegany County schools, and Dr. W. Ardell Haines, principal of Allegany High School.

Mr. Babst also plans to get in touch with Dr. Hugh MacMillan, Tommy Mont, Tommy Powers, Albert Wolfe, Randy Millholland and other recipients of the award.

The 38th Babst Award this year is an Omega watch and it will be presented at Allegany High's commencement Wednesday, June 6.

An Allegany High alumnus, Babst is employed by Celanese Fibers Company at Charlotte, N. C. In fact, he has been with Celanese since the early days of the local plant at Amcelle.

ACCOMPANYING Mr. Babst's letter is a stack of clippings from the Charlotte Observer, covering basketball games played by the Davidson College freshmen team.

Young Fred Hetzel, the All-America player from Landon School in Washington, who received a scholarship at Davidson last year, sparked the Wildkittens in scoring the past season with an average of 22.5 points and 17 rebounds a game.

The Davidson Frosh posted a 15-3 record and among their victims were Wake Forest, South Carolina, North Carolina, Duke, Clemson, Furman and The Citadel.

The 6-foot-8 Davidson sharpshooter is a son of Frederick Zimmerman Hetzel, former Allegany High School and the University of Maryland athlete, who is now director of the United States Employment Service at Washington, D. C. Fred managed the local office of the Maryland Department of Employment Security prior to the Second World War and moved on to Washington about 1942.

FREDERICK High School not only has a standout track and field team this year but its baseball team owns an 11-1 record.

The Cadets lost their first start of the season to South Hagerstown's Rebels, 2-1, and then reeled off eleven consecutive victories.

Last week Frederick defeated the Rebels, 5-2, behind Lefty Chris Sole for its 11th in a row. The loss was the first of the season for Phil Petry, South High's slab ace. The Rebels have won 11 and lost three.

ONLY SEVEN of the top 52 football players in Pennsylvania qualified academically for admission to the University of Pittsburgh last fall.

WHEN Joe Garlitz, Times-News typo, saw an item in this column about Ken Overlin, he remarked:

"Gee, I used to spar with that guy in the Navy before he became NBA middleweight champion. He was Fleet champion in those days."

JOHNNY O'Keeffe is moving again.

The much traveled racing official and writer of racing stories, is leaving Wheeling Downs as general manager and goes to Blue Bonnets in Montreal as director of racing.

O'Keeffe served as an official as Fairgo on the way up and has a lot of friends in this section.

He has two f's in his last name and many people believe it's a typographical error.

FRANCIS "Blackie Mihalic, an alumnus of Johnstown Catholic High School, where he played four years as a guard, is the new head football coach at Johnstown High School, succeeding Dave Hart, who resigned to join the grid staff at the University of Kentucky.

"Blackie" played with St. Vincent's unbeaten team of 1949 which beat Emory & Henry in the Tangerine Bowl game and has served as line coach under Hart for eight years.

Detroit Puts Al Kaline On Disabled List

Recalls Terry Fox From Denver Club

DETROIT (UPI) —The Detroit Tigers Monday placed injured outfielder Al Kaline on the disabled list for a minimum of 30 days and recalled pitcher Terry Fox from Denver "for purposes of a medical examination."

Kaline was placed on the disabled list by general manager Rick Ferrell after team physician Dr. Russell Wright examined the right fielder's broken collarbone.

Wright took additional X-rays and removed a cast which had been placed on the injured shoulder in New York after the injury Saturday.

He told Ferrell that he saw no way he could change earlier predictions that Kaline would be out of the lineup for eight weeks.

Wright said he took off the cast and replaced it with a web and strap harness because the case had slipped somewhat.

Kaline was sidelined at New York when he made a diving catch of Elston Howard's liner for the final out of the game.

He had to be helped off the field and fainted twice in the dressing room.

Kaline was taken to a New York hospital where X-rays showed a broken collarbone.

Fox will be examined by Wright and trainer Jack Homel who will determine whether he will rejoin the Tigers on the active roster.

Fox, a right-hander, was the ace of the Detroit bullpen last season but developed a sore shoulder this spring and was sent to Denver early this month.

Laver Is Victor In 5-Set Match

PARIS (UPI) —Australia's Rod Laver, favoring an injured left thumb, advanced to the semi-finals of the French international tennis tournament singles Monday with a 6-4, 3-6, 2-6, 10-8, 6-2 victory over countryman Marty Mulligan.

Laver, the southpaw - swinging Wimbledon champion, ripped the nail of his left thumb Sunday when his racquet hand was smashed during a fall in his quarter-final victory over Sergio Jacobini of Italy.

The red-haired Aussie was severely tested all the way as he had difficulty clasping his bandaged left hand around the racquet. Laver took three hours to win the five-set match.

In another quarter-final match, Nicola Pietrangeli, Italy, won the first set from Neale Fraser of Australia when heavy rain caused play to be halted for the day.

Play Practice Game

The Twins of the Dan Division and the Orioles of the Dapper Division of the Dapper Dan Little League will meet in a practice game today at 6 p.m., at Constitution Park.

Notre Dame's baseball team beat Northwestern the other day by the football score of 28-7.

Preston Madden said Ycaza will ride Madden's T. V. Lark, 1961 grass racing champion.

Maryland's Brown Tops ACC Hitters

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Tom Brown, Maryland's All - Atlantic Coast Conference first baseman - outfielder, has topped the ACC batting record, but he'll have to wait a while to find out if his .449 average goes into the books as the new record.

Roger Coon of Wake Forest, with a .387 average, will play in the NCAA District 3 Tournament later this week, and still has a slim chance of topping Brown's mark.

Clemson's Johnny Jones and Joey Taylor ranked two-three behind Brown with marks of .439 and .403.

Brown also leads the conference in triples with five, according to ACC Service Bureau statistics.

Brown is second to Wake Forest's Bill Scripture in stolen bases with 16.

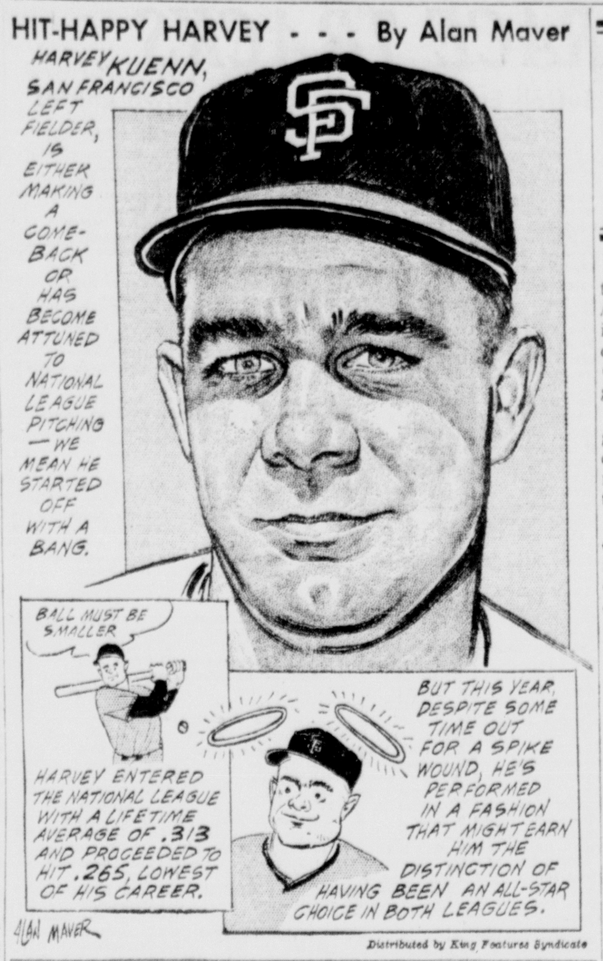
HIT-HAPPY HARVEY - - - By Alan Maver



The Sports Patrol

By STEVE SNIDER
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Branch Rickey may have been right, at that.

The high caliber of the 1962 rookie crop indicates the old boy had the right idea when he insisted a few years back there were plenty of good young ball players around to stock a third major league.

They sneered at expansion-minded Rickey then but a flock of those kids he had in mind actually are big leaguers today—not in the proposed third league but in the two old circuits whose ranks were opened up by the creation of two new teams each.

The list includes sensations like pitcher Bo Belinsky of the Los Angeles Angels and outfielder Manny Jimenez of Kansas City as well as solid performers like Tom Tresh of the Yankees, Julio Gotay of the Cardinals and Chuck Hiller of the Giants.

Surprisingly, the American League has the edge in rookie talent though the AL expanded in 1961, a year ahead of the National.

Belinsky, Jimenez Leading

Belinsky and Jimenez are running a dandy race for rookie honors in the junior league. The cocky Los Angeles pitcher included a no-hitter as he won six of his first seven and manager Bill Rigney insists Bo is no flash in the pan. Jimenez, hitting .383 in the weekend averages, has been leading the league consistently.

Minnesota, last year's top flop, may have cemented relations with the first division again by gambling with a pair of rookies—third baseman Rich Rollins and second baseman Bernie Allen. Rollins has been hitting for high average. Allen, better known for his football at Purdue, has been hitting well and turned into a good run producer.

The Yankees came up with four nifties in infielders Tresh, Phil Linz and Joe Pepitone and pitcher Jim Bouton. Tresh has been the regular shortstop from the start in place of the absent Tony Kubek, in service. Linz is a spare wheel but delivered at third base when Clete Boyer was hurt. Pepitone was carried as first base insurance for oft-injured Bill Skowron but really got into the home run groove when he took over left field in an injury emergency and may be a tough cookie to push out of the lineup.

Chisox Landed Hershberger

The Chicago White Sox are stumping for outfielder Mike Hershberger for rookie honors and the Orioles are convinced outfielder John (Boog) Powell is a great find.

The Indians have outfielder Ty Cline and pitcher Sam McDowell, and the Angels regard Dean Chance as a hot pitching prospect if not as sensational as Belinsky. Dave Stenhouse of the Senators has been leading the league in the earned runs pitching department.

In the National League, Gotay and Hiller have solved infield problems for the Cards and Giants both at bat and afield.

The hapless Cubs have a couple of nifties in second baseman Ken Hubbs and outfielder Lou Brock. Add Larry Burright of the Dodgers, Ted Savage of the Phillies, and Jim Hickman of the Mets.

About all you can do is list the top hopefuls. As frequently happens, a guy you never heard of in May can wind up on top in the scramble for rookie-of-the-year honors come October.

Three Postponed Hot Stove Games Reset Saturday

Rain yesterday washed out two games scheduled in the Hot Stove Baseball League and James F. Twigg, president, announced that both contests have been rescheduled for Saturday.

The B.P.O. Elks will play Bedford Road Optimists at 3 p.m., at Mason Road Field, and B'nai B'rith will oppose the Outdoor Club at 6 p.m., at Penn Avenue Field.

Twigg also announced that the postponed game last week between the Rotary Club and Jaycees has been reset for Saturday at 4 p.m., at Penn Avenue Field.

Rams Sign Pellegrini

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Bob Pellegrini, linebacker obtained by the Los Angeles Rams recently from the Philadelphia Eagles, has signed his 1962 contract, general manager Elroy Hirsch announced Monday.

The Rams traded lineman John Baker to the Eagles for Pellegrini who had five seasons of NFL experience.

Charles Babst Award May Be Grant-In-Aid

Fred Hetzel Sparkles Cadets Win 11 In Row

By C. V. BURNS

CHARLES E. BABST, donor of the Babst Award which goes to Allegany High School's outstanding student-athlete each year, is considering changing the award (a gold wrist watch) to a one-year grant-in-aid for educational use.

Mr. Babst suggests that the grant be $200 or $250 with the recipient receiving a certificate or medallion as tangible evidence that he received the award.

Thought must be given, however, as to what should be done in the event the award winner does not elect to further his education.

The award donor intends to sound out a number of people to get a cross section of opinion. Then he will make up his mind whether to change or leave it as it is.

Charley writes:

"I would possibly make the change with the 40th Award in 1964, this of course, if I decide to make the change."

Among those whom Mr. Babst has contacted are Ralph R. Webster, superintendent of Allegany County schools, and Dr. W. Ardell Haines, principal of Allegany High School.

Mr. Babst also plans to get in touch with Dr. Hugh MacMillan, Tommy Mont, Tommy Powers, Albert Wolfe, Randy Millholland and other recipients of the award.

The 38th Babst Award this year is an Omega watch and it will be presented at Allegany High's commencement Wednesday, June 6.

An Allegany High alumnus, Babst is employed by Celanese Fibers Company at Charlotte, N. C. In fact, he has been with Celanese since the early days of the local plant at Amcelle.

ACCOMPANYING Mr. Babst's letter is a stack of clippings from the Charlotte Observer, covering basketball games played by the Davidson College freshmen team.

Young Fred Hetzel, the All-America player from Landon School in Washington, who received a scholarship at Davidson last year, sparked the Wildkittens in scoring the past season with an average of 22.5 points and 17 rebounds a game.

The Davidson Frosh posted a 15-3 record and among their victims were Wake Forest, South Carolina, North Carolina, Duke, Clemson, Furman and The Citadel.

The 6-foot-8 Davidson sharpshooter is a son of Frederick Zimmerman Hetzel, former Allegany High School and the University of Maryland athlete, who is now director of the United States Employment Service at Washington, D. C. Fred managed the local office of the Maryland Department of Employment Security prior to the Second World War and moved on to Washington about 1942.

FREDERICK High School not only has a standout track and field team this year but its baseball team owns an 11-1 record.

The Cadets lost their first start of the season to South Hagerstown's Rebels, 2-1, and then reeled off eleven consecutive victories.

Last week Frederick defeated the Rebels, 5-2, behind Lefty Chris Sole for its 11th in a row. The loss was the first of the season for Phil Petry, South High's slab ace. The Rebels have won 11 and lost three.

ONLY SEVEN of the top 52 football players in Pennsylvania qualified academically for admission to the University of Pittsburgh last fall.

WHEN Joe Garlitz, Times-News typo, saw an item in this column about Ken Overlin, he remarked:

"Gee, I used to spar with that guy in the Navy before he became NBA middleweight champion. He was Fleet champion in those days."

JOHNNY O'Keeffe is moving again.

The much traveled racing official and writer of racing stories, is leaving Wheeling Downs as general manager and goes to Blue Bonnets in Montreal as director of racing.

O'Keeffe served as an official as Fairgo on the way up and has a lot of friends in this section.

He has two f's in his last name and many people believe it's a typographical error.

FRANCIS "Blackie Mihalic, an alumnus of Johnstown Catholic High School, where he played four years as a guard, is the new head football coach at Johnstown High School, succeeding Dave Hart, who resigned to join the grid staff at the University of Kentucky.

"Blackie" played with St. Vincent's unbeaten team of 1949 which beat Emory & Henry in the Tangerine Bowl game and has served as line coach under Hart for eight years.

Detroit Puts Al Kaline On Disabled List

Recalls Terry Fox From Denver Club

DETROIT (UPI) —The Detroit Tigers Monday placed injured outfielder Al Kaline on the disabled list for a minimum of 30 days and recalled pitcher Terry Fox from Denver "for purposes of a medical examination."

Kaline was placed on the disabled list by general manager Rick Ferrell after team physician Dr. Russell Wright examined the right fielder's broken collarbone.

Wright took additional X - rays and removed a cast which had been placed on the injured shoulder in New York after the injury Saturday.

He told Ferrell that he saw no way he could change earlier predictions that Kaline would be out of the lineup for eight weeks.

Wright said he took off the cast and replaced it with a web and strap harness because the case had slipped somewhat.

Kaline was sidelined at New York when he made a diving catch of Elston Howard's liner for the final out of the game.

He had to be helped off the field and fainted twice in the dressing room.

Kaline was taken to a New York hospital where X-rays showed a broken collarbone.

Fox will be examined by Wright and trainer Jack Homel who will determine whether he will rejoin the Tigers on the active roster.

Fox, a right-hander, was the ace of the Detroit bullpen last season but developed a sore shoulder this spring and was sent to Denver early this month.

Laver Is Victor In 5-Set Match

PARIS (UPI) —Australia's Rod Laver, favoring an injured left thumb, advanced to the semi - finals of the French international tennis tournament singles Monday with a 6-4, 3-6, 2-6, 10-8, 6-2 victory over countryman Marty Mulligan.

Laver, the southpaw - swinging Wimbledon champion, ripped the nail of his left thumb Sunday when his racquet hand was smashed during a fall in his quarter-final victory over Sergio Jacobini of Italy.

The red-haired Aussie was severely tested all the way as he had difficulty clasping his bandaged left hand around the racquet. Laver took three hours to win the five-set match.

In another quarter-final match, Nicola Pietrangeli, Italy, won the first set from Neale Fraser of Australia when heavy rain caused play to be halted for the day.

Play Practice Game

The Twins of the Dan Division and the Orioles of the Dapper Division of the Dapper Dan Little League will meet in a practice game today at 6 p.m., at Constitution Park.

Notre Dame's baseball team beat Northwestern the other day by the football score of 28-7.

Preston Madden said Ycaza will ride Madden's T. V. Lark, 1961 grass racing champion.

Champion Kelso Makes First 1962 Start At Aqueduct Tomorrow

Carry Back Will Oppose Top Gelding

Shoemaker To Ride Kelso, 4-5 Choice In Metropolitan

By JOHN CHANDLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Kelso, the country's champion race horse for the past two seasons, makes his first start of 1962 in the $100,000-added Metropolitan Handicap Wednesday at Aqueduct as an odds-on 4-5 favorite.

Eight rivals, headed by Mrs. Katherine Price's Carry Back, will oppose the great gelding, who is attempting to make thoroughbred history by winning the rich handicap triple for the second time.

First Of Triple

The one-mile Metropolitan is the first of the elusive triple, which is followed by the Suburban Handicap July 4 and the Brooklyn on July 21, both at 1¼ miles and $100,000-added events. Kelso won all three in 1961, duplicating the 1913 feat of Whisk Broom II and again by Tom Fool in 1953. Other fine runners have failed in one or the other of the races in the past.

Kelso, owned by Mrs. Richard C. duPont and trained by Carl Hanford, equalled the Aqueduct track record with ease in a workout May 19. His last start was the $100,000 Washington, D.C., International last Nov. 11 when he was upset by T. V. Lark on the Laurel, Md., grass course.

Carry Back is seeking his first stakes victory of the year after six tries.

Kelso was assigned 133 pounds by Tommy Trotter, New York racing secretary, for the Met, or 10 pounds more than Carry Back, the 1961 champion 3-year-old. Kelso now is a 5-year-old who won the Metropolitan last Memorial Day under 130 pounds.

Willie Rides Kelso

Willie Shoemaker rides Kelso, while there is a rider change on Carry Back with Johnny Rotz replacing Manuel Ycaza. Rotz won the Preakness with Greek Money, nosing out Ridan, with Ycaza up. When Pimlico stewards suspended Ycaza, Price signed Rotz for Carry Back.

ROOKIES IN '500'—Among the rookies in the 500-mile race in Indianapolis Memorial Day are these four drivers, Jim McElreath of Arlington, Tex., Dan Gurney of Costa Mesa, Calif., Chuck Hulse of Downey, Calif., and Allen Crowe of Springfield, Ill. Another was Chuck Rodee, Indianapolis.

Auto Racer Hurt

FLEMINGTON, N.J (U.PI) — Jack Hamilton, 28, of Thorfare, N.J., was in serious condition at the Hunterdon Medical Center Monday from injuries received in a stock car race.

Hamilton crashed into a guard rail Saturday night at the Felmington fair ground. His car bounced back on the track and turned over several times before coming to rest on its roof.

The hospital reported he suffered a concussion and possibly sustained spinal injuries.

Wayne Harper, Jim Brady To Captain Beall Eleven

Mountaineers Open 10-Game Card With Petersburg Sept. 7

Wayne Harper and Jim Brady have been elected co-captains of Beall High School's football team for the 1962 season, it was announced yesterday by Coach Gerard Calhoun.

Harper, who tips the beam at 190 and is 5-feet-1, played a halfback position and was the Mountaineers' leading ground-gainer last season with a total of 872 yards in 126 carries for an average of 6.9 yards per carry. Wayne plays defensive halfback and is one of the leading tacklers on the squad. He played one year of junior varsity football, earned a letter last year at the right halfback position and will be a senior next year. Wayne is a brother of Bob Harper, Beall's P.V.C. halfback selection last season.

Brady, a 17-pounder, 5-feet-11, plays at quarterback position on offense, line-backer on defense and will be a senior next year. He earned a varsity letter, played two years of JV football as a quarterback and is a 440 sprint runner in track.

Beall will have only ten lettermen returning next season, having graduated 22 senior lettermen.

The Mountaineers' 10-game schedule is a sfollows:

Sept. 7—Petersburg, home (PVC).
Sept. 14—Meyersdale, home.
Sept. 21—Southern, home (PVC).
Sept. 28—Fort Hill, home.
Oct. 5—Romney, away (PVC).

Roman Line Heads Jersey Derby Field

$100,000 Added Race Set For Wednesday

CAMDEN, N.J (UP.I)—Roman Line, 26 to 1 in the Kentucky Derby and 14 to 1 in the Preakness, probably will be the favorite Wednesday in the $100,000 Added Jersey Derby at Garden State Park.

The game little son of Roman licked just about every other horse expected to start in the mile and one-eighth race when he was second in the Kentucky Derby and third in the Preakness.

At Churchill Downs Roman Line finished ahead of Sunrise County, Crimson Satan, Green Hornet and Admiral's Voyage. At Pimlico Vimy Ridge, Flying Johnnie, Sunrise County, Green Hornet, Crimson Satan and Jaipur trailed Roman Line across the finish line.

Decidedly, the Kentucky Derby winner, and Greek Money and Ridan which were one-two in a thrilling finish of the Preakness, will not run in the Jersey Derby.

With those horses on the sidelines trainer V. R. (Tennessee) Wright is confident he will score the biggest win of his career. Although he has saddled more than 1,600 winners, Wright never has hauled down a purse the size of the one up for grabs in the Jersey Derby.

"Our little old colt is real good right now and he has beat about everybody in it except Cyane," Wright points out. Cyane and Sidluck are the only expected starters that haven't finished behind Roman Line in the last three weeks.

Sir Gaylord, the pre-Derby choice now in stud at Paris, Ky., carries a stud fee of $5,000 for live foal.

Chicago Ends Losing Streak, Beats Spahn

Hobbie Is Victor Over Braves, 2-1

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Cubs ended a three-game losing streak, conquered nemesis Warren Spahn and helped Glen Hobbie to his first season victory in edging the Milwaukee Braves 2-1 Monday.

Hobbie, whose six losses included a 4-2 decision to Spahn in his last start five days ago, methodically stifled the Braves on four hits, including a single and double by Roy McMillan and a last inning homer by Hank Aaron, his 9th.

He struck out five and walked three in completing his first game since a 2-0 loss to Houston in the second game of the season.

The Cubs, opening a 19-game home stand after a 5-8 road trip, backed Hobbie with a two-run splurge in the fourth inning.

Spahn, who now has a 41-19 career record against the Cubs, evened his season record at 5-5. The Cubs got only four hits off him. He fanned six.

Milwaukee rookie Mack Jones was ejected in the seventh inning. He took a called strike, said something to plate umpire Chris Pelekoudas, and was promptly waved to the showers.

The hard luck Hobbie had lost 10 games in a row before snapping the string. He last won July 9, 1961, 9-8 over Philadelphia. He had lost nine straight to Milwaukee.

Fighting Players Invited To Garden To "Watch" Fight

NEW YORK (AP) — Madison Square Garden officials sent an invitation Monday to Willie Mays and Orlando Cepeda of the San Francisco Giants and Elio Chacon and Roger Craig of the New York Mets to come and watch a fight instead of staging one.

They were the four leading antagonists in the big scrap at San Francisco Sunday, when the Giants took a doubleheader from the Mets.

"We've sent them all invitations to the fight next Saturday night, when both teams will be in New York," a Garden spokesman said. "We'd like to have them come and sit together, real friendly like. Of course, if they're still mad by then, the ring is always available."

Charley Scott of Philadelphia and Stan Harrington of Honolulu, welterweights, are the regularly scheduled combatants in the 10-round nationally televised fight.

Ellis Of St. John's Signed By Lakers

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Los Angeles Lakers, whose primary problem the past couple of years has been the absence of a good big man to use at center, hoped that worry was solved Monday with the addition of their first 1962 draft choice, 6-foot-10 Leroy Ellis.

Signing of Ellis, who received honorable mention all - America honors last season at St. John's University, was announced Sunday by the Lakers.

Los Angeles general manager Lou Mohs said Ellis, who has tremendous speed, could well be the fastest big man in the National Basketball Association.

Champion Kelso Makes First 1962 Start At Aqueduct Tomorrow

Carry Back Will Oppose Top Gelding

Shoemaker To Ride Kelso, 4-5 Choice In Metropolitan

By JOHN CHANDLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Kelso, the country's champion race horse for the past two seasons, makes his first start of 1962 in the $100,000-added Metroplitan Handicap Wednesday at Aqueduct as an odds-on 4-5 favorite.

Eight rivals, headed by Mrs. Katherine Price's Carry Back, will oppose the great gelding, who is attempting to make thoroughbred history by winning the rich handicap triple for the second time.

First Of Triple

The one-mile Metropolitan is the first of the elusive triple, which is followed by the Suburban Handicap July 4 and the Brooklyn on July 21, both at 1¼ miles and $100,000-added events. Kelso won all three in 1961, duplicating the 1913 feat of Whisk Broom II and again by Tom Fool in 1953. Other fine runners have failed in one or the other of the races in the past.

Kelso, owned by Mrs. Richard C. duPont and trained by Carl Hanford, equalled the Aqueduct track record with ease in a workout May 19. His last start was the $100,000 Washington, D.C., International last Nov. 11 when he was upset by T. V. Lark on the Laurel, Md., grass course.

Carry Back is seeking his first stakes victory of the year after six tries.

Kelso was assigned 133 pounds by Tommy Trotter, New York racing secretary, for the Met, or 10 pounds more than Carry Back, the 1961 champion 3-year-old. Kelso now is a 5-year-old who won the Metropolitan last Memorial Day under 130 pounds.

Willie Rides Kelso

Willie Shoemaker rides Kelso, while there is a rider change on Carry Back with Johnny Rotz replacing Manuel Ycaza. Rotz won the Preakness with Greek Money, nosing out Ridan, with Ycaza up. When Pimlico stewards suspended Ycaza, Price signed Rotz for Carry Back.

Auto Racer Hurt

FLEMINGTON, N.J (U.PI) — Jack Hamilton, 28, of Thorfare, N.J., was in serious condition at the Hunterdon Medical Center Monday from injuries received in a stock car race.

Hamilton crashed into a guard rail Saturday night at the Felmington fair ground. His car bounced back on the track and turned over several times before coming to rest on its roof.

The hospital reported he suffered a concussion and possibly sustained spinal injuries.

Wayne Harper, Jim Brady To Captain Beall Eleven

Mountaineers Open 10-Game Card With Petersburg Sept. 7

Wayne Harper and Jim Brady have been elected co-captains of Beall High School's football team for the 1962 season, it was announced yesterday by Coach Gerard Calhoun.

Harper, who tips the beam at 190 and is 5-feet-1, played a halfback position and was the Mountaineers' leading ground-gainer last season with a total of 872 yards in 126 carries for an average of 6.9 yards per carry. Wayne plays defensive halfback and is one of the leading tacklers on the squad. He played one year of junior varsity football, earned a letter last year at the right halfback position and will be a senior next year. Wayne is a brother of Bob Harper, Beall's P.V.C. halfback selection last season.

Brady, a 17-pounder, 5-feet-11, plays at quarterback position on offense, line-backer on defense and will be a senior next year. He earned a varsity letter, played two years of JV football as a quarterback and is a 440 sprint runner in track.

Beall will have only ten lettermen returning next season, having graduated 22 senior lettermen.

Roman Line Heads Jersey Derby Field

$100,000 Added Race Set For Wednesday

CAMDEN, N.J (UP.I)—Roman Line, 26 to 1 in the Kentucky Derby and 14 to 1 in the Preakness, probably will be the favorite Wednesday in the $100,000 Added Jersey Derby at Garden State Park.

The game little son of Roman licked just about every other horse expected to start in the mile and one-eighth race when he was second in the Kentucky Derby and third in the Preakness.

At Churchill Downs Roman Line finished ahead of Sunrise County, Crimson Satan, Green Hornet and Admiral's Voyage. At Pimlico Vimy Ridge, Flying Johnnie, Sunrise County, Green Hornet, Crimson Satan and Jaipur trailed Roman Line across the finish line.

Decidedly, the Kentucky Derby winner, and Greek Money and Ridan which were one-two in a thrilling finish of the Preakness, will not run in the Jersey Derby.

With those horses on the sidelines trainer V. R. (Tennessee) Wright is confident he will score the biggest win of his career. Although he has saddled more than 1,600 winners, Wright never has hauled down a purse the size of the one up for grabs in the Jersey Derby.

"Our little old colt is real good right now and he has beat about everybody in it except Cyane," Wright points out. Cyane and Sidluck are the only expected starters that haven't finished behind Roman Line in the last three weeks.

Sir Gaylord, the pre-Derby choice now in stud at Paris, Ky., carries a stud fee of $5,000 for live foal.

Chicago Ends Losing Streak, Beats Spahn

Hobbie Is Victor Over Braves, 2-1

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Cubs ended a three-game losing streak, conquered nemesis Warren Spahn and helped Glen Hobbie to his first season victory in edging the Milwaukee Braves 2-1 Monday.

Hobbie, whose six losses included a 4-2 decision to Spahn in his last start five days ago, methodically stifled the Braves on four hits, including a single and double by Roy McMillan and a last inning homer by Hank Aaron, his 9th.

He struck out five and walked three in completing his first game since a 2-0 loss to Houston in the second game of the season.

The Cubs, opening a 19-game home stand after a 5-8 road trip, backed Hobbie with a two-run splurge in the fourth inning.

Spahn, who now has a 41-19 career record against the Cubs, evened his season record at 5-5. The Cubs got only four hits off him. He fanned six.

Milwaukee rookie Mack Jones was ejected in the seventh inning. He took a called strike, said something to plate umpire Chris Pelekoudas, and was promptly waved to the showers.

The hard luck Hobbie had lost 10 games in a row before snapping the string. He last won July 9, 1961, 9-8 over Philadelphia. He had lost nine straight to Milwaukee.

Fighting Players Invited To Garden To "Watch" Fight

NEW YORK (AP) — Madison Square Garden officials sent an invitation Monday to Willie Mays and Orlando Cepeda of the San Francisco Giants and Elio Chacon and Roger Craig of the New York Mets to come and watch a fight instead of staging one.

They were the four leading antagonists in the big scrap at San Francisco Sunday, when the Giants took a doubleheader from the Mets.

"We've sent them all invitations to the fight next Saturday night, when both teams will be in New York," a Garden spokesman said. "We'd like to have them come and sit together, real friendly like. Of course, if they're still mad by then, the ring is always available."

Charley Scott of Philadelphia and Stan Harrington of Honolulu, welterweights, are the regularly scheduled combatants in the 10-round nationally televised fight.

Ellis Of St. John's Signed By Lakers

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Los Angeles Lakers, whose primary problem the past couple of years has been the absence of a good big man to use at center, hoped that worry was solved Monday with the addition of their first 1962 draft choice, 6-foot-10 Leroy Ellis.

Signing of Ellis, who received honorable mention all - America honors last season at St. John's University, was announced Sunday by the Lakers.

Los Angeles general manager Lou Mohs said Ellis, who has tremendous speed, could well be the fastest big man in the National Basketball Association.

BASEBALL QUEEN—A junior at St. Joseph's Nursing School at Omaha, Neb., Katherine Ann Martin, 21, has been selected as 1962 College World Series queen to rule over the N.C.A.A. tourney, Omaha, June 11-15.

Market Suffers Greatest Decline Since '29 Crash

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market Monday suffered its greatest decline since Oct. 28, 1929 during the great crash. Trading boomed to the highest level since July 21, 1933.

The epic slide cost investors another $28.5 billion on paper, leaving the total value of all listed shares at about $288 billion against $357.8 billion as of April 30 and $387.8 billion at the end of 1961.

Dow-Jones industrials finished out the disastrous session at 576.93 off 34.95 on the day and down more than 23 per cent since the indicator was at its all-time high only 5½ short months ago.

Dow-Jones rails skidded 6.88 to 122.35 and utilities plunged 8.22 to 104.35. The inclusive Standard & Poor's 500 stock index fell 3.97 to 55.50.

Brokers, analysts and chartists were all stunned by the extent of the market's newest dip. Fresh business incentives for the selling were almost entirely lacking and the President's top economic advisor, Walter Heller, said during the day that there were no economic grounds for the "disturbing correction."

Trading during the session amounted to 9,350,000 shares compared with 6,380,000 last Friday and 9,572,000 on July 21, 1933.

Most Wall Street observers refused to call the action "panic selling" although many thought it "blind and unreasonable."

Market Suffers Greatest Decline Since '29 Crash

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market Monday suffered its greatest decline since Oct. 28, 1929 during the great crash. Trading boomed to the highest level since July 21, 1933.

The epic slide cost investors another $28.5 billion on paper, leaving the total value of all listed shares at about $288 billion against $357.8 billion as of April 30 and $387.8 billion at the end of 1961.

Dow-Jones industrials finished out the disastrous session at 576.93 off 34.95 on the day and down more than 23 per cent since the indicator was at its all-time high only 5½ short months ago.

Dow-Jones rails skidded 6.88 to 122.35 and utilities plunged 8.22 to 104.35. The inclusive Standard & Poor's 500 stock index fell 3.97 to 55.50.

Brokers, analysts and chartists were all stunned by the extent of the market's newest dip. Fresh business incentives for the selling were almost entirely lacking and the President's top economic advisor, Walter Heller, said during the day that there were no economic grounds for the "disturbing correction."

Trading during the session amounted to 9,350,000 shares compared with 6,380,000 last Friday and 9,572,000 on July 21, 1933.

Most Wall Street observers refused to call the action "panic selling" although many thought it "blind and unreasonable."

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♣	Pass	1 ♥	Pass
2 NT	Pass	4 NT	Pass
Pass	Pass

Today's hand was subjected to a wide variety of treatment when it occurred in the Open Pairs of the Spring Nationals recently held in Lexington, Ky. Some pairs reached rather aggressively for a slam in no trump and met with success or failure depending on their skill in manipulating the cards.

The bidding sequence presented above, which incidentally meets with our approval, was encountered at a great many tables. South's hand containing 19 high card points is too strong for a one no trump opening, so he makes an introductory call of one club and then jumps to two no trump on the next round. North's bid of four no trump is a raise inviting partner to carry on to a slam if he has 20 points. North's hand is superficially worth 12 points; however the jack of clubs is entitled to some promotion and the ten of spades is another plus factor. South should decline his partner's invitation, but some players elected to proceed to six no trump, which proved to be a rather hazardous commitment.

West was hard put to find a satisfactory opening lead and the usual choice of the six of diamonds was as effective as any. East's jack of diamonds forced the ace, and declarer went to work on the spade suit at once leading the deuce from his hand and covering West's four with the dummy's ten. While the finesse for the spade queen may be taken in either direction, the play thru West has the added percentage of picking up the entire suit when the latter holds the doubleton queen.

When the ten of spades held at trick two, declarer led a diamond to his ten driving out West's king. The eight of diamonds was returned and the queen was played from dummy. East showed out, discarding a club. The spades were run next and, when the suit broke, South was able to cash the 13th spade. Both West and the dummy discarded clubs, and East was obliged to do the same in order to hold on to four hearts. The top hearts were played and, on the third round, West found himself caught in the vise of a squeeze. If he threw the seven of diamonds it would establish the dummy's four, and if he discarded a club declarer could take the last three tricks in that suit.

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The State Road Commission will receive bids Tuesday on 31 highway improvement projects in 24 counties.

The commission said the jobs, including construction of twin bridges over Sec. 60-2 on Interstate 64 in Cabell County, are expected to cost about $1.9 million. Most of them involve resurfacing work on about 170 miles of roads.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♣	Pass	1 ♥	Pass
2 NT	Pass	4 NT	Pass
Pass	Pass

Today's hand was subjected to a wide variety of treatment when it occurred in the Open Pairs of the Spring Nationals recently held in Lexington, Ky. Some pairs reached rather aggressively for a slam in no trump and met with success or failure depending on their skill in manipulating the cards.

The bidding sequence presented above, which incidentally meets with our approval, was encountered at a great many tables. South's hand containing 19 high card points is too strong for a one no trump opening, so he makes an introductory call of one club and then jumps to two no trump on the next round. North's bid of four no trump is a raise inviting partner to carry on to a slam if he has 20 points. North's hand is superficially worth 12 points; however the jack of clubs is entitled to some promotion and the ten of spades is another plus factor. South should decline his partner's invitation, but some players elected to proceed to six no trump, which proved to be a rather hazardous commitment.

West was hard put to find a satisfactory opening lead and the usual choice of the six of diamonds was as effective as any. East's jack of diamonds forced the ace, and declarer went to work on the spade suit at once leading the deuce from his hand and covering West's four with the dummy's ten. While the finesse for the spade queen may be taken in either direction, the play thru West has the added percentage of picking up the entire suit when the latter holds the doubleton queen.

When the ten of spades held at trick two, declarer led a diamond to his ten driving out West's king. The eight of diamonds was returned and the queen was played from dummy. East showed out, discarding a club. The spades were run next and, when the suit broke, South was able to cash the 13th spade. Both West and the dummy discarded clubs, and East was obliged to do the same in order to hold on to four hearts. The top hearts were played and, on the third round, West found himself caught in the vise of a squeeze. If he threw the seven of diamonds it would establish the dummy's four, and if he discarded a club declarer could take the last three tricks in that suit.

Magazine Reports W. Va. Income Up

The magazine said March income totaled $273.6, up 4.6 per cent from March a year ago but down $1.1 million from the February level this year.

House Battles Over Plan On Reapportioning

November Voters' Approval Needed

By GEORGE BOWEN

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—The Maryland House of Delegates struggled in virtually continous session Monday to adopt a form of reapportionment that was theatened with court protest.

The House was on the verge of substituting a population formula for one recommended by Gov. Tawes. The governor's proposal hand been endorsed as minimum by advocates of more equitable representation for the suburban metropolitan counties.

The House approved tentatively the alternate plan to become effective in 1966 if approved by the voters in November.

Special Elections

Meanwhile, the delegates waited for later Monday night to receive a similar four-year interim plan. Special primary elections would be held July 17 to name extra candidates for the November elections.

Costs of the special primaries will be shared equally by the state and five counties and two Baltimore City districts in which they would be held. The total cost was estimated at $350,000.

Nominations for the existing number of delegates already had been made May 15.

Royce Hanson, president of a citizens reapportionment committee which filed a suit that led to a special session of the legislature, attacked the plan before the House.

His committee had endorsed the one from the governor as a minimum proposal.

"We will have no choice but to fight this in court," Hanson said of the pending plan. "They want to turn our silk purse into a sow's ear. They are out to scuttle us."

Hanson said none of the governor's spokesmen in the legislature had stood up for the original plan introduced last Friday when the special session convened.

"It looks like a three-ring circus without a ringmaster," Hanson said.

The plan endorsed by Hanson's committee would have given the state's four most populous counties 15 more seats. The substitute would give them only 12.

Standing, left to right, are J. Wallace Close, this city, re-elected chairman; Melvin S. Sloan, Lonaconing; Edgar M. Lewis, this city, re-elected vice chairman, and Victor M. Hebb, city. The committee will meet again Thursday night at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club with the Republican candidates who were nominated in the primary.

Boy Guilty In Theft Of Autos

Karl Richard Glass, 18, of the Frostburg area, who was arrested last week in connection with a series of auto thefts, yesterday was given a 70-day suspended sentence on three motor vehicle charges.

Earlier in the day, Glass was found guilty of contributing to the delinquency of five other minor boys who were involved in the case and was committed to the County Jail for 60 days in default of a $100 fine imposed by Juvenile Magistrate Louis A. Fatkin. Glass also received a six-month suspended term in the House of Correction.

In the hearing in Trial Magistrate Court before Magistrate F. Allan Weatherholt, Glass was given 30-day suspended terms for operating a vehicle while his licence was refused and unauthorized use of a motor vehicle. He was given a 10-day suspended sentence for displaying tags issued to another vehicle.

Magistrate Weatherholt also ordered Glass to be examined at a mental health clinic.

In the case of the other five youths involved in the auto thefts, Magistrate Fatkin found one not guilty and continued the case of two others as those two had previous court records.

The two others were found guilty and given suspended sentences as they had no previous records.

The case of stolen autos was solved last week by Tfc. Bruce E. Diehl. Eight cars had been taken from diffenent car lots during the past month.

Salvation Army Enrolls 150 At Service Here

Divisional Affairs Attracts 500 Persons

Some 150 new soldiers from the 23 Salvation Army corps of the Maryland and Northern West Virginia Division were enrolled at a special service Saturday night at Centre Street Methodist Church, according to Capt. Fred Overton, commanding officer here.

All 23 corps from Maryland, West Virginia and Virginia in this division were represented at the service attended by about 500 persons. The Hampden Corps of Baltimore was best represented with 23 new soldiers. Parkersburg, W. Va., and Cumberland had the next largest groups.

Commissioner William Davidson of Atlanta, Ga., territorial commander for the Salvation Army, enrolled the soldiers and adherents Saturday night and also delivered the message of the evening.

Commissioner and Mrs. Davidson were supported by Lt. Col. and Mrs. Paul Thronburg, Baltimore, commanders of this division.

Major William R. H. Goodier directed the 45-member divisional band in several selections.

Robert Hunter Jr., chairman of the Cumberland Salvation Army Advisory Board, extended greetings to the visitors from three states.

Major and Mrs. Oscar Eckstein sang a duet and the benediction was delivered by Lt. Col. Lillian Hansen.

Allegany High Seniors Bid Farewell At Assembly

Allegany High School seniors had their traditional farewell at the senior assembly last Friday which included the presentation of the gavel, the moving-up of classes in the auditorium seats and a dramatic production.

Tex Dickerson, senior class president, presented the gavel of leadership to John Eyler, junior class president.

Seniors relinquished their auditorium seats to the junior class members and the sophomores moved up to the junior seats.

A spoofing of the seniors' six years at Allegany was performed on the stage for the upperclassmen. Linda Wolfe wrote and directed the scenes. Over 100 seniors took part in the production. John Balch, Patty Trozzo and Linda Wolfe narrated the years between grades seven and 12. Groups reenacted the life of the Class of 1962 with special costumes, lights, props and scenery.

Little-known or half-forgotten incidents in corridors, cafeteria, study hall and classrooms were remembered through the script and dramatized by Tom Hubbs, Richard Hartley, Sonja Keyser, Sharon Cunningham, Steve Curry, Earl Hardman, Ronald Schade, Linda Gibbs, Terry Bailey, Vicki Eackles, Tom Brown and Wilma Nunamaker with the company of seniors.

"Dear Old High School" was sung by the seniors as the finale.

Teacher's Kin Hurt In Crash

The 19-year-old daughter of a former teacher at Allegany High School was hospitalized yesterday after an auto in which she was riding went out of control and crashed on the Pennsylvania Turnpike claiming the lives of three persons.

Miss Diana Krueger, daughter of Lorin Krueger, Trenton, N.J., who taught science at Allegany Junior High School, was on her way home from Indiana University at Bloomington.

Killed were Reginald Massimi, 55, his daughter, Elaine, 19, and Vincent Grondski, 67, all of Trenton. Miss Kreuger was admitted to Frick Memorial Hospital in Mount Pleasant, Pa.

Police said the car went out of control, crossed the divider strip and rammed broadside into a tractor-trailer which jackknifed and upset.

Mr. Krueger was in Cumberland in 1940 and taught at the local school five or six years.

Former Keyser Man Named To PSC In W. Va.

Barron Appoints Joseph E. Hodgson

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Gov. W. W. Barron announced Monday the appointment of State Institutions Commissioner Joseph E. Hodgson, 49, of Fayetteville as chairman of the Public Service Commission (PSC).

At the same time, Barron appointed attorney Chauncey H. Browning Jr., 27, of Charleston to succeed Hodgson. Both appointments are effective Thursday, June 1.

Hodgson succeeds Fred H. Caplan of Clarksburg on the PSC. Caplan was named to replace Judge Leslie E. Given on the State Supreme Court May 18. Both Hodgson and Caplan are Democrats.

The unexpired term which Hodgson was named runs until May 31, 1967, while the Browning appointment is for the unexpired term ending June 30, 1963. Both appointments must be confirmed by the State Senate.

The appointment of Hodgson will not change the political complexion of the three-member PSC. Its other two members are Republicans Hillis Townsend of Charleston and Myron (Rusty) Renick of Fayetteville.

Hodgson served as an assistant attorney general while Barron was attorney general from 1956 to 1961. He was appointed institutions commissioner in January, 1961.

Browning is a son of State Supreme Court Judge Chauncey Browning of Logan.

A native of Morgantown, Hodgson received his law degree from West Virginia University in 1938 and practiced law in Keyser from 1938-1942.

He also was prosecuting attorney in Mineral County and was assistant prosecutor in Fayette County.

Automatic Phone Dialers Introduced In This Area

Two new types of automatic telephone dialers are now available, according to the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company.

These new repertory dialers—Card Dial and Rapidial—are designed primarily for business use. Both operate on the principal of automatic dialing of pre-recorded telephone numbers.

The new dialing devices help to save time and increase efficiency for any type of business with a repertoire of local, long distance and internal calls.

Although similar in concept, the two new dialers serve slightly different needs.

The Card Dialer has the automatic dialing mechanism built right into the telephone. It has an unlimited capacity and is especially useful in calling groups of individuals regularly. Coded plastic cards, on which the user has previously punched out the specified telephone number, control the dialing equipment. The same phone also can be used for conventional calling.

Rapidial is a separate unit with a built in memory — magnetic tape — and is used as a companion to any telephone dial equipment. It has a capacity of up to 290 names and numbers which can easily be changed on the magnetic tape by the user. All entries are stored within the Rapidial's memory unit and are readily accessible.

Both of these repertory dialers are especially useful for sales and reservation personnel, dispatchers, bankers, brokers, retailers and others who make frequent calls to the same number.

House Battles Over Plan On Reapportioning

November Voters' Approval Needed

By GEORGE BOWEN

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—The Maryland House of Delegates struggled in virtually continous session Monday to adopt a form of reapportionment that was theatened with court protest.

The House was on the verge of substituting a population formula for one recommended by Gov. Tawes. The governor's proposal hand been endorsed as minimum by advocates of more equitable representation for the suburban metropolitan counties.

The House approved tentatively the alternate plan to become effective in 1966 if approved by the voters in November.

Special Elections

Meanwhile, the delegates waited for later Monday night to receive a similar four-year interim plan. Special primary elections would be held July 17 to name extra candidates for the November elections.

Costs of the special primaries will be shared equally by the state and five counties and two Baltimore City districts in which they would be held. The total cost was estimated at $350,000.

Nominations for the existing number of delegates already had been made May 15.

Royce Hanson, president of a citizens reapportionment committee which filed a suit that led to a special session of the legislature, attacked the plan before the House.

His committee had endorsed the one from the governor as a minimum proposal.

"We will have no choice but to fight this in court," Hanson said of the pending plan. "They want to turn our silk purse into a sow's ear. They are out to scuttle us."

Hanson said none of the governor's spokesmen in the legislature had stood up for the original plan introduced last Friday when the special session convened.

"It looks like a three-ring circus without a ringmaster," Hanson said.

The plan endorsed by Hanson's committee would have given the state's four most populous counties 15 more seats. The substitute would give them only 12.
